Turn Over Gold! Hitler's Demand to Czechs

SEEKS TO BUILD UP GERMANY'S MONEY POSITION

Wants 43 Millions from Republic.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—German economic circles today said that the Nazi government is demanding 43 million dollars of Czechoslovakia's gold reserve which served as coverage for the money circulating in Sudetenland. This is on top of the sums Germany is claiming as "reparations."

Frantisek Chvalkovsky

Because Germany bolstered her financial position with the help of the Austrian gold reserve, authorities now hope it will be possible to strengthen it further by getting a part of the Czechoslovak gold reserve.

Foreign Chiefs to Confer.

A struggle is being waged daily in Berlin among members of the economic and financial committee appointed by the powers which signed the Munich agreement for the settlement of the Czechoslovak-German crisis.

[Czechoslovak negotiators yesterday rejected Hungarian territorial demands. Hungary threatened to bolt the conference at Komarom on the Czech-Hungarian frontier. Troops on both sides of the border were ready for hostilities. Adolf Hitler was reported to have been urged by Slovak delegates to mediate the dispute. Details on page 10.]

Czechoslovakia's new foreign minister, Frantisek Chvalkovsky, who formerly was ambassador to Washington, D. C., Berlin, and Rome, will arrive in Berlin tomorrow for a conference with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Economic matters will play an important part in their negotiations which will also deal with the question of whether or not a plebiscite is to take place in Sudeten areas. Reichsfuehrer Hitler also is scheduled to reach here tomorrow and to make the final decision on the plebiscite.

Here's German Argument.

Experts estimate that 3 billion Czechoslovak crowns circulated in the Sudetenland. The Germans ordered that twelve German pfennigs should be paid for every Czechoslovak crown, though the official rate is only 8.75 pfennigs. It would take 360,000,000 marks to pay for the 3 billion crowns. The Czech crowns were covered by 30 per cent of gold, or 108,000,000 gold marks—a little more than $43,000,000.

The Czechs contend that if the Germans felt like paying more for the Czech crown than its international value, they must pay the difference. The Germans argue that the Sudetens are entitled to a substantial part of the Czech gold reserve because "it was earned to a great extent by the exports of industries in the Sudetenland."

Sudetens Exported More Goods.

In recent years Sudeten industry exported more goods than did German industry because firms which did not want to buy in Nazi Germany placed their orders partly in Austria and partly in Czechoslovakia. It is to be expected that Sudeten exports will drop quickly after old contracts have expired.

The Germans would like to simplify currency problems, and suggest that Czechoslovakia adopt the mark as her currency and form a customs union with Germany.

This is one of the few points where Germany finds her new friend, England, unwilling to let her have her way. The British remonstrate that England guaranteed the integrity of the shrunken Czechoslovak republic and that financial independence should be part of that guarantee.

Germany is confident that regardless of England's objections she will succeed in establishing her economic leadership eastward.

RAP DEMOCRAT DRIVE IN COUNTY AS VOTE RACKET

Bipartisan Deals Hit by Republicans.

Details of the racketeering methods and bipartisan deals which Republicans charge are factors in the drive for votes for the Democratic county ticket were disclosed in two important political developments yesterday. They were:

Daniel A. Serritella.

1. Startlingly frank and revealing explanations of the bipartisan deals through which Daniel A. Serritella, pal of Al Capone, and James B. Leonardo, both Republicans, will find no Democratic opposition to their respective campaigns for reëlection to the state senate from the 1st and 17th districts.

2. Sweeping charges by Republicans that Democratic leaders are using their official positions to intimidate business men and force labor unions to reject opportunities to post Republican campaign signs.

Leonardo Tells Story.

Withdrawal of Democratic candidates who opposed Serritella and Leonardo — candidates who polled many more votes in the primary election than either of the two Republicans—was reported in THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning. During the day a reporter sought out the men involved to ask for personal accounts of these strange happenings.

Leonardo was found in his office on the second floor of his garage at Morgan and Taylor streets, in the midst of the west side Italian colony. His story was one that went back into the history of the "Bloody 20th" ward and its Italian people.

"You have to understand my community and my people to understand my political situation," he said. "Otherwise an outsider might be perplexed.

"To begin with, I've never had any deal with the Democratic organization. My relations with Democratic office holders in the last sixteen years have always been personal and not political.

Contests First Campaign.

"I was a candidate for the senate from this district for the first time in 1922. My Democratic opponent was Edward Glackin, now secretary of the board of local improvements. He won. I charged fraud and filed a contest.

"The late Ald. Johnny Powers, then Democratic boss in this ward, called me in. He said that a contest would hurt a lot of people. He said that, if I'd drop my contest, he would make me senator in 1926. He did.

"In 1930 I was opposed by Harold Mortell, an Irishman. By this time this district had filled with Italians and I won with their help. In 1934 Nick Mastro was the Democratic nominee. He discovered that all his friends were also my friends. So he withdrew.

"Things are like that when you've been reared in this Italian colony. I was born six blocks from here fifty years ago.

"This year Michael Iarrussi wanted to be a candidate. I've known Mike for thirty-five years. He has an undertaking parlor three blocks from here. He's well liked by my people.

"Mike was given a big primary vote, 5,605 votes. If you'll remember lots of Republicans voted in the Democratic primary last April. I didn't have any contest and didn't need more than the 257 votes I received.

Things Are Like That.

"After he was nominated Mike found that the friends who had supported him were also my friends. They wouldn't vote against me this fall. Things are like that in the Italian colony.

"He withdrew. That's all there is to it. It's not true that I personally

A VERY GOOD REASON WHY MR. ZIMMERMAN WON'T PAY THAT TAX

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The following self-explanatory letter was made public today at the office of the deputy city collector's office in Brooklyn:

"Dear Deputy City Collector:

"May I inform you [for the third time] that I have made every effort to persuade Mr. Leon Zimmerman to meet his obligations to the city of New York, especially the retail sales tax. And for the third time may I inform you he refused to listen to me.

"The first time you requested the tax receipts Mr. Leon Zimmerman was dead. He was dead the second time you wrote. He is still dead.

"But don't despair. Try me again when the next instalment is due. Perhaps we'll have more luck. Or, better still, suppose you run down to the Maspeth cemetery [path 3, plot 33] and see if you can't persuade him to see your side of it.

25,000 RUN OVER POLICE; ALL WANT CHARWOMAN JOB

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—A milling throng of women, estimated at 25,000, stormed a Washington police station today in an effort to qualify for jobs as charwomen in federal buildings here.

Two thousand application blanks were to be given out, but officials, who said they feared a riot, stopped the distribution at 1,500. Police lines were broken in disorder.

The crowd—a mass of Negroes with a sprinkling of white women—began forming last night. Police estimated 3,000 were in line at 3 a. m., all wanting to get the $90 a month jobs. Many brought blankets, pillows, and chairs.

Mother Given Pills by Bull, Says Sidley

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 12.—The basis of William Horlick Sidley's belief that his mother was slowly poisoned at the estate of William Perkins Bull was revealed here today.

In an affidavit read at a crown hearing young Sidley testified that he had seen Bull give pills to his mother, Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, Racine, Wis., malted milk heiress, who died July 6 at Bull's home.

Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, former lieutenant governor of Ontario, also was quoted at the hearing as saying, two days before Mrs. Sidley died, that Bull "had to be watched."

Testimony Read at Hearing.

The hearing, before Justice G. P. McTague, was on an injunction requested to prevent Coroner Smirle Lawson from proceeding with an inquest into the death of the heiress. Mrs. Sidley's son, one of the five executors of her $2,000,000 estate, has urged Canadian authorities to press the inquest. The four other executors oppose it.

Young Sidley's testimony, which was taken last month in Racine by a Canadian court commission, was read at the hearing today by Arthur Slaght, crown counsel.

Sidley in his affidavit said that he had seen the pills, the nature of which he could not ascertain, given to his mother about three times a day for a week while he was at the Bull home, where his mother had been a guest for several months.

Pills Carried in Pocket.

The affidavit said that Bull carried the pills, which were round, white tablets, in his vest pocket. They were given to Mrs. Sidley "when Bull thought of it" or "when Mrs. Sidley asked for them," according to young Sidley's statement.

Slaght said he brought forth the evidence in answer to the suggestion that young Sidley had no right to be suspicious about his mother's death.

The declaration that Dr. Bruce had said Bull had to be watched was made by D. L. McCarthy, Toronto lawyer for the four executors who oppose the inquest.

"I am told that Bruce said Perkins Bull had to be watched, or words to that effect," McCarthy related in connection with a visit Dr. Bruce paid to the Bull home to see Mrs. Sidley. He said the remark was made to Dr. Ray Farquharson, Mrs. Sidley's attending physician.

Lawyer Opposes Inquest.

McCarthy contended there was no reason for the inquest, because doctors had reported that Mrs. Sidley died of natural causes and a postmortem examination confirmed their report.

Executors who seek to prevent the inquest are William Horlick, a brother of Mrs. Sidley; Bernard F. Magruder, an official of the Horlick Malted Milk company; Miss Andrea Pultz, private secretary to William Horlick, and Col. Roy F. Farrand, headmaster of St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis. They oppose the inquest in an effort to prevent testimony concerning Mrs. Sidley's mental condition during the year before her death from becoming a matter of record. They also said the cause of death already had been established as a brain disease.

ENTRIES IN LOOP AT EVERY BLOCK; BEGIN WORK DEC. 15

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The Public Works administration announced today that a grant of $18,000,000 has been indorsed for an underground transit system to cost $38,910,000. President Roosevelt's approval is certain, PWA officials said.

The grant is $3,715,000 more than Chicago had asked originally. The city's application contemplated a grant of $14,285,000 for a $32,000,000 subway.

Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes turned down the plans submitted by Chicago's engineers in favor of a more extensive program drafted by a $250 a day special engineering commission of his own. These experts recommended a subway costing $7,000,000 more than the city had planned.

Political Aspects Apparent.

Final approval of the grant came after five months of dawdling, of assurances followed by delays, of public hearings at which Ickes presided in a judicial capacity.

It was finally apparent to all observers that the subway had become a political football which Ickes was afraid to pass lest it be intercepted by Mayor Edward J. Kelly, to whom he is opposed. Both sides wanted the political credit presumed to be attached to acquisition of improved transportation for Chicagoans.

In a 1,500 word letter to President Roosevelt, Ickes outlined today the history of the subway application and sought to explain his "hesitation" in recommending the grant.

What Plan Provides.

Mayor Kelly has signified his willingness to accept the PWA plan for a subway, according to Ickes. It provides for the following:

1. A two track subway in State street extending from 14th street on the south northward to Division street, thence west in Division street to Clybourn avenue to the Northwestern "L" line near Halsted street. The subway is to be extended at the south end sufficiently to avoid the necessity of an open portal and elevated structure in State street. There are to be mezzanine stations, center platforms, and tracks built by tunneling methods in the clay.

Link to Logan Square.

2. A two track subway in Dearborn street from Congress street on the south northward to Lake street, westward to Canal street, and thence, by way of Milwaukee avenue, to a connection with the Logan Square-Hum-

Mayor Sights Huge Benefits; 7,000 to Get Jobs.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Locations of twenty-seven of the subway passenger stations to be built at important intersections were disclosed yesterday by maps of "Subway plan No. 2." So far fourteen station sites have been selected for the State street tunnel and thirteen for the Dearborn street tube.

The State street subway, it was disclosed, will have a continuous loading platform in the loop district with entrances at each of the cross streets between Randolph and Van Buren streets. While the Dearborn street tube plans have not been completed, a similar arrangement probably will be followed in that tunnel in the section between Randolph and Van Buren streets.

Stations in State Street.

Roosevelt road	Randolph
Harrison	Lake
Van Buren	Grand
Jackson	Chicago
Adams	Division and Clark
Monroe	Halsted and Clybourn
Madison
Washington

Van Buren	La Salle and Lake
Jackson	Wells and Lake
Adams	Halsted and Milwaukee
Monroe
Madison	Chicago and Milwaukee
Washington
Randolph	Division and Milwaukee
Clark and Lake

The spending of nearly 40 million dollars for the subways will be a great boon to Chicago business, Mayor Kelly said yesterday after getting word that only formal details remain to be settled to get the federal aid project under way.

Start Digging by Dec. 15.

Engineering plans, he said, have progressed to the point where an actual start on the digging can be made by Dec. 15, well before the Jan. 1 deadline set by the Public Works administration in approving an $18,000,000 grant for the project.

"This is going to be a great thing for business," the mayor said. "Forty million dollars is a lot of money to spend in one city. It ought to speed up settlement of the whole traction problem, too."

From the PWA came an estimate that more than seven thousand men would be given employment on the project itself. Others estimate that at least an equal number will be given work producing materials and supplies and servicing the construction program.

What Subways Will Do.

The big question in the minds of most traction riders when they learned the project was assured was, "What will the subways do for me?"

The biggest gains will be to the riders of the Northwestern elevated and the Logan Square-Humboldt park branch of the elevated. They will get a ride of two to three miles in the tunnels direct to the center of the loop. Those using the south side elevated will ride in the tubes for eleven or twelve blocks if they are going to center.

The immediate gain to the street car rider is nil unless he can use the rapid transit lines on a transfer. Those riding the Garfield park, Douglas park, and Lake street branches of the elevated will not get subway rides and their only gain will be from the fact that their trains can get around the loop a little faster because many trains then will be going through the tunnels.

150,000 to Use Tubes.

It is estimated that approximately 150,000 of the present 250,000 daily users of the elevated will ride in the subways. This is on the basis that each passenger takes two rides a day. The Logan Square-Humboldt park elevated gets the biggest break. It has a subway all to itself for its 56,000 daily rides.

The Northwestern elevated carries about 100,000 riders a day in each direction. Approximately two-thirds of these will go through the State street tube. The rest will be taken over the existing elevated railway line down to Wells street. The 39,000 [each direction] riders of the South side elevated can go into the tunnel at 14th street.

Joshua D'Esposito, one of the four members of a PWA engineering board which drew the plans for the subways, predicted that users of the subways coming from the north shore would gain eight to nine minutes by riding in the State street tunnel.

Advantage of Transfer Plan.

The Dearborn street subway extending out Milwaukee avenue, he said, would save riders of the Logan Square elevated ten minutes. A universal transfer system resulting from unification of the elevated and surface lines companies, he declared, would greatly increase the value of the tunnels. Then, he said, street car riders could transfer to the elevated lines and save time in getting to the loop. If the subways are to be of real value there must be a unified system, he added.

D'Esposito, with the other members of the PWA subway board, will supervise construction of the subways for the federal government. The other board members are Col. Henry M. Waite of Cincinnati, chairman, and Henry M. Brinckerhoff and Robert Ridgway of New York. The other members are expected back in Chicago next week, D'Esposito said.

The subway board fixed plans for low level subways about thirty-five feet down. They will be constructed by tunneling through the clay subsurface.

One advantage of this type of construction over the open cut method is that the street surface will be disturbed only at a few places. City engineers said shafts will be dug in the streets at intervals of about a quarter of a mile and the underground tunneling carried on from these points.

All of the work will be done by private contractors who will bid for the work. The city engineers said the first contracts can be ready for bids about Dec. 1.

Work in All Weather.

Another advantage of the tunneling method, the PWA board said, is that work can proceed in all weather, enabling the city to get the larger PWA subway project through in the same time that the smaller subways proposed by the city would have required.

Under the PWA contract the work must be substantially finished by the middle of 1940. The building of the tunnels, it is estimated, can be completed by then. However, the equipping of the tubes and stations will require several months additional time so that actual operation of trains in the tubes probably will not take place for about two years.

6 WOMEN ON JURY TO TRY UNION AID IN SLAYING CASE

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The state tomorrow will present its evidence against Arnold Johnson, accused as the slayer of William S. Brown, president of General Drivers' union, No. 544.

A jury of six men and six women was completed today. The trial opened last Wednesday. The last jurors accepted came from a panel of twenty drafted from the streets. Nearly 100 veniremen had been examined earlier.

Attorneys for Johnson, a labor organizer who had been Brown's bodyguard, demanded the court declare a mistrial on a claim that the drafting of jurors on the street constituted unlawful drawing. The motion was denied by Judge Vince A. Day.

18 MILLION PWA GRANT ASSURES CITY A SUBWAY

Approval Finally Given by Ickes for Project.

boldt elevated lines near Paulina street. This, according to the engineering commission's report, will permit express service from Logan square direct to stations in the loop on Lake and Dearborn streets and serve the heavy street car transfer in Milwaukee avenue.

3. The building of connecting passageways from Dearborn street to State street subway stations so that passengers may transfer between north and south and east and west subways.

Explain Dearborn Extension.

The extension of the Dearborn street subway to Congress street was recommended, the engineers said, because there is a need of a major highway to the west side from the lake front. The Burnham plan for Chicago designated Congress street for such an improvement.

"Although the proposed subway is sound from an engineering point of view," Ickes wrote to the President in explaining the long delay in approval of the grant, "and although Chicago has badly needed a subway for many years, I have hesitated to recommend that you make a grant for the reason that there is at this time no person or corporation to whom the city could make a lease for use of the subway."

Points to Receivership.

Ickes referred to the fact that the surface lines and the rapid transit lines which operate the elevated railroads are in receivership before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

"There is no positive guarantee that the city can offer that the traction question that has afflicted Chicago for so many years can be definitly settled so that there will be a user of the subway when completed," Ickes continued.

"Naturally, I have not wanted to recommend to you a project which could not be put to the use for which it was intended when the project itself is completed. I have made this clear to Mayor Kelly. The mayor has assured me on his part that the city will lose no time in putting through a unification ordinance which will cover all of the surface, elevated, and bus services of the city.

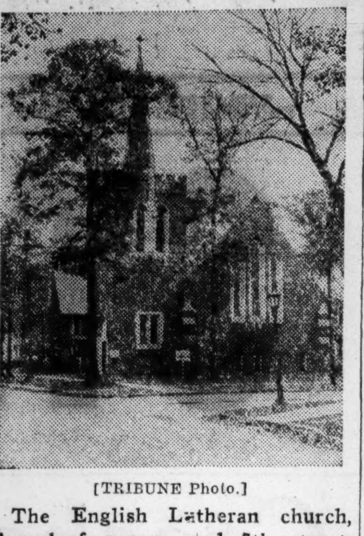
Foresees Reorganization.

"He believes and it seems to me, not without good reason, that with the assistance that Judge Wilkerson can legitimately render and which it is the opinion of the city officials he is willing to render, it will be possible to reorganize these traction systems within a short period, at which time there is no reason to believe that the city council of Chicago will not pass a satisfactory unification ordinance.

"Under the law, this ordinance will have to be submitted to a referendum, but that can be held within a short time under the law and it is fair to assume that the voters of Chicago will welcome an opportunity to give themselves a modern and up-to-date traction system.

"Once a unification ordinance has been passed, it will be an easy matter to enter into an operating lease for the use of the proposed subway. But even if the worst should happen and a reorganization ordinance should not have been adopted by June 30, 1940, my engineers advise me that the subway could be used for buses."

Church for Sale



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The English Lutheran church, Greenleaf avenue and 7th street, Wilmette, which has been offered for sale.

The building and parish house of the Wilmette English Lutheran church, at 7th street and Greenleaf avenue in the suburb, were offered for sale yesterday at $40,000. Unable to meet principal and interest payments on a $36,000 mortgage, the 300 members of the congregation have turned over the church to the mortgagee.

The cornerstone of the church was laid in 1922. The cost of this building and the parish house and the manse was $140,000. After vacating the church three weeks ago the congregation reorganized as the Wilmette Evangelical Lutheran church. It is now holding services at the Masonic temple in the suburb. The Rev. David Kabele is pastor of the church.

SUBWAY PLANS DISAPPOINT SOME SECTIONS OF CITY

Aldermen See No Benefit for Their Wards.

Several aldermen from the west and southwest sides expressed disappointment yesterday because the PWA subway plans will not benefit transportation in their sections of the city.

Some of the aldermen complained that the plans approved by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes set up a "Chinese wall" in Dearborn street because the depth of the subway [thirty-five feet] will make it difficult ever to provide east-west subways across the present loop area. The city's original subway plan provided for a high level [eighteen feet] subway in State street and two low level east-west street car tubes ending in Grant park.

Southwest Side Disappointed.

"I cannot hide my disappointment," said Ald. John E. Egan [13th]. "Southwest side aldermen didn't know what was going to happen. This plans means only that it will still take us more than an hour to reach the loop. Members of the southwest transportation committee, composed of organization leaders, will discuss the situation next week."

Ald. Bryan Hartnett [12th] said the original city plan, calling for street car tubes in the loop, was much better. He was hopeful, he said, that the west and southwest would be cared for with extensions later.

"I believe the city's plan was a better one to start with," said Ald. George D. Kells [28th]. "The west side needs and should have more attention; the north and south sides already have better transportation than the west. Still, we have to have a subway and I suppose concessions were necessary."

Calls City Plan Better.

Thomas J. Terrell [29th] said he was disappointed, that the other plan was better in that it would have taken street cars off loop streets. Anyhow, he added, there would be many jobs for men in his ward when construction starts.

"I am sorry that the plan doesn't provide a subway in State street as far south as Archer avenue," said Ald. James J. McDermott [14th]. "That would have helped solve the transportation problems of the south and southwest sides."

Ald. Joseph Kacena Jr. [23d] said his ward wouldn't benefit in any way unless Congress street is widened. "I'm not in favor of a subway tube to our district," he added. "If people could get to the loop in five minutes business men out here would suffer heavy losses."

Arvey Favors Ickes' Plan.

One announced proponent of the Ickes' plan was Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th]. He said he favored it over the city's proposed system. A tieup with the Lake street elevated lines would speed train schedules on the west side lines, he said.

Ald. Roger J. Kiley [37th] felt that the Lake street-subway tieup would mean faster trips on the "L" for his constituents.

A. F. L. ATTACKS GROWING POWER OF GOVERNMENT

Storm Stirred by Warning at Convention.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Houston, Tex., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—A warning that extension of governmental power and burocracy threatens American democracy and freedom of the trade union movement raised a storm in the American Federation of Labor convention here today.

Matthew Woll.

The warning was incorporated in a final report of the convention's resolutions committee. After lively debate, in which President William Green joined critics of the report, it was referred to the executive council. Green assured backers of the report that it will be possible to bring it up for further discussion tomorrow after delegates have read it in the printed proceedings.

Defending the report, Vice President Matthew Woll, resolutions committee chairman, told the delegates that if they will read the record of their actions in the last ten days they would find verification of the observations made.

Administration Under Fire.

Repeatedly the convention has attacked or criticized boards and measures of the Roosevelt administration. On Monday it linked the President by name with its enemy, John L. Lewis. Woll denied, however, that the report was an attack on the administration.

The great surge of legislation to extend powers of the government over its citizens, the report noted, came immediately after President Roosevelt assumed office. Saying there was no disposition to question the sincerity of motives involved, the report stated:

"We set up a principle in our infancy. It was that we want from the state nothing that we can do for ourselves through voluntary collective action. We set up another principle which was that the labor movement must make its own policies and control its own destiny.

"At this hour we are in danger of losing the benefits of both of those principles.

Clash of Philosophies.

"This extension of state authority represents a philosophy. That philosophy now clashes definitly with the philosophy of our labor movement. Without any intent of using a label as a means of disparagement we must say that it should be made clear to every American that the philosophy that is being developed in action, by which ever increasing domain is being given to the state, is expressive of the philosophy and practice of Socialism."

Lumping Fascism and communism in this category, the report denied any fear of dictatorship in the United States, but warned labor against accepting gains at the price of liberty.

"It is the duty of the state," said the report, "to prevent injustice, to give guarantees, just as they are given in the bill of rights. But we want courts, not boards, to enforce the guarantees found in the bill of rights and made articulate through statute law.

Judicial System Praised.

"The courts, too, have abused their power and even today are manned by all too many reactionary judges. But the judicial system is eminently the right system.

"Boards and commissions almost always have judicial as well as administrative powers — they become judges, juries, and executioners. And they seek an ever widening field for use of their power."

Expressing belief that business has learned the folly of earlier opposition to collective bargaining, the report decried persecution of business and even urged caution in considering the O'Mahoney bill for federal licensing of corporations, which the A. F. of L. has actively supported.

"It may be," the report said, "that we must curb some of our own willingness to rush to the state for everything. Somehow, and by some means, that trend must be stopped, or we shall cease to live in a democracy."

Plea for Coöperation.

Pleading with industry, management, and finance to coöperate with labor in regulating their affairs without recourse to governmental interference, the report concluded:

"We have come to a time when there must be a halt or we fear thereafter there can be no halt. We do not question or disparage any motive. But we do raise the question of present day trend and tendencies.

"Much of this trend has developed out of a lack of consultation with labor in the affairs of state. The welfare mind has for some time been triumphing over the labor mind for power. And labor is, day by day, paying the price in lost rights, lost liberties, lost sense of how to operate through the machinery of trade union democracy."

Thrust at Labor Secretary.

Reference to the "welfare mind" was taken as a slap at such social workers as Secretary of Labor Perkins, who has been in bad grace with the A. F. of L. for two years because of her alleged partisanship for the C. I. O., and Harry Hopkins, whose WPA activities have been questioned in the present convention as destroying jobs for organized labor.

George T. Lynch, delegate of the pattern makers, opened the attack on the report.

"There is too much philosophy here for immediate digestion," said Lynch. "It might be construed as general condemnation of President Roosevelt."

Woll had no sooner asserted that the report should not be so construed than President Green joined the fray, asserting: "The philosophical analysis as set forth by the committee is at this time most confusing."

Green said that his confusion grew out of the advice of caution in backing the O'Mahoney bill, pointing out that by instruction of the federation he already had supported it actively.

New Drive Against C. I. O.

The convention cleared the way for a new drive against the C. I. O. on the troubled waterfronts of New York and the Pacific coast by its revocation today of the charter of the old International Seaman's union.

Within a few days, it is understood, the executive council will issue a new charter to an International Seamen's union headed by Harry Lundeberg, present head of the Sailors Union of the Pacific. His own organization, Great Lakes Seamen, Fishermen, and a federal local on the Atlantic coast will join the new International, with a membership of about 25,000.

The old international union lost its rank and file several years ago. About New York, the majority joined the C. I. O. National Maritime union.

The convention adjourned at noon today to visit the nearby San Jacinto battlefield on which Gen. Sam Houston won the independence of the Republic of Texas. Tomorrow afternoon it will hold its annual election of officers.

LABOR BOARD OPENS FIGHT IN HIGH COURT ON A. F. OF L. UNION

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The national labor relations board informed the Supreme court today that contracts between the Consolidated Edison company of New York and affiliates of the American Federation of Labor were clearly illegal under the Wagner act.

The board filed a brief in the case in which the utility and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers seek to invalidate a labor board order abrogating the brotherhood's contracts.

The A. F. of L. filed a brief yesterday attacking the order and saying that the labor board "has brazenly and by official act declared itself as a proponent of the C. I. O." The board's order was issued in November, 1937, after the C. I. O. brought charges of unfair labor practices.

POLL SHOWS OHIO WILL PUT G. O. P. TICKET IN OFFICE

Both Farm and Labor Vote Is Souring on New Deal.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—With the candidates for senator debating the New Deal as Lincoln and Douglas debated slavery, Ohio is the scene of a political contest of national interest.

It looks like a horse race at this writing between Democratic Senator Robert J. Bulkley and his Republican challenger, Robert A. Taft, and between the candidates for governor, Charles Sawyer [Dem.] and John W. Bricker [Rep.].

All factors of the struggle considered, my guess is that the Republicans have better than an even chance of electing their ticket. This estimate is borne out—for the time being, at least—by the invariably accurate Columbus Dispatch straw vote, which gives both Taft and Bricker a shade the advantage.

Swing Back to G. O. P.

The poll reveals a marked swing of voters from Democratic to Republican allegiance, which accords with the generally observed reaction against the New Deal on the part of large groups of voters, particularly farmers, who normally are Republican but have been voting Democratic since 1932.

For example, the Dispatch poll on senator shows eight times as many voters switching from Democrat to Republican as from Republican to Democrat. In the governor poll, nearly two Democrats are going Republican for every Republican going Democratic.

The Ohio contest is beginning to claim the national spotlight, not only because of the high plane on which it is being conducted in the debate between Taft and Bulkley, but because of its bearing upon the presidential battle of 1940.

Springboard to National Theater.

If young Taft, a son of the late President and Chief Justice William Howard Taft, should be elected to the senate, he would find himself at once in the front rank of contenders for the Republican nomination for President. Former Attorney General Bricker also is a man of outstanding ability, who, if elected governor, will become a national figure.

In a state that is one of the hardest hit by the depression, the Democrats are relying for victory principally on the labor vote, the WPA vote, and the votes of the farmer and other groups receiving handouts from the federal treasury. In Cleveland, where it is an uphill fight for the Republicans, there are 80,000 persons on work relief out of 280,000 in the entire state. There is a similar percentage of the state's 120,000 on direct relief.

Militating against the Democrats wangling a victory from these sources is the split in labor ranks, with John L. Lewis and his C. I. O. supporting the Democrats and the majority of the A. F. of L. unions coming out for Republican candidates.

Farmers Turn to G. O. P.

Likewise it is apparent that the farm vote is a slender reed for the Democrats to lean on in this election. Better than average crops have been harvested by Ohio farmers this year but the low prices they are receiving for corn, wheat, oats, and other products have spread gloom in rural parts.

Faith in the efficacy of the Roosevelt administration's program of crop curtailment to raise prices has sunk to an all time low. The trend of sentiment now is in the opposite direction, with the emphasis being placed on expanded markets for increased production and on enhancement of the purchasing power of labor by encouraging instead of discouraging private enterprise.

No less important in accounting for the changed attitude in rural Ohio is the issue of radicalism. Ohio has been a hotbed of labor strife for several years. Strikes fomented by the C. I. O. in "Little Steel," the automobile factories, the tire plants, and other industries have paralyzed business, increased unemployment, and produced violence and bloodshed.

As in Michigan and Illinois, Lewis staged in Ohio the sitdown strike with its attendant mass picketing, intimidation, and violence—all with the tacit approval of the Roosevelt administration and the aid and protection of the Labor Relations board.

Democratic Governor Martin Davey at first called out state troops to protect the sitdown strikers. Then, when he found public sentiment against him, he switched around and provided military protection for the reopening of strike bound plants and for the right of nonstrikers to work. That switch earned him the enmity of the C. I. O., which promptly indorsed his opponent, Sawyer, in the Democratic primary.

Labor Vote Divided.

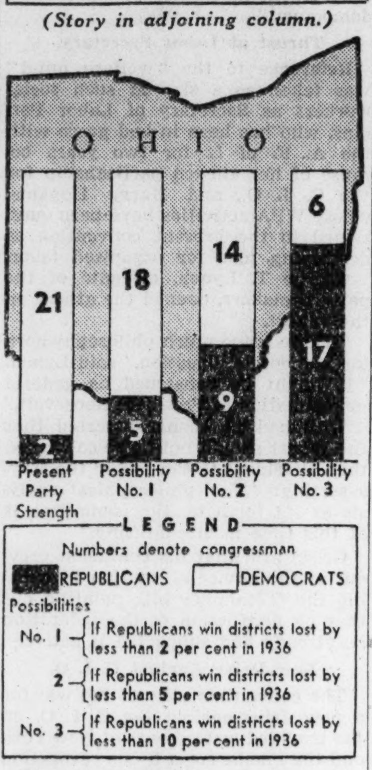
In the election campaign both Sawyer and Bulkley have been indorsed by labor's nonpartisan league, which is the political action department of C. I. O. Sawyer also received the personal indorsement of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. A large segment of A. F. of L. unions in the state, however, refused to go along with Green. More than 400 A. F. of L. leaders met here recently and indorsed Bricker.

The Democrats have been split not only by the division in union labor, normally 65 per cent Democratic, but by the feud that persists between the Davey and the Sawyer factions. So far the governor has not lined up for Sawyer, and in numerous ways is helping his Republican adversary.

Altogether the rural reaction against the New Deal and labor radicalism is such that the Republicans are likely to gain eight or ten seats in the national house of representatives.

Ohio Possibilities

(Story in adjoining column.)



Three possibilities of change in the Ohio congressional delegation. The Republicans can gain seats this fall by winning in districts which they lost by small percentages in the 1936 election.

Bar Assn. Picks Ehler Over Jarecki, 2-1; O'Connell Wins

Theodore F. Ehler, Republican nominee for county judge, is favored nearly 2 to 1 over Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, the Democratic incumbent, by members of the Chicago Bar association. This was shown last night in results of the association's poll on candidates for judgeships in the Nov. 8 election. Ehler received 1,346 votes to 730 for Jarecki.

The support for Ehler was regarded as all the more decisive in the light of the poll on the probate judgeship. The association indorsed Judge John F. O'Connell, the Democratic incumbent, by 1,207 votes to 881 for the G. O. P. nominee, Robert W. Dunn.

Eight Favored Is Judges.

Ehler's triumph was duplicated by other Republicans in the vote for associate judges of the Municipal court. Of the twelve candidates indorsed, eight are Republicans.

Seven sitting judges were indorsed and four failed to receive the bar association's support. The unsuccessful nominees are Joseph McGarry, Eugene J. Holland, Michael G. Kasper, and Nuncio J. Bonelli. All are Democrats.

Ballots were sent to 3,946 members and the official number cast was 2,139. Following are the results of the poll on municipal judges, with winning judges' names in blackface type and sitting judges designated by an asterisk [*]:

Haas, R.	1,906	*McGarry, D.	872
Casey, R.	1,834	Quinn, R.	864
Heller, R.	1,676	Daly, D.	740
Rooney, D.	1,675	George, R.	543
Hayes, D.	1,581	Donoghue, D.	385
Smith, D.	1,575	*Holland, D.	353
Gutkn'ht, D.	1,412	*Kasper, D.	315
Fisher, R.	1,216	Sullivan, D.	250
Hamlin, R.	1,194	*Bonelli, D.	229
Morgan, R.	996	Kula, D.	214
Chayes, R.	962	Lyle, R.	153
Trude, R.	942	Cooper, R.	99

Under the rules of the association, a candidate receives the bar indorsement if he gets one-third of the votes cast. Where there are twelve candidates to be elected, only the twelve highest on the list are indorsed.

O'Connell, Dunn Clash.

The balloting on the probate judgeship climaxed a recent flurry of charges and countercharges by both candidates. Judge O'Connell has been in the office since 1932 when he was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Gov. Horner. He then was elected in 1934.

His current opponent, Dunn, had challenged billboard statements that O'Connell had received the bar association's indorsement. George T. Buckingham, a Republican who is chairman of a nonpartisan committee campaigning for O'Connell's reëlection, quoted the report of the association's committee on candidates. This said Judge O'Connell was "well qualified" and Dunn was "qualified."

The results of the poll indicate that bar members had not been influenced by the charges against O'Connell, according to Republican members of O'Connells campaign committee.

"I think Judge O'Connell is unusually well qualified, no matter what his political party," added William Tracy Alden, past president of the bar association.

"Judge O'Connell is an able man and the vote shows that a lot of lawyers think so," asserted Conrad H. Poppenhusen, former member of the association's board of managers.

LEHMAN SPEECH CUT SHORT BY DEWEY OVATION

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Cheers for District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey were so loud and long when he appeared before 15,000 Italian Americans today that Gov. Herbert Lehman was unable to finish a scheduled speech. The crowd was assembled in Columbus circle to celebrate the 446th anniversary of the discovery of America.

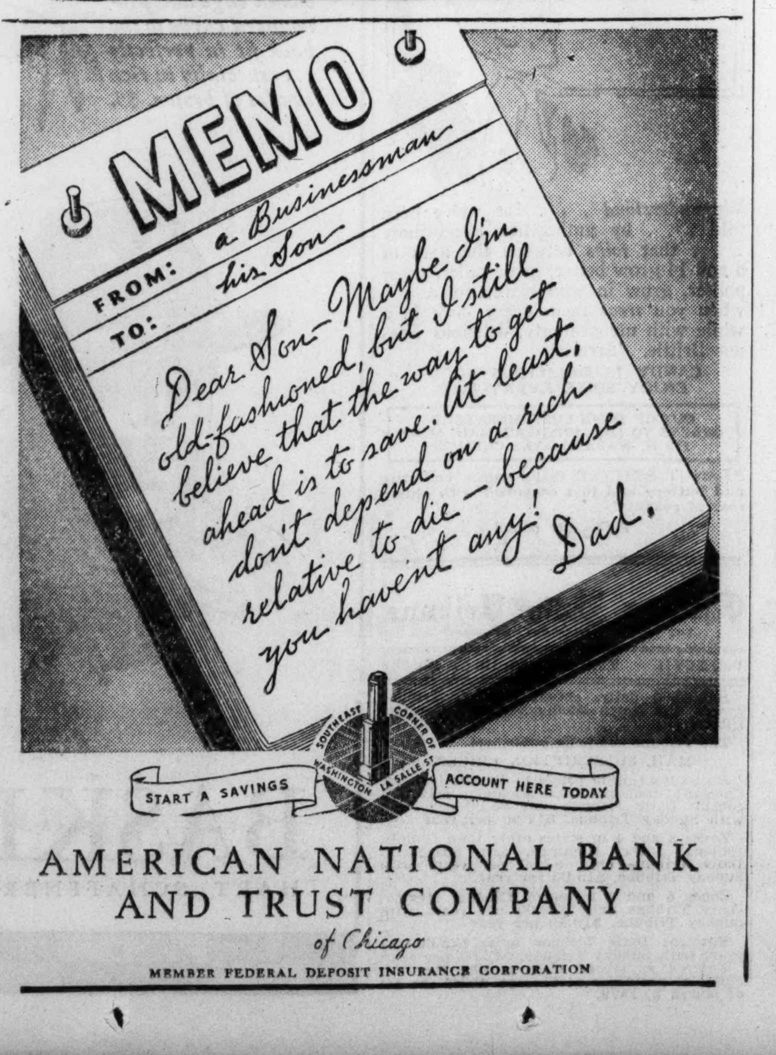
Boos greeted an announcement that Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia was ill and could not attend the celebration.

Gov. Lehman asked the crowd for racial and religious tolerance and said any one who did not have tolerance and generosity should not be in the assemblage. Dewey gave a eulogy of Columbus and praised contributions made to American life by persons of Italian descent.

CASEY DEMANDS AN ANSWER TO COURT CHARGES

Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey yesterday challenged Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court to appear with him at a City club luncheon Monday and answer his charges that the court is dominated by the Kelly-Nash machine. Both men were invited to speak at the luncheon, which will be held in the Hotel Sherman, but Sonsteby has not yet answered the invitation, club officials said.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE



NASH TRANSFERS PARTY REINS TO HARMONY GROUP

Hornerites Are Named to Help Manage Campaign.

P. A. Nash, chairman of the Cook county Democratic central committee, transferred his control of the committee yesterday to a harmony group in which his organization and the Horner faction equally represented.

Nash has left the city, and may be gone for the rest of the campaign. It has been said that he could not bring himself to sitting in conference with Hornerites who shouted "smash Nash" in the April primary campaign. It is reported also that he has been ailing and has been under the care of a physician recently. Either case is considered sufficient reason for his decision to step aside in the management of the fall campaign.

Official notice of Nash's action will be given to the county committee at a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon, but the situation became known last evening when the harmony group disclosed its existence in a press statement.

Harmony Members Named.

Nash representatives on the group are: Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], Joseph L. Gill, chief clerk, Municipal court, Paul Drymalski of the board of tax appeals, and Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th].

The members from the Horner faction are: James M. Slattery, chairman, state commerce commission; Martin J. O'Brien, public administrator; Ald. Harry E. Perry [18th], and Charles K. Schwartz, chairman, state tax commission.

Ald. Perry is considered the representative of State's Attorney Courtney, who has been one of Gov. Horner's allies.

Picked to Run Campaign.

The press statement opened with a reference to the group as "having elected to manage the campaign." This was taken as verification of less official reports that Chairman Nash had decided definitly to surrender the campaign reins. Almost the entire statement thereafter was devoted to a pledge of allegiance to the entire Democratic ticket and President Roosevelt.

The first meeting of the harmonizers was held in the Chicagoan hotel, which adjoins the Morrison hotel where the county committee headquarters are housed. No chairman was elected, but it is believed that Ald. Arvey will occupy Nash's desk in the Morrison and that the harmonizers, acting in an advisory capacity only, will continue to meet in the Chicagoan.

7 G. O. P. CONGRESS CANDIDATES TELL HOW THEY STAND

Seven Republican candidates for congress from the Chicago area told how they stand on national issues yesterday. They spoke at the mid-week luncheon meeting of G. O. P. nominees, held in the Hotel Sherman. Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman, presided.

Congressman Ralph E. Church, candidate for reëlection from the 10th district, pleaded for the election of liberal Republicans to replace reactionary New Dealers. He defined true liberalism as a belief in retaining the powers of self-government in the hands of the common people.

Other congressional candidates who spoke were Charles S. Dewey, 9th district; Robert Isham Randolph, 6th; Goodwin L. Dosland, 3d; James C. Moreland, 7th; Noble Lee, 2d, and Dominic M. Janec Jr., 4th.

Shoots Customer in Row Over Price of Cantaloupe

Herbert Winkelhake, 33 years old, a WPA clerk, entered a food store at 3235 Irving Park road last night, picked out a cantaloupe, and laid a dime on the counter. The proprietor, Anton Pappas, told him the price was 15 cents. Winkelhake objected and in the ensuing quarrel Pappas seized a revolver and fired, wounding Winkelhake seriously. Winkelhake, who lives at 3333 Warner avenue, was taken to the Martha Washington hospital. Pappas was arrested by the Jefferson Park police.

POLICEMAN FIRES AS THREE ATTACK HIM; WOUNDS ONE

Andrew Sarkissian, 34 years old, was shot and critically wounded early today as he and two companions tussled with Detective Joseph Reuter at 64th street and Cottage Grove avenue. Reuter, who is assigned to the Woodlawn station, was off duty and standing at the corner when a young woman told him Sarkissian and his companions had annoyed her. Reuter displayed his badge and ordered the men to move on. Instead they jumped on him. In the struggle Reuter drew his revolver and it was discharged, wounding Sarkissian. Sarkissian, who lives at 3612 Ivy avenue, East Chicago, Ind., was taken to the Woodlawn hospital. Reuter seized one of the other men, Arthur Sherry, 21 years old, of 3831 Hemlock avenue, Indiana Harbor, Ind., but the third man escaped.

Iarrussi, a quiet Italian 63 years old, stood on the sidewalk in front of his undertaking parlor. He listened to questions, then shrugged his shoulders eloquently. But he said:

"I don't want to say anything. You know how it is."

Serritella could not be reached yesterday. But his Democratic opponent, Michael P. Sheahan, 1522 South Michigan avenue, who won his nomination with three times as many votes as Serritella, was found at home.

Get Out—Doctor's Orders.

"Right after the primary," Sheahan said, "I got orders to get out of town. On doctor's orders, doctor's orders.

"I had congestion of the lungs. I went to Excelsior Springs for six weeks. So I withdrew."

Sheahan lives in a tiny apartment with a niece. He said that he is "retired."

The charges that Republican candidates were being prevented from posting their campaign signs were made by George A. Curran, acting chairman of the Cook county Republican candidates.

"Business men dependent upon a license of any kind for their livelihoods are being forced to post Democratic signs," Curran said. "And yet Otto Krueger, business agent of local No. 1 of the Bill Posters' union, refused point blank to put up campaign signs reading 'Smash Nash-Kelly Boss Rule—Vote Republican.'

Charges Intimidation.

Tavern keepers, parking lot proprietors, and others who must stay in good graces of authorities are reporting they don't dare show a Republican poster," Curran declared. "This is official intimidation."

The Democratic election crews, however, are getting results, Curran said. Men from headquarters are going into such places as street car barns and announcing they are from the office of Sherif John Toman. They nail up posters, he said.

"In rural sections of the county," continued Curran, "my workers tacked up 24,000 signs on public utility poles where there were also Democratic posters. My signs were torn down but the Democratic signs were left untouched."

Despite their difficulties in getting their signs posted the Republican candidates at luncheon yesterday reaffirmed their adoption of the slogan coined by Gov. Horner last spring—"Smash Nash-Kelly Rule." They ordered 1,500 large signs with these words emblazoned on them.

Meanwhile Democratic signs are blossoming throughout the city. The billboard industry, constantly in dread of regulatory legislation, always has been a generous donor for political purposes.

LUCAS PROPOSES A MOLASSES TAX TO HELP FARMER

Offers Scheme to Boost Market for Corn.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Black strap molasses was poured into the political campaign here tonight by Scott W. Lucas, Democratic nominee for United States senator. The molasses was for the benefit of the farmers.

Lucas argued in favor of an excise tax that would force the use of corn to replace the black strap molasses now being used in making of industrial alcohol. He asserted that molasses equivalent to 28,660,000 bushels of corn was imported into the United States in 1936.

The meeting here was held in the new state armory, completed with PWA funds in time for Gov. Henry Horner's inauguration in January, 1937. Earlier this evening Lucas addressed a meeting in the high school auditorium at Decatur.

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Miss Jeanette Cooper, 18 years old, twice women's city golf champion as well as a competitor in the state tournaments, and Donald Simpson, 2[illegible], her escort, were killed last night just east of Illiopolis in an automobile collision. Don Moyer, 25, and Donald Deetz, 29, also of Decatur, were injured. Witnesses said Miss Cooper pulled out to pass another car and crashed headon into the Deetz car.

FARMERS START RECEIVING CROP CONTROL GRAVY

Government checks are being sent to Illinois farmers who took part in the 1938 federal crop control program. The first consignment—197 checks for a total of $44,344.13—was received by farmers in Ford county yesterday, according to an announcement by the state Agricultural Adjustment administration committee in Champaign.

Nine other counties are in line for payments within a few days. They are Lake, Ogle, Piatt, Livingston, Sangamon, Du Page, Schuyler, Brown, and Cass. Local committees in these counties already have sent in compliance summaries to the state committee for checking. The 1939 farm program may be started soon. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace is expected to outline plans for next year's program for county AAA officials and other farmers in an address at Springfield tomorrow.

25 MORE ARAB REBELS KILLED IN BRITISH DRIVE

Planes Bomb Terrorists Who Ambushed Police.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Oct. 12.—Twenty-five Arab terrorists were killed today in clashes with British troops. One British soldier was killed and one was wounded during the fighting.

Thirteen Arabs were shot to death as combined forces of the British army, royal air force, and police engaged a band of rebels which had ambushed a police patrol along the Jerusalem-Hebron road.

Nine Arabs were killed by air bombs and infantry reënforcements later killed four others. One British plane was forced down, but the pilot and his observer were uninjured.

Six Slain in Jerusalem.

The death of twelve more Arabs was reported from other places in the Holy Land, where British troops are attempting to stop Jewish-Arab violence. Six were killed in Jerusalem when troops demolished a house from which bombs had been thrown Monday. Snipers from nearby housetops attacked the soldiers. Reënforcements arrived and the soldiers drove off the snipers after a skirmish that lasted an hour and a half.

Another encounter occurred near Mount Carmel, in northern Palestine. Five Arab prisoners were taken and rifles and ammunition were confiscated when the fight ended at dawn.

Villagers cheered the soldiers as infantry and mechanized units headed toward strategic posts on punitive expeditions.

Rebels Intensify Activities.

Observers here said events of the last 48 hours indicated that the rebel leaders had ordered the intensification of activities before the arrival of British reënforcements.

Precautions were increased after the attempt yesterday to assassinate Edward Keith-Roach, the British district governor of Jerusalem. Four bombs were hurled at his automobile, but he and his military escorts were uninjured.

[The dispute between Arabs and Jews gained impetus during the Czechoslovak crisis. Meeting in Cairo, the Moslem congress representing eight countries, yesterday indorsed demands that Britain terminate her Palestine mandate and that Jewish immigration be ended. The Arab defense committee on Monday warned Jews to expect grave trouble in the far east unless they gave up their aspirations in Palestine.]

JAPS' OFFENSIVE THREATENS U. S. TRADE IN CHINA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Commerce department experts said today the Japanese offensive in the Hongkong area might seriously hamper American trade with China.

They explained that since the Japanese captured Shanghai, Hongkong has been one of the principal entry points for American goods going to China. It may be necessary now to route this trade through some other port.

Statistics for the first eight months of 1938 show that more than a third of American exports to China went through Hongkong. A total of $25,738,000 worth of merchandise went directly to China and an additional $15,269,000 went to Hongkong.

Slays Burglar as He Sounds Alarm in N. Side Basement

A burglar was shot and killed early today after he had broken into the basement of an apartment building at 1250 Bryn Mawr avenue and taken $2 from a coin operated washing machine. When the coin box was smashed an alarm sounded in the apartment of Edgar Cary, manager of the building. Seizing a .32 caliber revolver, Cary ran to the basement. The burglar struck him with a small crowbar and then ran to the third floor. Cary followed and fired one shot, killing the intruder. The burglar was about 30 years old.

CHINESE BATTLE TWO JAP DRIVES AIMED AT CANTON

Rail Link with Hongkong Major Objective.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 13 [Thursday].—Two thousand Chinese troops have been killed and sixty trucks loaded with military provisions have been destroyed since the opening of operations in South China yesterday, the navy announced at noon today. Most of the casualties were caused by bombing planes, Rear Admiral Kiyoshi Noda reported.

HONGKONG, Oct. 13 [Thursday].—(AP)—Chinese regulars assisted by well trained militia were putting up a scattered but fairly effective resistance today against the Japanese expeditionary force which landed at Bias bay yesterday for a campaign against Canton in South China.

Exact strategy of the Japanese, estimated to number 35,000 well equipped troops, was not yet clear, but one drive had been started northwest through a valley region skirting the highway to Waichow, eighty miles east of Canton and the garrison city nearest Bias bay.

Another column was striking south of Waichow and in a westerly direction toward the railroad connecting Canton and Kowloon, at Hongkong, the British crown colony.

Overwhelmed by Planes.

Chinese reports said the Japanese landing yesterday was effected with far greater resistance than was first believed.

Japanese landing parties were repulsed repeatedly, it was declared, before the concentrated use of bombing planes overwhelmed resistance.

Especially severe skirmishing was said to have taken place around Nigshan at the extreme northeast part of Bias bay on the highway to Waichow.

The first major landing operation, perhaps the start of a broad offensive to dominate the rich coastal area of South China, was carried out under the shielding fire of naval guns and with the most extensive aerial bombardment seen in South China since last December.

The landing was executed in Bias bay, an old pirate rendezvous, less than 30 miles northeast of the Hongkong district and 100 miles southeast of Canton.

Dispatches from Canton, 65 miles northwest of Hongkong, said 137 planes took part in the raids on many communities of Kwangtung province. Civilian casualties were believed heavy, although Canton itself was not bombed.

Bombs ripped away three bridges of the Canton-Kowloon railway, transport link between Hongkong and Canton. A Canton bound train returned to Kowloon. Domination of this railway was regarded as the first Japanese objective.

Gateway for Hankow.

Hongkong and the Canton-Kowloon railway have been the principal gateway of military supplies for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in the defense of Hankow. The Chinese military capital lies about 500 miles north of Canton, linked to it by the Canton-Hankow railway.

[Hongkong Island and its chief city, Victoria, is separated by a strait from Kowloon and British territory on the mainland comprising the Hongkong district. A large sum of British capital is invested in the railway to Canton.]

Kwantung military authorities were reported rushing reënforcements to aid the three troop divisions normally charged with defense of the Bias bay district.

After a preparatory bombardment the Japanese force landed at Hachung on the north shore of Bias bay. They established a base, then marched westward, the Chinese population fleeing ahead of them. Planes and warships later bombarded Swatow, large port northeast of Bias bay, and other coastal towns.

Three Possibilities of Campaign.

Three possibilities lay before the Japanese:

FIRST—A thrust 20 miles westward to cut the Canton-Kowloon railway over which, it is estimated, China is receiving more than one-third of its supplies;

SECOND—To follow the Swatow-Canton highway and cut the Canton-Hankow railway north of Canton, thus directly halting the flow of materials to the Hankow zone.

THIRD—A coördinated naval and aerial blockade of the many mouths of the Canton river delta to prevent ships reaching Canton itself.

[Britain, through her envoy to Tokio, "reminded" Japan of British interests in South China and "the risks to Anglo-Japanese relations which any incident might cause." This would result from violation of Hongkong waters.]

Chinese asserted a Japanese occupation of Canton or even cutting of the Canton-Kowloon railway would reduce the position of Hongkong from that of a foremost port to just an island off the Chinese coast.

Intend to Punish Chiang.

Through the Japanese consulate for Hongkong, the "commander in chief of the expeditionary force of Japan to South China" issued a declaration that Chinese resistance "obliged the imperial Japanese government to dispatch a large expeditionary force to operate in Kwangtung province, the base of anti-Japanese and pro-communist China." Another statement said "Japan is aiding the Chinese masses against Gen. Chiang and communism."

Rail and river blockade of Canton would mean isolation in Hongkong of large cargoes, including munitions, consigned to the Chinese interior. There was a last minute rush to clear these shipments. Near the Hongkong border, ninety American made trucks were counted, apparently ready for a dash to Canton while highways were still open.

The United States gunboat Mindanao arrived at Hongkong from Canton for provisioning and was expected to return to Canton shortly. Five British gunboats and one French gunboat are at Canton.

One hundred foreign women and children evacuated Shameen Island, the foreign settlement of Canton. The settlement has food supplies to last several months.

Foreign Powers Warned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 12.—Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe, seeking to avoid incidents with foreign powers as a result of the new South China operations, sent notes today to the United States and other diplomatic representatives, requesting that steps be taken to keep Chinese troops from taking refuge in foreign property.

He asked also that the powers refrain as much as possible from moving troops, warships, and aircraft in Chinese territory, territorial waters and air in South China from Swatow to Pakhoi—200 miles east and 350 miles west of Canton. He requested ten days' advance notice be given when it was absolutely necessary to make such movements.

MUSSOLINI GRAB OF ETHIOPIA WINS PARIS' APPROVAL

Cabinet Decides to Send Ambassador to Rome.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 12.—The French government today clearly showed it intends to pursue a policy of reconciliation with the dictators, despite recent rebuffs from Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini.

Robert Coulondre.

The council of ministers confirmed the appointment of Andre Francois-Poncet as ambassador to Rome, thus recognizing the Italian conquest of Ethiopia. Robert Coulondre, who has been ambassador to Moscow, was shifted to Berlin to replace Francois-Poncet. Eric Labonne, ambassador to Barcelona and seat of the Spanish government, was shifted to Moscow.

May Send Envoy to Burgos.

An interesting thing about this last appointment is that no one was named to replace Labonne in Barcelona, and there was no indication that this gap will be filled in the near future. On the other hand, it was reported that France soon will send a diplomatic representative to Burgos, capital of the Spanish rebel government.

This ties up with a campaign launched a few days ago by a section of the French press to abandon efforts at mediation in Spain and accept a totalitarian victory by Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel commander in chief.

Another appointment confirmed by the cabinet, that of Rene Massigli to be ambassador to Ankara, Turkey, announces the beginning of a purge of foreign ministry personnel.

On Fascist Blacklist.

Massigli, who held a key position as assistant director of political and commercial affairs in the foreign office, was reported to be in favor of a firm policy toward Hitler during the recent crisis.

His name figured prominently on the blacklist of alleged war partisans recently published by a Fascist weekly.

The new switch of French foreign policy is paralleled by new tendencies appearing in the domestic policies. Members of war veterans' associations are demanding a dictatorial government composed of nonpartisan ministers under Premier Edouard Daladier with full powers to govern by decree for one year while parliament would be recessed during that period.

Raise Defense Expenditures.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The French government today decided to bolster the army and navy against Germany's fast growing military force with an additional expenditure of $62,289,000.

The cabinet, in the face of an already swollen national defense budget, authorized Premier Edouard Daladier to spend an additional $38,340,000 for the army and $23,494,000 for the navy.

AMERICAN JEWS FIGHT FOR HOLY LAND 'OPEN DOOR'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, will listen tomorrow morning to protests of American Jews against a reversal of the national home policy in Palestine. If the British government should decide to administer Palestine as a colony, putting Jews and Arabs on an equal basis, immigration of Jewish refugees from Europe will be stopped.

Rabbis and delegates from religious, fraternal, and veterans' societies will make up the committee to tell the ambassador about the concern of American Jews over the British proposal. Tomorrow night Dr. Soloman Goldman of Chicago will make a radio talk on the Palestine situation.

At the behest of American Jews, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, sent a message today to British labor organizations urging their support in maintaining an open door for Jews in Palestine.

HITLER'S PLANS MAY CAUSE FRICTION WITH U. S., UTLEY SUGGESTS

If Chancellor Hitler decides on a colonial expansion program for Germany he may clash with the United States in a few years. This view was expressed last night by Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. He addressed the Mortgage Bankers of America in the Knickerbocker hotel.

Utley said that Great Britain withdrew its support from Czechoslovakia because its army and air services were not ready for war. He added that ruling classes in England feared social upheavals in the event of a struggle and realized that even if Germany were conquered that country might turn to communism.

He suggested the possibility that Germany, now supreme in middle Europe, might demand territory in South America.

MOTHER IS STILL HOPEFUL AS BABY SLEEPS 200TH DAY

Mary Ellen Reardon yesterday completed her 200th day of unconsciousness, a victim of sleeping sickness, or encephalitis, which followed measles. She will be 3 years old Monday.

Physicians have said there is no hope for the child's recovery, but her mother, Mrs. Daniel Reardon, said calmly: "I know she will get well. They said she would die last April when she had a temperature of 106½ for days, but she did not. I attribute that to prayer, and I have complete faith that my prayers and others' will result in her recovery."

Mary Ellen's large blue eyes recognize no one, and the expression of her dainty features is unchanging. But the mother continued:

"I can see that she is improving, although when our doctor was last here Aug. 22 he said he saw no hope. There is no treatment except the nursing care, massage, and light therapy my sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Ellen Reardon, and I give her. She eats her meals from a spoon, and has a preference for orange juice and custard, just as she did when she was well."

POPE PIUS CALLS ON COLLEGES TO GUARD LIBERTY

Hails Catholic University of America.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.] — Government philosophy that denies individual rights and liberties was assailed by Pope Pius XI. today in a letter to Catholics of America. The pope's letter was read at a convocation opening the golden jubilee of the Catholic University of America.

Pope Pius XI.

Christian doctrin and Christian morality are under attack from several quarters, the pope said. Dangerous theories which a few years ago were only whispered today are shouted from the housetops and even are finding their way into action, he warned.

It is in the name of God, Pope Pius said, that the Catholic cries out against "any civic philosophy that would degrade man to the position of a soulless pawn in a sordid quest for power and prestige." In the consequence of his understanding, the pope added, the Catholic is the champion of true human rights and the defender of human liberties.

Praises University's Work.

"The golden jubilee which the Catholic University of America is preparing to celebrate with fitting ceremony," he said, "is an event of such outstanding importance in the life of the church in the United States that it has seemed good to us, our beloved sons and venerable brethren, to address you again for the purpose of expressing our joy at the completion of a half century of fruitful labor and of giving further utterance to the hopes which we cherish for the future of this great institution of learning.

"During the almost fifty years of its existence, the Catholic university has done well. Despite the difficulties which attend beginnings and in the face of material limitations which might have discouraged men laboring in a less worthy cause, the superiors and teaching staf, by their intelligence and devotion, have won for the university a leading place in the great Catholic educational system of America and among the other similar schools of the land.

Lauds Trail Blazers.

"We know that the names of these noble pioneers, many of whom have passed to their eternal reward, are held in benediction by those who have taken their places, and that with seemly gratitude, they will be recalled in prayer and eulogy during the days of the jubilee.

"However, the celebration of this jubilee will be not alone one of retrospect and of commemoration, but also and principally one of prospect and of dedication. Indeed the chief reason which has moved us to signalize the observances by this further evidence of our profound interest is the conviction that in the years which lie ahead the Catholic university is called to assume still greater and more momentous responsibilities than in the past.

Points to Unrest in World.

"The world has entered upon one of those periods of unrest, of questioning, of disorientation, and of conflict which have been well described as turning points of history. Christian doctrin and Christian morality are under attack from several quarters; dangerous theories which a few years ago were but whispered in the secret conventicles of discontent are today preached from the housetops, and are even finding their way into action; private immorality and public subversion have in many places raised the banner of revolt against the cross of Christ.

"It is a source of deep consolation to us, as it mut be to you, our beloved sons and venerable brethren, that the church in America is so well prepared to meet the challenge of these critical times.

Deals with Pressing Problems.

"Through the university it will be possible to bring to bear upon the most pressing problems of the day the full force of those principles of justice and charity in which alone they will find their solution. In the course of our pontificate we have had occasion to treat these problems more than once in our encyclical letters; here we wish only to point out the solid basis upon which our teaching rests.

"Since the sciences of civics, sociology, and economics deal with individual collective human welfare, they cannot escape from the philosophical and religious implications of man's origin, nature, and destiny. If they ignore God they can never hope to understand adequately the creature which he formed in his own image and likeness, and whom he sent his own divine son to redeem. Christian teaching alone, in its majestic integrity, can give full meaning and compelling motive to the demand for human rights and liberties because it alone gives worth and dignity to human personality.

Defender of Liberties.

"In consequence of his high conception of the nature and gifts of man, the Catholic is necessarily the champion of true human rights and the defender of true human liberties. It is in the name of God himself that he cries out against any civic philosophy which would degrade man to the position of a soulless pawn in a sordid game of power and prestige or would seek to banish him from membership in the human family.

"It is in the same holy name that he opposes any social philosophy which would regard man as a mere chattel in commercial competition for profit or would set him at the throat of his fellows in a blind, brutish class struggle for existence."

Beats Law on Tavern Zoning

ITALY ANNOUNCES 2,657 OF HER MEN KILLED IN SPAIN

ROME, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Italy, whose forces are being withdrawn from Spain's civil war, announced tonight that 2,657 Italian officers and men had been killed in the conflict "from the beginning of operations in Spain until Oct. 10, and that an additional 278 legionnaires had died from service causes.

The communique listed a total of 12,147 officers and men as killed, wounded, and taken prisoner in the war. The communique said 2,000 of the wounded were permanently crippled or made invalid.

Both Sides Reject Mediation.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish frontier].—Oct. 12.—(AP)—Columbus day found both sides in Spain's civil war celebrating festively with expressions of friendliness to the new world, but their attitude toward each other remained grim. Both declared mediation impossible.

While a unit of the European nonintervention committee began arranging for withdrawal of foreign volunteers from both armies, troops fought violently on the northeastern Ebro river front. The government went ahead with plans to evacuate all foreigners from its army. Italian legionnaires were leaving the rebel ranks.

Double Favor

Fred Maas did a double favor yesterday for the Berwyn city council, which a week ago licensed his tavern at 6736 Windsor avenue. It was later discovered that the rear of his tavern was less than 100 feet from the Berwyn hospital, violating a state regulation. So Maas partitioned off the rear 50 feet and brought all his bottles up front. Having settled that, he announced that the Berwyn relief agency could use the "dead end" rear of his place as a warehouse, rent free. This pleased the council, too.

Dairy Official Testifies Again in Milk Inquiry

Alexander Boag Jr., controler of the National Dairy Products corporation, one of the country's largest ice cream manufacturers, appeared yesterday for the second successive day before the federal grand jury investigating an alleged monopoly in the milk industry in the Chicago area. The jury, which began the investigation on July 18, must conclude its hearing by Nov. 1, its term having been extended the legal limit.

VIENNA CARDINAL WARNED TO STOP TALKING POLITICS

Nazi Paper Accuses Him of Attacking Hitler.

VIENNA, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Nazis tonight warned that "an end must be put to the methods" of Cardinal Theodore Innitzer. The warning was published in the Nazi organ, Wiener Neueste Nachrichten.

"Now at last an end to the Innitzer methods!" said the leading article's double line headline which ran across the first page.

It was the first editorial notice Nazis have taken of Cardinal Innitzer's sermon last Friday and the subsequent storming of his palace which resulted in broken windows, much interior damage, a wound to the Cardinal from a thrown stone, and the injury of one of the canons.

"An end must be put to the methods of the Herr Cardinal who first shows a velvet hand in readiness to talk things over and then incites political quarrels," the Neueste Nachrichten's attack said.

Refers to "Heil Hitler."

This was taken as a reference to Innitzer's visit to Adolf Hitler immediately after the union of Austria and Germany last March and his letter to Nazi officials which he signed "Heil Hitler"—a departure from the custom of German bishops.

"He can organize church choirs," the editorial said, but not sprechchoere [chanting in unison after the manner of college cheer sections], and he can teach God's word, but not political wisdom that is infiltrated to him from Rome. A clergy that talks politics will not be tolerated."

Mention of "Sprechchoere" referred to a group of young Catholics who chanted "We want to see our bishop" outside St. Stephen's cathedral after the cardinal's sermon. The chant started fist fights between Catholic youths and Nazis.

"We do not wonder that people reacted with loud ill humor" [to the cardinal's Friday sermon], Neueste Nachrichten went on. "Greater provocation would be hard to imagine and one which, with open and concealed words, attacks the Fuehrer of the German people at a time when he realized our finest objective.

Says He Provoked People.

"It is especially bitter to us that a high Catholic dignitary showed sad courage to attack the Fuehrer in an indirect way in a speech before a couple dozen anemic Catholic youth, organized a silly sprechchoere and provoked the people at the very moment our troops were taking possession of Sudetenland—at last liberated by the Fuehrer—in the name of the reich and the German community."

The cardinal's residence as well as Catholic churches still were under guard tonight by police and Hitler troopers. It was insisted officially the cardinal was not regarded as a prisoner.

Officials said Innitzer's freedom was proved yesterday when he walked across St. Stephen's square to attend a meeting of delegates from Vienna parishes. A few loungers shouted "pfui, Innitzer" when the cardinal passed.

The papal nuncio to Germany, Msgr. Cesare Orsenigo, was reported to have flown here yesterday for a conference with the cardinal on the Nazi mob's violence.

Boy Scouts of troop 214 placing wreath on Columbus statue in Grant park on 446th anniversary of discovery.

Christopher Columbus was honored in Chicago yesterday on the 446th anniversary of his arrival in the new world. Closed were schools, banks, most public offices, and the Chicago Board of Trade and Chicago Stock exchange.

Boy Scouts laid a wreath on the statue of Columbus near the foot of Roosevelt road in Grant park. Other wreaths were placed there by Italian leaders. Several thousand Chicagoans of Italian ancestry gathered for the ceremony.

School children by the hundreds viewed the special display of Columbus relics in the Chicago Historical society museum. On exhibit are the anchor of the flag ship, Santa Maria, the doorway and shutters of his home in Spain, and a facsimile of a letter he wrote to Queen Isabella after his first trip westward.

MARCH OF TIME IS BANNED IN BRITAIN FOR CZECH DRAMA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The March of Time's latest issue—"Britain's Dilemma," which dramatized the Czechoslovak crisis—has been banned by Baron Tyrrell, the British film censor, it was revealed tonight. This is the fourth time the March of Time has been banned in England in recent months.

The film opened with a reference to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf" [My Battle], and told the story of China, Ethiopia, Spain, Austria, and the situation arising from the Czech problem. The film ended before the terms of the Munich settlement were known, but, taking the theme "Mein Kampf" that Britain would not fight against Germany, it closed with the question: "Is he right or wrong?"

It was understood that Baron Tyrrell decided it would be "dangerous" to show the film to the public. It had been scheduled for release Friday.

Court Refuses to Review Farm Slayer's Conviction

John Jelliga, a steel worker of Whiting, was refused a review of his conviction for murder by the Supreme court at Springfield yesterday. He is scheduled to be electrocuted in the penitentiary at Joliet on Oct. 21. Jelliga was convicted in the Will County Circuit court of the holdup murder of Edward Pansa, a farmer, in the latter's home near Crete.

HITLER PUSHES BORDER FORWARD TO REJECTED LINE

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—An official map received in London today disclosed that Adolf Hitler had carried his new frontier with Czechoslovakia forward to lines corresponding roughly to those of his Godesberg map which Prime Minister Chamberlain refused to accept.

The map came from the international Sudetenland commission now sitting in Berlin and shows the limits of the fifth zone of German occupation approved by the commission.

The new frontier gives Germany an area about equal to that of the Godesberg demands, although only in a few cases do the lines coincide with the Godesberg lines. There are variations of five to ten miles either way throughout, some favoring the Czechs as compared with the Godesberg map, others favoring Germany.

BACK TO THE MINES

By CALEB

NEAR THE fabulous silver mines of Taxco, in Mexico, stands the great Borda Cathedral, built by a miner who long ago grew immensely wealthy from his excavations and expressed his appreciation by building numerous great churches in the land.

"God gives to Borda, and Borda gives to God," said Jose de la Borda, the celebrated mine owner, and the cathedrals that he built in gratitude still stand today, marvels of native architecture admixed with the old world tradition and devices of Spain. So, too, the mines remain, and patient natives explore their depths still finding the precious white metal that brought both wealth and destruction to their ancestors.

Some years ago a young New Orleans artist named Spratling visited Mexico City, and driving thence to Taxco discovered a native handicraft in jewelry grown up about the ancient Taxco mines. He decided to study it, and eventually moved there to lend a hand in its development and organization.

Without curtailing the native craftsmen or hampering their imaginative and traditional designs, he managed to impart the semblance of a consistent plan to the work. His chief contribution has been that of establishing a trade mark comparable to the hall mark of England's ancient guilds, certifying the workmanship and quality of all the material that bears his name.

Recently to our Mexican market has come the first major shipment of Spratling silver to reach this part of the country, bringing with it a melting breath of an old world culture filled with charm and interest. The Spratling pieces are all 98 per cent fine, with only the remaining 2 per cent of alloy to strengthen the soft, gray-blue of the native silver. Some of them are obviously the outgrowth of ancient cultures handed down by Maya, Toltec and Aztec peoples. To these Spratling has added detail and authenticity through a study of recent excavations and new discoveries by expeditions to the Mexican plateaus and jungle.

On the other hand, Spratling has taught his workers to execute the more formalized, staid designs of the North, so that our showing here ranges from the fabled Aztec Fire Bird to the chaste simplicity of design reminiscent of those done by Georg Jensen and his Norse school. In all, it is a happy welding of an old world craft with a later art that promises to contribute a good deal to the lustre of a newly discovered field in Mexico.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA SPURNS DEMANDS OF HUNGARIANS

Troops Ready for Action in New Crisis.

Koloman von Kanya.

It was reported that Hungary would walk out of the conference tomorrow unless her demands were met. Foreign Minister Koloman von Kanya heads the Hungarian delegation.

Both Czechoslovak and Hungarian troops on the opposite sides of the Danube seemed prepared for open hostilities if the territorial negotiations collapse.

Want Hitler as Mediator.

With the talks in a deadlock the Slovak delegation, sources close to that delegation said, had decided to ask the mediation of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

The Slovaks who in three days of conferences offered a variety of proposals, were understood to have suggested even that self-rule be provided for the heavily populated Hungarian areas in Slovakia, itself a newly created autonomous state in Czechoslovakia.

Informed quarters said the Hungarians were greatly surprised at this suggestion, and insisted upon immediate occupation by the Hungarian army of the heavily populated Hungarian areas.

Hungarian sources said Hungary wants territory that includes 840,000 Hungarians and only 145,000 Slovaks.

Slovaks Refuse to Yield.

Previous indications have been that Hungary, spurred by German and Polish success in getting Czechoslovak territory, had demanded 8,000 square miles of southern Slovakia. The Slovaks were believed willing to cede only 2,000 square miles.

Two representatives of the new autonomous state of Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian-Russia] in Czechoslovakia joined the conference in view of the fact that the areas proposed for occupation also include 30,000 Russians and 57,000 Germans.

The Slovak minister, Dr. Ferdinand Durciansky, who is aiding Dr. Joseph Tiso, the Slovak prime minister, at the conference, was reported to have flown to Berlin asking Hitler's mediation.

Czechoslovak circles were optimistic that after Durciansky's return, perhaps tomorrow, some agreement would be reached with Hungary should the German fuehrer be willing to act.

DUCE WARNS BRITISH, FRENCH AGAINST WAR TO STOP DICTATORS

ROME, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini joined Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany today in defying French and British elements he labeled war mongering enemies of Fascism.

Informazione Diplomatica, in an article believed to have been written by Mussolini, warned French and British anti-Fascists against hoping for a "preventive war" on Italy and Germany.

"Responsible Roman circles point out that mongers of a preventive war now are late," the writer said. "In their blind hate they may still dream of a preventive war, but attempting it would mean for them a supreme risk."

The article was interpreted in foreign circles as being aimed particularly at anti-dictator sentiment in Britain led by Anthony Eden and Alfred Duff Cooper. They resigned as foreign secretary and first lord of the admiralty, respectively, in protest against British dealings with dictators.

TEACHER OUSTED FOR OPPOSITION TO MUNICH PACT

Medfield, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Medfield school committee tonight announced the discharge of a teacher because, the committeemen said in a statement, the young woman "acknowledged" participating in a Boston demonstration against the four-power settlement of the Czechoslovakian-Sudeten problem.

Medfield residents recognized the teacher, Miss Christina Alach, 23, in a newspaper picture of a group protesting in front of the British consulate on Oct. 2.

The committee said it had received reports that the protest meeting, which was broken up by police, had been sponsored by communists.

Miss Alach, a graduate of Framingham State Teachers' college, was not present at the committee meeting. She told newsmen later, "I am not a communist in belief nor a member of the communist party. I was just an onlooker at a demonstration protesting Chamberlain's policy over Czechoslovakia."

Wife of Jewish Editor Dies in Suicide Pact with Mate

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Rudolf Thomas, wife of the Jewish editor of the German language newspaper Prager Tagblatt, died today of an overdose of a drug she and her husband took Monday in a suicide pact. Thomas died yesterday.

CZECHS RETURN ANTI-NAZI EXILES TO SUDETENLAND

Ruthenia Established as Autonomous State.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government today began sending thousands of Sudeten German refugees back to Sudeten areas occupied by Germany. The government also established Ruthenia, easternmost portion of the republic, as an autonomous state.

Premier Jan Syrovy rejected a British plan to permit Sudeten German refugees to remain two months in Czechoslovakia pending organization of international aid for them. Maj. Gen. Sir Neill Malcolm, league of nations high commissioner for refugees from Germany, made the proposal personally.

Premier Fears New Agitation.

Syrovy told Malcolm that Czechoslovakia feared new agitation if great numbers of Germans were taken into the republic, although most of the fugitives were anti-Nazi. Syrovy said they already were demanding German schools.

Malcolm expressed fear many fugitives would be persecuted if they returned to Sudetenland.

Fear Loss of Liberty.

Although economic circumstances are such that few can remain here, officials promised not to send back to Sudetenland those who could prove their lives or liberty would be endangered because of previous anti-Nazi attitudes. Most of those who fled here are Social Democrats and communists.

The establishment of Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia] as an autonomous state was followed by the appointment of Andrew Brody, a deputy in the Czechoslovak parliament, as prime minister of Ruthenia.

Brody promptly declared martial law for the city of Mukacevo and ordered citizens to deliver weapons to the authorities. No reasons were given for this move.

HITLER INTENDS FRENCH GRAB NEXT, REDS CLAIM

MOSCOW, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Pioneer Moscow, the soviet Russian children's newspaper, warned its readers today that "a bloody and cruel world war is near—nearer than Chamberlain [the British prime minister] thinks."

The newspaper said Germany would not be satisfied with the Czechoslovak settlement and probably would want "a taste of French meat next." The article then asserted the soviet union alone is strong against the "Fascist menace." "Developments in Spain and China show that only the soviet union can give a helping hand in the difficult fight against usurpers and fascists."

Pravda, the communist party newspaper, under the caption, "two kinds of war," declared the Chinese and Spanish peoples were waging just wars and said that "a war of the Czechoslovak people against the Polish and German usurpers" would be a just war. "Any war against Fascists is a just war," Pravda said.

Paraguay Cabinet Quits to Give Chief Free Hand

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The cabinet resigned to permit President Felix Paiva a free hand in organizing his régime today. The national congress elected Paiva constitutional president yesterday. He had been provisional president since Aug. 17, 1937, when he led a counter-revolution against Col. Rafael Franco.

RED AIR WRANGLE GIVES LINDY ROLE OF MYSTERY MAN

Flights Over Europe Stir Increased Speculation.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has become Europe's mystery man.

His mysterious flights over Europe have drawn considerable attention in the past. Now interest is focused on them by the report that it was Lindbergh who told the British they could not depend on the soviet Russian air force even if it tried to help them in a war.

Despite denials from both Russian and British sources, THE TRIBUNE has a good basis for the belief that he did make the statement.

Flights Subject of Guesses.

Speculation on the purpose of his journeys has been a popular sport in London. At first it was taken for granted he was some sort of unofficial envoy for America. This belief, however, has been discarded, chiefly because Lindbergh does not mix much in purely American circles.

Actually there is no evidence for the belief that he is serving a European government.

Whatever his purpose, Lindbergh has covered Europe pretty thoroughly, avoiding newspaper attention with utmost care, as is his habit. His latest flying visit was to the annual meeting of the Lilienthal Society for Aerial Research in Berlin. He arrived there by plane yesterday.

Venture Believed Private.

If he is covering Europe deliberately in search of just the sort of information credited to him here, it is believed to be on a private basis through his personal interest in aviation. Remarks credited to him are such as might come from any expert in the course of a conversation.

[Soviet flyers published a letter in Moscow in which they charged that, following a visit to Russia, Lindbergh told guests of Lady Astor that Russia's air force is inefficient. Lady Astor, who was Nancy Langhorne, an American, is a member of parliament, being the first woman to be elected to that body. Russian pilots called him the "lackey of German Fascists and their aristocratic British patrons" and said: "The place he loves best flying to is Fascist Germany, where he was the honored guest of Goering (Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi air minister) and of Hitler."]

Supports Chamberlain In Belief.

Certainly what he said fell on grateful ears and has been widely spread, for it supports the belief of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and his backers.

According to reports published in London, it had a powerful influence on the cabinet's decision to support Chamberlain and not attempt a strong stand against Reichsfuehrer Hitler on the basis of French and Russian coöperation in the Czechoslovak crisis.

Lady Astor's indignant denial that Lindbergh said anything about the Russian air force while her guest was discounted as the sort of diplomatic denial any person in her position might make in such circumstances. It would be on a social and not an official basis, however, that any such statement would be made. Whether he made it in her house is considered to be immaterial.

Citizenship Plan Reported.

Reports also have been published that Lindbergh intends to become a British subject. That cannot be confirmed, but he has given every indication that he intends to settle permanently on this side of the ocean, whether on British or other soil.

The British require residence during four out of five previous years before nationality is granted. This may be shortened, however, if the authorities wish.

In any case, if the Russian story has earned him abuse from the Russians and leftist circles here—who claim he did not even see or know of K. E. Voroshilov, Russian commissar for defense—it also has earned him the friendship of a large body of conservatives favoring coöperation with Germany.

KILLED IN ARIZONA CRASH.

Oatman, Ariz., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Kenneth E. Ryan, 22 years old, of Paris, Ill., was killed and Leon Sanders, 22, also of Paris, suffered a brain concussion, when their motorcycle crashed headon into an automobile on a curve west of here yesterday.

World Flyer Weds

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Edward Lund and his bride, Elinore Hoagland.

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Elinore Hoagland, 19 years old, secretary at Floyd Bennett field, knew what she was talking about when she said she was going to marry Ed Lund, engineer on Howard Hughes' world flight, after his return. She was married to him, it was revealed today, in a secret ceremony Saturday at Elkton, Md.

Miss Hoagland's announcement of the engagement the day after Hughes' takeoff, lent an added touch of romance to the flight until Lund, when he landed, brought Miss Hoagland down to earth with a flat denial that he was planning to wed.

GERMAN AIRLINER WRECKED IN ALPS FOUND BY WOMAN

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Wreckage of a German Lufthansa airliner missing since Oct. 1 with ten passengers and a crew of three was sighted today. It is on Tambo glacier, near the town of Spluegen, on the Swiss side of the border. The wreckage was sighted by a woman as she peered through field glasses from a chalet on a nearby peak.

Experienced Alpine climbers were trying to reach the difficult spot, though little hope was held that any of the thirteen occupants, including two women and a child, were alive.

Hundreds of guides and Swiss, German, and Italian planes had searched for the plane since it failed to arrive in Milan, Italy, on a scheduled flight over the Alps from Frankfort-on-the-Main. The search frequently was interrupted by heavy snowfalls and high winds.

Braude, Former Safety Judge, Injured in Crash

Judge Jacob M. Braude of the Municipal court suffered cuts and possible chest injuries early today when his automobile struck a cement post in the center of La Salle street at Schiller street. He entered a taxicab and went to the Passavant hospital for treatment. Judge Braude, who formerly sat in the Safety court, said he failed to see the post because its light was not burning. The judge is 41 years old and lives at 3318 Lake Shore drive.

BLINDED BY RAIN, TWO KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Girls Borrow Car, Hit Another; Three Hurt.

Two men were killed last night when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a southbound Pennsylvania railroad passenger train at the 159th street crossing in Calumet City. From papers in their pockets the men were identified as Joseph Radlow of 1466 St. Mark avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., a writer for the National Farm News, Trenton, N. J., and W. Smith of Winnipeg, Manitoba, managing director of the Gold Shore mine of Winnipeg.

The men's vision was apparently obscured by rain, as they missed the railroad signal lights and drove onto the tracks.

Girls Borrow Car; 3 Hurt.

Three young girls were injured, one of them seriously, when their automobile crashed into a parked car in front of 5953 Kenmore avenue last evening. The girl seriously hurt is Mary Louise Dinehart, 14 years old, 6244 Winthrop avenue. Her companions were Mariette Casteel, 6040 Winthrop avenue, driver of the car, and Peggy Kanstiner, 6321 Winthrop avenue, both 13 years old. The three were taken to the Edgewater hospital.

The automobile they were using belonged to David Nelson, 21 years old, 5840 Kenmore avenue. He was held by police on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Richard Tavenner, 2 years old, died in the Illinois Central hospital early today of injuries suffered on Monday when he was struck by an automobile while playing near his home at 7759 Crandon avenue. The driver, Norman Rudoy, 35 years old, 7558 Essex avenue, was ordered to appear at the inquest.

Hurt in Collision; Dies.

Mrs. Frances Roznieckí, 56 years old, 5121 Drummond place, died in the Lutheran Deaconess hospital last night of injuries suffered Friday when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another car at Lockwood and Schubert avenues.

Charles Praseda, 34 years old, 5551 North Spaulding avenue, a janitor, died yesterday in the Edgewater hospital from a skull fracture incurred on Sept. 20 when his automobile and one driven by Anthony Biondolillo, 4142 Potomac avenue, colided.

Victim of a hit and run driver Tuesday night, Joseph Makarski, 46, died last night in the County hospital. He was struck in Ashland avenue at Walton street. Makarski lived at 2624 Montgomery street.

Child of 2 Is Killed.

Louis Hamlin, 2 years old, colored, of 5042 Calumet avenue was killed yesterday when he ran in front of a truck. George Vicek, 4154 North Artesian avenue, the truck driver, was held for the inquest today.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 626 persons had been killed in Cook county automobile accidents since Jan. 1. Of these 485 were killed in Chicago, where 15,381 were injured in the same period.

PREDICTS FUTURE OCEAN AIRLINER WITH 50 ROOMS

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Col. Charles A Lindbergh passed up a first row seat today as the Lilienthal Society for Aerial Research took a figurative look at a "luxurious airliner" with "some fifty staterooms."

A place was reserved for Lindbergh in front. But when the meeting opened to hear Igor Sikorsky, American airplane manufacturer, Lindbergh quietly took a chair in the fourteenth row.

Sikorsky said it was technically possible to build "a luxurious airliner of 100 tons, powered with motors generating 12,000 horse power, with fifty staterooms and various other accommodations," but added that many contended such planes would not be needed for years.

ARREST SIX WHO ROBBED DELIVERY BOYS; OLDEST 19

Six young men who specialized in robbing delivery boys of liquor, ice cream and candy as well as money, were arrested yesterday by the Rogers Park police. They are from 16 to 19 years old.

They are Harry Sparks, 1720 Albion avenue, the alleged leader of the band; Frank Re, 601 Circle avenue, Forest Park; Bernardino Trombatore, 6523 North Fairfield avenue; Robert Fischer, 2749 Coyle avenue; John Galvin, 1555 Highland avenue, and Carl Sable, 7023 North Paulina street.

The band is also charged with several burglaries. Howard Kneifel, 39, of 1813 Greenleaf avenue, who is alleged to have received some of the property they stole, is also being held.

THE DRUMMER—COMMERCIAL OR MILITARY.

Before the new wars of aggression started the entire world had been subjected for a number of years to economic dislocations and maladjustments, all tending with increasing force to prevent business by normal, peaceable means. The international exchange system was thrown all out of gear and efforts to stabilize it were only partly successful. Gold movements, artificially stimulated by our own price boost, became so eccentric that as one result our own government buried the largest accumulation known to modern history under a mechanized cavalry regiment in Kentucky.

The classic theory of gold became entirely inoperative. The influx of the metal ceased to affect prices. Goods could not and did not come in. The theory that an influx of gold is followed by high prices and then by an influx of goods which take the gold out again fell flat.

The theory of national self-containment and the seeming necessity for it imposed by the obstructions to trade found expression in tarif walls everywhere, and the struggle of countries not well supplied with material necessities to provide for themselves by other than the ordinary peaceable trade was precipitated.

These countries in their domestic affairs could get along without a gold backing to their currency. Their gold had been drained out. Their goods were refused by other countries or turned back by tarifs. Germany, for instance, lacking the ability to buy abroad and unable to sell in sufficient amounts to obtain foreign exchange, tried the barter system, exchanging, say, tractors for coffee. Three of the military nations, Italy, Japan, and Germany, base their policy of national welfare in the new economic world of trade restrictions and contracted exchange upon the acquisition of new lands.

Germany's colonies had been taken away by the peace and Italy did not get any in the distribution. Japan joined them in holding to the doctrin that their populations required additional territories if they were to continue to exist in a world in which peaceable trade had been obstructed and peaceable movements of populations prohibited. They were required to take by force what they could not obtain otherwise.

A general isolationist theory of national life, whether brought about by intent or force of circumstances, would nave just such consequences. People who could not break through barriers peaceably would, if they felt themselves strong enough, revert to the old habit, once temporarily checked by Roman legions only to surge over them later, of taking richer fields beyond their immediate confines. The dislocation of the normal, peaceable trade upon which the security of the world had been based gave way to the violence of seizing by force what could be obtained in no other way.

Responsibility for creating such conditions probably should be attributed to no one group of statesmen or rulers, although unwise or malignant acts can be traced to any number of men who at various times have undertaken to guide the destinies of Europe, Asia, and this country. The general idea that the victors in the world war should forever sit on the heads of the people they had subdued was as responsible as anything else. Whenever it is made difficult or impossible for people to live and prosper peacefully, satisfying their normal desires without forcibly taking what they want or what they need, the world will be full of marching men and the outcries of the oppressed.

RUSSIA'S PLANNED SOCIETY.

Russia has been shooting soviet officials for the last three years, accusing them of wrecking and sabotage, treason and counter-revolution, and ascribing to them every misfortune of the Red heaven. By this time the persons who have been keeping the soviet machinery from working, if it could work, should be either dead or terrified into good work. There are none of the old Bolos and few of the old commissars left, but the machine fails just the same.

The commissar of internal trade reports that the country is short two hundred million meters of cloth for the first six months of this year and that a large part of the textiles produced is of bad quality. It is difficult also to find shoes. Purchasers begin forming queues at midnight to get into the stores when they open in the morning.

The planned society is supposed to do what the profit system is said not to do—to provide for the needs of all by the intelligent use of resources and labor. Russia has been under the planned society for twenty years — under a great terror also. The terror has worked, but the plan hasn't in spite of the deviations from it. Stalin can put the firing squad to work again, but he can't make textiles.

AN EXPERT SPEAKS.

Dr. Henry E. Riggs of Ann Arbor, president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, said the other day that the federal government has squandered hundreds of millions of dollars on so-called public works which are no more useful than the pyramids of Egypt. The Grand Coulee project on the Columbia river which is being built at a cost of half a billion dollars he characterized as "one of many that are grandiose, have no possibility of return, and add to the public debt on which interest must be paid by future generations."

Presumably there are a great many citizens who think that the criticisms which have been leveled at Grand Coulee, Bonneville, Fort Peck, Passamaquoddy, the Florida Canal, the Nebraska power projects, etc., etc., are inspired largely by political partisanship. It is always difficult to believe that men in public office can be so completely lacking in a sense of trusteeship as to squander billions of other people's money on futilities. And yet the judgment of engineers is all but unanimous on the point.

Dr. Riggs is merely voicing the sentiment of his profession. He is speaking not as a political partisan but as an engineer and as the responsible spokesman of his fellow engineers. The criticism of the public works program is founded not on partisanship but on a detached and objective study of the projects by men with sufficient technical knowledge and experience to know what they are talking about. By way of contrast, the only defenders of the program are precisely the political partisans who are trying to persuade the country into believing that the money has been well spent.

A LIMIT TO PATIENCE.

Judge Wilkerson has shown an almost limitless patience in his handling of the street car and elevated receiverships. The traction problem has been before him for more than ten years, during which he has sought in half a dozen ways to bring about a reorganization by agreement of the various interests concerned. As a last resort he commissioned Walter A. Shaw to draft a plan of settlement which would enable him to close the cases. Negotiations among the representatives of various securities are now proceeding with the Shaw plan as the basis of discussion.

The judge indicated recently that his patience is not inexhaustible. It is to be hoped that this polite warning will be heeded by the procrastinators who have so far succeeded in blocking every attempt to reach a settlement. As matters now stand, obsolescence is rapidly destroying the value of all the traction properties and the holders of all classes of securities are suffering needless losses. At the same time the users of the services are being subjected to discomforts and delays which might be obviated if the companies were reorganized and placed in a position to modernize their equipment. Delay is costly to every one and profitable to no one unless it be those who have a vested interest in prolonging the receivership and the litigation.

In pressing for a settlement Judge Wilkerson is acting on behalf of the investors as well as the public.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE CLOCK OF HISTORY.

A magazine writer, discussing the evanescence of crises and the emotional play on problems of the times, quotes Schopenhauer's phrase that the newspaper is the second hand in the clock of history. "The hand that ticks off the seconds goes rapidly. The hour hand moves imperceptibly. The rapid movement gives a false idea of time, of actions, and of the human fate.

The individual human being, however, lives by the rapidly moving hand. That is why the newspaper is his history. He is as evanescent as many of his problems and disasters. The mass, the race, the breed lives by the hand which cannot be seen moving. The individual might be consoled as a philosopher to know that the race will survive the difficulties which beset him. It he requires such a sustaining or modifying thought the slow hand of the clock will give it to him. But when he considers himself the second hand beats out the time for him and immediacy — the thing which stares him in the face—is his friend or enemy.

The world survived the flood, but it was a crisis at the time. It survived the dark ages, but they were not comfortable. London survived the black death, but half the individuals did not. It was the second hand for them. The short run view is natural to the individual. It has its perils, as when it leads the persons living by the quick movement of time to think too lightly of or dispense too quickly with the institutions such as, say, the American constitution, built for the hour hand of history.

Editorial of the Day

DAIRYING PROFITS IN IOWA.

[Des Moines Register.]

When the average cow on test in Iowa brings to her owner a margin of $68.50 per year above feed cost, $4.50 more than in the preceding year, and the highest income per cow since 1932-'33, that's news.

The 1938 margin over feed costs figure represents the fifth consecutive year of profit increase. In 1933-'34 it was $36 per cow; in 1934-'35 it was $47; 1935-'36, $59; last year it was $64, and this year $68.50.

Since there were 31,535 cows included in this year's summary, representing fifty-eight cow testing associations, it may be safely assumed that the dairy cattle business in Iowa is on the upgrade.

Iowa, for instance, produces more butter than any other state save Minnesota, production in 1936 being 208,926,000 pounds. On the other hand, there were twenty-two states in 1937 where the annual production of milk per cow was higher than that in Iowa, indicating the necessity of improving the strain of dairy cattle in this state.

Despite that fact, Iowa in 1937 stood fourth in the number of quarts of milk produced, being led only by Wisconsin, Minnesota, and New York. Iowa was also fourth on Jan. 1, 1938, with respect to total value of milk cows and hefers on farms, being led again by Wisconsin, Minnesota, and New York.

On the same date there were estimated to be 1,472,000 cows in Iowa, and again the state stood fourth. During 1937, however, there were seven states leading Iowa in cash income derived from milk. In order, they were Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania [all over a hundred million dollars], and Minnesota, California, and Ohio topping Iowa's figure of $73,752,000.

Iowa is one of the great dairying states of the nation. It can become even more important as Iowa farmers find it to their interest to diversify their activities, improve the quality of their herds, and begin to look upon the dairy cattle business as more than a profitable sideline.

The cow testing associations are helping to make Iowa even more dairy cattle conscious than it already is. The farmers who earned an average of $68.50 per cow during this past year are already convinced of the value of their enterprise, and the lesson won't be lost to others.

HALCYON DAYS ARE HERE.

The subject of Indian summer is up for discussion and ecstatic comment. Maybe it is here, and maybe it isn't. If you accept the New England view of the matter, you will say not yet but soon, because we haven't had the "squaw winter" [first drop of the thermometer below the freezing point and possible snow flurries], which is supposed to precede the brief period of Indian balminess. But since the midwest is not New England and "squaw winter" does not figure in our regional folklore, the Linemaster proclaims that the last five days, with daytime temperatures around 80 degrees, sunlight, golden haze, and general climatic bliss, have been the real McCoy.

"A season of several weeks' duration in late autumn in the United States," says the Encyclopædia Britannica. "A short season of warm, hazy autumnal weather," says the Columbia Encyclopædia. "Occurring, as a rule, in the early part of October," says Brewer's "Dictionary of Phrase and Fable."

The Indian in whose honor this blessed portion of the year was named is Canantowan, the Great God of the Southwest Wind in the mythology of the old Narragansett tribe. His warm breath comes to put the finishing touch of ripeness upon squashes, maize, and beans in the Indian vegetable patch.

TO A PASSERBY.

A moment's space twixt lake and sky
I saw you; yet I know your face,
And by it, all your secret loves;
I've seen your eyes enchanted trace
A seagull's flight, and passing by
I noticed how your hands caressed
Rough bark of trees, and how you pressed
A flower. I watched you on the sly.

Warm days in some sweet grassy place
I vow that on your back you lie,
And are content to view the sky
And feel the sun against your face,
To ponder problems big and small
And try to mark the world's ways—
Then in the midst of some great Truth
You wonder at the rising haze,
And slowly stretch and thus conclude
With fitting somnolence your mood.

These things I know, and more beside;
The books you read, the length you stride,
The pipe you smoke, your hair's clean scent,
Your utter scorn of sentiment—
Yet only for a moment's space
I saw your rapture-haloed face.

Checkup on Old Liners.

Please tell the checker-uppers on old Line contribs that Duke Bakrak is not dead [that is, not any more so than the day I married him]. Observations on Laughter.

[A paraphrase of Cervantes' remarks on sleep in "Don Quixote."]

Blessings light on him that first invented this selfsame laughter; it permeates man all over, muscles and all like a spasm; it is happiness for the depressed, wealth for the poor, youth for the aged, medicine to the sick, sunshine on the rainy day. It is the common bond by which millionaire and beggar, king and serf, wise men and fools are bound together for mutual good. There is only one thing, that somebody once put into my head, that I dislike in laughter; it is, that it oft provokes the mien of madmen. There is little difference in appearance between a man caught in the deepest depths of laughter or throes of direst woe.

The sand that edges through his shell
To make the oyster feel unwell
Produces pearls to solace pain,
The oyster's loss, the fisher's gain.

The whale's a fount of ambergris,

The product of his bad digestion
Is bought for cash without a question.

But let the poet spout a sonnet
To ease the buzz within his bonnet,
And though his song's a tuneful splendor
It rarely nets him legal tender.

He slaves insolvent and forsaken
While oystermen fetch home the bacon;
Let others woo the threadbare Muse,
I'll take my chance with sea-refuse!

BANISHING PAIN WITH IODINE.

In these days of a prideful scientific approach to every medical problem, physicians are loath to adopt or even try remedies unless there seems to be a rational basis for their use. When a medicine is proposed for the amelioration of some malady, it is checked and rechecked by groups of investigators in an effort to explain its influence and determine exactly how it behaves.

This is necessary else we would be flooded with millions of panaceas each promising a cure for some ailment. Personal testimony of what is good cannot be depended upon as some one suffering from a prevalent disease may believe that his recovery was brought about by one of a thousand different substances.

While we possess numerous pain destroying drugs—narcotics or sedatives—as a rule, physicians use them with caution. Hence the distress incident to neuritis has given medical men great concern and resorting to some compound for the alleviation of discomfort sometimes has worked no small amount of harm. Serious consequences may ensue —even the tendency to habit formation.

Now come reports indicating that a solution of sodium iodide will be helpful. Patients with herpes zoster [shingles], neuralgia, and sciatica have been benefited not only in the acute phase, but relieved of the underlying inflammation.

French clinicians, particularly, have called attention to the value of injecting into the muscles or a vein a solution of this salt which is prepared carefully so as to avoid later chemical changes. It is thought that the iodine portion of the compound is set free in contact with the tissues and that supplying this ingredient stops the inflammatory process.

We do not know exactly what happens although it is entirely possible that the drug exhibits great power against the irritation produced by filtrable viruses, some of which attack nerve tissue. In fact, many European authorities regard it as our best aid when utilized in large doses in the treatment of encephalitis and its complications.

An English investigator, E. E. Ruggles, has published his experience with shingles, in which sodium iodide was tried in fifteen cases with excellent results. Other authors have supported his findings. Apparently the material is not poisonous as no reactions were noted in a long list of patients ranging from 24 to 76 years of age.

It is common knowledge that certain forms of neuritis may occur because of a deficiency of vitamin B, and the feeding of brewer's yeast to overcome this lack has long been recommended. The suggestion has been offered, however, that perhaps the iodide mobilizes or assists the assimilation of this vitamin leading to the relief of symptoms. Victims of this disorder following influenza have responded to the combined use of vitamin B and the iodides.

The sodium part of the salt is not significant as is borne out by the fact that iodized oil has been employed successfully to combat the pain of sciatica. This is emphasized by a series of more than 1,500 cases, 70 per cent of whom showed rapid improvement under the use of this preparation. No better outcome was observed when the sodium salt was administered.

Treating angina pectoris with colloidal iodine is another straw pointing to the importance of this principle in the economy of the body. We realize that it is needed to maintain a glandular balance and some difficulty has been encountered in its administration so that it would be absorbed. True enough, in the sodium form it is rapidly eliminated. Nevertheless, enough remains, no doubt, to reactivate certain powerful forces which will correct a failure in the gland equilibrium.

All in all, we may look upon iodine as indispensable—comparable to iron—for, deprived of either of these elements, the human machine will not function at par. Certain types of pains, therefore, may disappear when a deficiency is made up.

A DISEASE OF WRITERS.

P. M. writes: My doctor says I have some trouble with my colon. What about my semi-colon? Could that be affected.

REPLY.

Yes, if you are a writer. Many authors have been afflicted—notably Dickens, Thackeray, and Macauley. At one time Carlyle suffered an acute attack. In his case, convalescence was prolonged. Henry James was a lifelong victim. Editorial writers are unusually susceptible. The cause is thought to be some disturbance of the metabolism of the brain.

TEST CIRCULATION, URINE.

C. C. writes: What causes the ankles to swell during the menstrual period?

REPLY.

At this time many body functions are disturbed. If the circulation is below par because of heart or kidney weakness, some swelling of the feet may ensue. Should a careful check of these organs indicate that they are normal, a relatively unimportant metabolic factor may be responsible. I would suggest a careful test of the circulation with an analysis of the urine.

THYROID DEFICIENCY.

F. O. wrties: What are the symptoms of a deficient thyroid gland?

REPLY.

Dry, thick skin, slow pulse, overweight [usually], thinning, coarse, brittle hair, constipation, marked fatigue, and sensitiveness to cold.

A HEAVEN IN A CITY.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Many people live for years in huge cities without being aware that their environment is capable of infinite improvement and more satisfactory comfort. In many ways city dwellers become gradually dissatisfied with their lot and try to move to some other location—there to be dissatisfied again.

From these experiences one is able to develop a credo of the forward looking city dweller, especially the one who must remain there. This credo might run like this: As incarcerated inhabitants of cement, bricks, asphalt, and iron fencing we demand the following rights: Absolute freedom from all noise, be it dogs, cats, railroads, street cars or trucks; freedom from all ugly sights—unkempt factories, billboards, red electric signs, slum areas; freedom from peddlers, canvassers, industrial smells, and all sorts of forlorn chaps whose needs should be taken care of by a just society.

CIVIC COUNCIL NONPARTISAN.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—In newspaper articles in relation to comments on the pamphlet recently issued, "What Really Happened in the April 12 Primary Election," published by the Women's Civic council, my name was mentioned as being a member of the citizens' committee for Theodore F. Ehler for county judge.

While I would consider it a great honor to serve as a member of the committee for Judge Ehler, I am unable to accept such an appointment because I am president of a nonpartisan civic organization, which makes no indorsements of candidates, but is interested in providing honest elections for the people. I feel it is necessary for the welfare of our organization that there be no misunderstanding relating to my activities. We have no part in party or factional political affairs.

PULASKI FOR AUGUSTA?

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The little old lady of Haussen court has passed on, according to her doctor, a victim of worry and excitement over the proposed name change of the street on which she lived to Crawford avenue. The proposal was made to head off a change back from Pulaski street to Crawford avenue.

Why not change Augusta street to Pulaski, as it runs through the heart of the Polish district? Citizen.

FINDS OLD AGE HELP A DELUSION.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—I have just read in this morning's Tribune that administration leaders in Washington plan to offer a bill to increase the government's contribution to old age assistance from $15 to $20 a month, thus increasing the pension in Illinois from $30 to $40 a month.

I hope elderly persons will not be misled by this political propaganda. In my opinion it will never materialize. I made an application for this assistance to the local relief station more than six months ago. It was o. k.'d and sent to Springfield. I have never received one cent as yet and have had no encouragement as to when I'll receive anything. I am without means of support and in debt to those who are helping me.

DOUBLE LIABILITY OBSOLETE.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—A recent pamphlet, mailed to voters by Secretary of State Hughes on the banking amendment, sets forth as one of the reasons why the amendment should be ratified to be that:

"Experience has shown that added liability of stockholders affords substantially no protection to depositors. Economic conditions that cause bank failures often render stockholders unable to meet assessments. In the recent banking disaster about 16 per cent of stockholders' liability was collected in Illinois. Most stockholders of a bank are also depositors in the same bank. When the bank is closed, for any reason, they suffer as depositors in common with other depositors in addition to losing their investment in their stock."

This law was placed in our constitution 68 years ago, when conditions were different. It is apparent the law should be declared obsolete and not permitted to serve as a meat bone to the prosecuting lawyers to hound small bank stockholders, many of whom were neighborhood small investors, placing their faith on state bank examiners to keep the banks safe for depositors.

WAFFLES OF THE OLD DAYS.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Can any of your readers furnish me with the recipe for waffles that were sold around the ball parks by peddlers years ago? It was a light, crispy waffle and was powdered with sugar. Arnold K. Marks.

SAYS HUNTERS ARE BRUTAL.

Ingleside, Ill., Oct. 11.—Now that the hunting season has come again I want to lay emphasis on the brutality of hunters after ducks and snipe—also pheasants, etc. I can see no profit in it except to dealers in guns, etc. E. L. L.

A NEW LINE FOR OLDER MEN.

Winnetka, Ill., Oct. 10.—The writer of the "Plea for Men Over 45" has probably not heard of the profession opening up for older men. It is the job of "household assistants." Several of my friends are using them instead of general maids and they are twice as useful. The "Man Over 45" has much more strength than a young girl, and can clean basements and porches and even wash the car, or garden, in odd moments, for, if he is trained, the work of a general household assistant is easy for him. The School of Domestic Science on Belden avenue is most coöperative in training these men to do cooking, cleaning, correct table service, and even laundry work and baby tending! If these men do housework they have supplied to them room, board, heat, light, working clothes, one day off duty a week, and a salary besides. Having a sensible, older man in the house is specially acceptable where there are young boys in the family. There being a great shortage of household employés in Chicago and its suburbs, it is an ideal situation for the "Man Over 45" when he is properly taught how to do this work efficiently.

Married men usually work with their wives, as couples, and if they are considerate husbands can make their partner's work easy and pleasant. When they have saved up enough money these couples usually start a business of their own.

No one need be sorry for the "Man Over 45," for if he is really anxious to WORK he can find himself as a household employé. T. G. T.

WHAT DOES PAUL GET?

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Government taxes business to the limit.

Business finds it hard to keep up with taxes and reduces help or shuts down.

Union workers demand more money from business.

WPA employs unemployed at $55 a month.

RENTS AND BUILDING WAGES.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Replying to the appeal for small apartments for single women: No real estate firm can build apartments to rent for $30 a month, and pay wages of $1.62½ and $1.70 an hour, common labor 95 cents and $1.02½. That is why you can't get the kind of apartment you want, and you never will when wages stay that high. Heads of the A. F. of L. ought to see that. They don't want a wage cut, but thousands of building trades men are working for WPA as common laborers.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have tenants in my building whose lease expires Oct. 1, 1938.

1. I raised his rent with a sixty-day notice. Will you please give me information for his action?

2. If he moves or stays should he let me know in advance? And how long?

3. In case he does not let me know as to what he is going to do, [4] is there any law that would forbid me to put up my sign Sept. 1st? C. D.

1. Since the right to raise the rent is incidental to the right to terminate, your notice of increase presumably should have been worded so as to amount to a notice to quit if he was not willing to pay. We cannot advise to advantage without having the wording of your notice before us.

2. It seems probable that he would be within his rights in moving out in reliance on your notice without giving a counter-notice to you, but we cannot advise to advantage without having the wording of your notice before us.

3. In general, we would say that as long as one party has freedom of action, the other party has freedom of action also. This would mean that until the tenant has bound herself to stay, you would not be bound to permit her to stay.

4. You have no right to put up a sign inside the leased premises, unless the lease gives you that right.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 13 [Thursday].—A new effort to blame Europe's woes on America's refusal to take a hand in the poker game of European politics appeared in the British press today.

"It is not too much to say that if the first cause of the present miserable state of Europe is the aggressiveness of Germany next to it comes the isolationism of America," said Lord Hugh Cecil, a member of the privy council and provost of Eton, in a letter on the Daily Telegraph's editorial page.

With it was an editorial calling attention to the fact that Germany already has taken more of Czechoslovakia than was demanded even in the Godesberg ultimatum.

Chamberlain's Policy Hit.

Cecil first assailed Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy of appeasing dictators as resembling an effort to make a crocodile purr by stroking it.

The proper way out, he said, would have been "international control over disputes leading to war."

He continued: "This could effectively have been done if we could have the coöperation of better leadership of the United States of America. America, like the priest and Levite, passes by on the other side while the peace loving part of Europe has fallen among thieves. If America would join with the British empire, with France, and with the smaller nations it would be possible so to control commodities that a law breaking nation could not make war but must submit to reason.

Cecil Looks to America.

"I would have the government look for safety not in Berlin but in Washington. German good faith and good will exist only for German interests. But it is not so with the people of the United States. If they would shake off the influence of that most un-Christian tradition that it is right to hold aloof and would shoulder the burden of their greatness there might be hope for European security."

Today's was the latest and most public manifestation of a fairly widespread feeling apparent here during the recent crisis that "it was all America's fault anyway."

While Chamberlain still gets the praise of the majority for keeping Britain out of war, America gets the blame for the fact that Britain was not strong enough to force its will on Germany.

'CZAR' OF RUSSIA DIES; SON SITS ON VANISHED THRONE

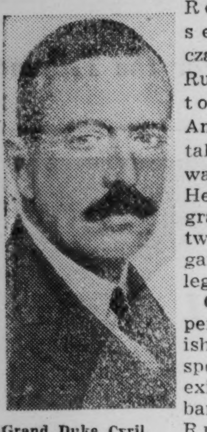
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Grand Duke Cyril Vladimirovitch, head of the house of Romanoff and self-proclaimed czar of "all the Russians," died today at the American hospital in Neuilly. He was 62 years old. He had been gravely ill for two weeks with gangrene of one leg.



Grand Duke Cyril. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Cyril, the emperor of a vanished throne, had spent 21 years in exile. He was banished from Russia by the bolshevik revolution The grand duke, a cousin of Czar Nicholas II., proclaimed himself czar Aug. 31, 1924.

Cyril's Wife Died in 1936.

At his bedside when death came were his brothers, the Grand Dukes Boris and Andrew, and his sister, the Grand Duchess Helen, now Princess Nicholas of Greece. She is the mother of Princess Marina, now the duchess of Kent and sister-in-law of King George VI. of Great Britain.

The Grand Duchess Victoria Feodorovna, the grand duke's wife, died March 2, 1936. She was the granddaughter of Queen Victoria of England.

The new heir to the nonexistent Russian throne is Cyril's son, Vladimir Cyrillovitch, 21 years old. His father designated Vladimir as his heir when he "enthroned" himself as czar.

Czar Nicholas abdicated the Russian throne at the outbreak of the revolution in March 1917. The czar and his family were held prisoners until July 16, 1918, when they were executed by the bolsheviks at Ekaterinburg.

2 Cousins Claim Throne.

Grand Duke Cyril was not the only member of the house of Romanoff who claimed the Russian throne. There was one other, Grand Duke Dmitri Pavlovitch, his cousin. Many White Russians chose to be the latter's subjects. Dmitri was divorced from his wife, the former Audrey Emery of New York, Dec. 23, 1937.

Grand Duke Cyril really acted the part of czar. He maintained a court and surrounded himself with a "general staf." In January, 1933, he called upon the Russian army to be prepared to overthrow soviet rule. Cyril maintained his "court" at Saint-Briac, near Dinard, in Brittany.

Besides Vladimir, the grand duke is survived by two daughters. One is Grand Duchess Marie, the wife of Prince Charles of Leiningen. The younger is Grand Duchess Knira. She married Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of former Kaiser Wilhelm II., May 2. The two visited the United States recently on their honeymoon.

DEPORT ALIEN AGITATORS, ASKS EX-LEGION CHIEF

American Principles Periled, He Says.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—A demand that leaders serving the interests of communism and other subversive forces be purged from all American agencies, political, educational and social, was made tonight by Daniel J. Doherty, former national commander of the American Legion.

His remarks came in a Columbus day address before the state association of the Knights of Columbus. National welfare, Doherty said, must be made an individual concern and the American people should issue a mandate for the deportation of radical alien agitators.

Calls for Education.

It is in the field of education that propagandists must be detected and attacked, Doherty said. "Those having authority in schools and colleges have that obligation," he said. "It requires that students receive an education premised on fundamental American principles rather than being made the victims of unprincipled indoctrinators."

The speaker declared that serene confidence in the indestructibility of democracy has given way to a fear that disintegration impends.

"At no time in the history of the country has the onslaught of subversive movements been so great," he said. "A new technique has been employed. The new procedure is to destroy by boring from within.

Finds Treason Being Practiced.

"Treason is being practiced under the guise of freedom of speech. There is a vast difference between the academic right of discussion and the act of planning and proceeding with subversive plans. The right to act with freedom never has been upheld where such action endangers or threatens the welfare of the government.

"Heresies and philosophies of government alien to the American concept always have found a fertile field during times of social unrest, industrial strife, and economic disturbance. Only by the exercise of eternal vigilance and the full discharge of our duties as citizens, can we preserve for ourselves and posterity priceless rights and liberties."

DROWNING CAUSE OF DODGE HEIR DEATH, JURY TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Oct. 12.—Two physicians who performed an autopsy on the body of Daniel G. Dodge, automobile heir, told a coroner's jury today that, in their opinion, death was due to drowning.

Dodge, who was 21 years old, was wounded Aug. 15 by an explosion of dynamite caps in the garage of his summer home on Monitoulin Island. He was spending his honeymoon there. Crazed with pain, Dodge jumped or fell from a speed boat en route to a hospital a few hours after the blast. The body was recovered Sept. 7.

Dr. K. C. Falkner told the jury that Dodge would have recovered from the explosion wounds.

The inquest was adjourned until Oct. 24 because of the absence of Dodge's widow, the former Ann Laurine MacDonald, who was a telephone operator in Gore Bay, Ont., before she married Dodge. A hearing on Dodge's will was begun Monday in Pontiac, Mich. Under the will $250,000 of Dodge's estate is bequeathed to the widow.

YOUTH IS KILLED IN FORBIDDEN ELEVATOR RIDE

A forbidden elevator ride brought death to Robert Aniolowski, 1701 North Artesian avenue, yesterday. The youth, 17 years old, was employed at the Fascination Candy company at 1137 North Wood street. Police said he boarded an elevator during the lunch hour while the regular operator was away. He slipped into the space between the shaft and ascending elevator car. His screams were heard by a foreman who summoned firemen and police. After fifteen minutes the youth was extricated but was already dead. Employés had been told not to run the elevator while the operator was away, officials of the company said.

20 CANADIANS DIE IN FOREST FIRES; OTHERS MISSING

International Falls, Minn., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Three thousand forest fire fighters kept peat and brush fires in northern Minnesota from spreading today, although a high wind threatened to sweep the flames into this town. Across the international border in Ontario twenty persons were known to be dead and others were missing.

Dozens of fires still are burning in Minnesota. The only hope for lasting relief is a day or two of rain. A long spell of hot weather with no general rain has made the bogs and forest unusually dry.

Ontario police had found the bodies of twenty fire victims tonight. In one community fifty miles northwest of here seventeen persons lost their lives and all members of a family of six are missing. Many of the victims were women and young children who were trapped by smoke and flame while fleeing from their burning homes.

Pull on Fisherman's Line Is Body of Lake Victim

The body of an unidentified man was pulled from the lake yesterday by a fisherman whose hook became entangled in the clothing. Drowned about two weeks ago, the victim was about 50 years old and poorly dressed. The fisherman had been angling for perch at the foot of 32d street. He is Frank Satino, 451 Oakwood boulevard.

REFINERY BLAST FIRES 10 MILLION GALS. OF GAS, OIL

Linden, N. J., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—A spectacular fire fed by more than 10 million gallons of oil and gasoline raged at the plant of the Cities Service company tonight, endangering millions of dollars worth of property and lives of some 500 men who were attempting to bring it under control.

Arrow points to Linden, scene of fire.

Starting with an explosion of a 1,680,000-gallon storage tank just after noon, the flames by early evening had set fire to 23 other tanks, ranging in capacity from about 480,000 to 2,100,000 gallons. Tongues of flames twisted as high as 300 feet in the air, and great clouds of smoke, lighted from beneath by the glare, were visible miles away.

Fire companies from five cities and a fire boat from New York worked with 300 employés of the plant and a private fire company of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in an attempt to check the spread of the flames.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

by HOMER NEISZ

Grass for Silage.

Oct. 12, 1938.

PROBABLY 75 per cent of the farmers who now make hay and also own a silo will be putting up grass and legume silage within the next few years. This prediction was made by Arnold P. Yerkes of International Harvester company at a meeting of the Northern Illinois Guernsey Breeders' association on the St. James farm near Naperville.

Yerkes found in a nation-wide survey that the making of legume and grass silage by using molasses as a preservative is not a new process. It was done successfully in tests made in Kansas more than 20 years ago. Within the last three or four years the process has been adopted by many dairy farmers in different sections of the country, especially in New Jersey, New York, and Wisconsin.

"While there seems little doubt that the making of grass silage will increase rapidly in the near future, there are a number of indications that some changes may be made in the present process," Yerkes said.

Substitute for Molasses.

"Although molasses serves its purpose well in supplying sugar to cause fermentation and the production of the necessary acid, it is somewhat messy to handle and involves a cash outlay from which returns will not be realized until the silage is fed. It seems probable that some other material may be used as a satisfactory substitute for molasses in some sections.

"In the corn belt, for example, it is possible that cracked corn or cornmeal may be used instead of the molasses. The Kansas experiments proved this to be entirely practicable. In Wisconsin, whey powder has been found a satisfactory substitute and skimmed milk can undoubtedly be used when it is available in sufficient quantities."

Various kinds of weak acids have been used successfully in preserving grass and legume silage, but they have met with little favor among farmers in this country, Yerkes said. They are used extensively in Europe.

Advantages of Silage.

Yerkes suggested a long list of advantages of making meadows into silage instead of into hay. First was the greater feeding value of the plants when made into silage since more of the vitamins are retained and there is little loss of leaves. Less labor and expense are required to put up silage and rainy weather does not interfere with the work because the crop is put into the silo immediately after it is cut and excess water from rains does no damage.

The silage has a higher protein content than hay, it fills a gap when corn silage is used up, and provides succulent feed when pastures usually are short. There is less waste in feeding the silage, it requires less storage space, makes less dust around the barns, and reduces fire hazard, he said.

WORK ON AIRPORT SPEEDED DESPITE ORDINANCE DELAY

3 Auto Parking Areas Built and Paved.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Although the proposed ordinance for enlarging Chicago airport has bogged down temporarily with the city council airport subcommittee, the work of improving the flying field is continuing daily.

John Casey, manager of the airport, announced yesterday that construction of three new public parking areas on the eastern and southern boundaries of the field has been completed. These areas have been paved with cement and have a capacity of about 500 automobiles.

Two of the areas adjoin the airport terminal building to the north and south. These were opened to the public yesterday. The third is immediately east of American Airlines' hangar and executive offices at 4848 West 63d street. All these areas will be open to those who wish to watch activities at the field and to airline passengers who leave their cars at the airport.

Build Storm Fence Posts.

Two hundred Works Progress administration laborers are building eight foot stone fence posts at 500 yard intervals around the square mile of the field that is bounded by 55th and 63d streets and Cicero and Central avenues. Stone gates are being constructed at the sidewalk entrance to the terminal building.

Another WPA crew is fencing the now completed but unusable north half of the flying field where federal agencies and the city have spent nearly $4,000,000 in the past eleven months constructing runways, drainage, laying electrical wiring, and leveling and preparing the tract.

This northern half of the field is cut off from the southern half now in use by the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks. The proposed airport ordinance provides for shifting these tracks to a new right of way and joining the now separated portions of the airport.

Install Alternate Power Cable.

The fencing on the three sides of the northern half of the field consists of cyclone wire attached to six foot metal posts. The job will be completed in ten days.

Ninety men employed by the Commonwealth Edison company are finishing the job of running a new and alternate power cable to the airport from a station at 4722 South Washtenaw avenue. This new cable will supplement the existing power conduits and prevent a recurrence of the "blackout" of the airport caused by a power line failure on Oct. 5. The current now used at the field comes from a station at 6451 South Washtenaw. This job will be finished by next Sunday.

HERO OF FIRST COAST TO COAST MAIL FLIGHT WILL RETRACE ROUTE

Jack Knight, hero of the first night air mail flight made from coast to coast in 1921, is to relive history. He announced in Chicago yesterday that he will take off from Los Angeles next Sunday morning in an old De Havilland biplane with a 400 horse power Liberty motor and head for New York City, which he expects to reach some time the following Thursday.

The stunt, part of National Air Travel week, is sponsored by United Air Lines, for which Knight now is director of public education. Knight will be retracing flights he made years ago over the same routes in exactly the same type of airplane.

Knight will fly only by day and only then if weather conditions are excellent. His actual flight time is expected to be thirty-one hours.

BLOOD SMEARED AUTO SOUGHT AS CLEW TO KILLER

Larchmont, N. Y., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Hope for capture of the rape slayer of Mary Coyle, 17 years old, lay today in finding a bloodstained automobile in which she was slain. Police in New York and seven surrounding states were on the lookout for the killer. The girl was raped and slain Monday night after she left a Catholic religious service to return to the houseboat in which she lived with her mother and two sisters.

The girl's body was found in a patch of weeds behind a movie theater. Larchmont police found her bloodstained coat several blocks away, but only a short distance from her home. Her beret was found at another spot, along with a crank handle which may have been used to kill her.

There was a trail of blood from the spot where the body was found to a road thirty feet away.

AWARD WATCHES TO MILLION-MILE AIR LINE PILOTS

Every pilot employed by American Airlines who has flown 1,000,000 miles for the company is to receive a wrist watch as an award for meritorious service, C. R. Smith, president of the line, announced yesterday. The first watch was presented during the day to Walter W. Braznell, 22 Drexel street, La Grange, chief pilot for the company. Capts. George M. McCabe of New York and E. L. Sloniger of Fort Worth, Tex., also were given watches by Hugh Smith, operations manager. The company has nearly twenty pilots who have flown 1,000,000 miles in its service.

TAR AND FEATHER CASE UNDER QUIZ OF GRAND JURY

Marietta, O., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Common Pleas Judge David H. Thomas today recalled the grand jury to consider charges against Wesley Hasley and nine relatives and friends accused of tarring and feathering Evangelist Joseph A. Dixon, who was married to Hasley's daughter against the father's wishes.

Hasley, 65 years old, and the other defendants were free on $1,000 bonds today after pleading not guilty last night to conspiracy to kidnap charges filed by the Nazarene Evangelist from Madison, S. D.

Dixon was found sprawled beside a road in the nearby Mill Creek community yesterday morning. The bride, Opal Hasley Dixon, 22, stood steadfastly beside her husband today. "Everything will turn out all right," she said.

DROPS DEAD IN OFFICE.

Joseph Potance, 40 years old, 207 South Racine avenue, fell dead of heart disease yesterday in the office of the Schiffman Lumber company at 1652 Milwaukee avenue.

Gas Bandit Has Change of Heart; Leaves Some

The robber who held up Harry Horwitz early yesterday was polite. Walking into the gas station at 1300 North Cicero avenue, where Horwitz is the attendant, the stranger said everything would be lovely if orders were obeyed. Then he took $96.50 from the safe. Horwitz suggested that he was going to be short of change. "Here's some change, lad," said the robber handing back $6.50. "I've got no hard feelings. Good-by, and I won't even lock you up."

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

COLITIS?

The restricted colitis diet has its problems: fatigue between meals, hunger, and fear of pain caused by what has been eaten.

Many people have found that Knox Gelatine solves these problems. Between meals (hourly or at least every 2 hours), half an envelope of gelatine in a cup of fruit juice, milk or water, is enough to help overcome fatigue. Hunger is allayed. Gelatine is completely digested; leaves no irritating residue.

Ask your physician about Knox Gelatine in the colitis diet. Mail the coupon for free sample of Knox Gelatine and a leaflet, "Help with the Colitis Diet," prepared by a leading dietitian.

Up there at the top of the page you see the latest of a long series of advertisements published by NATION'S BUSINESS.

This one, like scores of others, goes to 3,000,000 readers of the Saturday Evening Post and to 315,000 Nation's Business subscribers.

Thus it lends its support to the activities of valiant groups of local businessmen all over America who are giving their time and energies to the job of acquainting people in their own communities with what business means to them.

This is not a new policy for NATION'S BUSINESS. It has crusaded for years, in its editorial columns and in advertising, for better business understanding.

And because it carries the ball for business, it is the favorite magazine of businessmen—with its circulation now at the highest point in history.

All of which means it can carry the ball for advertisers or advertising agents if they have something businessmen will buy.

How well it can do this job is demonstrated by such hard facts as these:

NATION'S BUSINESS offers a circulation more than twice as large as that of any other business magazine—almost equal to the circulation of the next three largest business magazines combined!

It delivers your advertising message at a cost per thousand readers which is approximately half that of any other business magazine!

It goes to more businessmen in towns of 25,000 and over than the total reached by any other business magazine!

And it also gives you more coverage of businessmen in towns of 25,000 and under than the total reached by any other business magazine —a clear plus on a basis of cost per thousand!

Any way you look at it, NATION'S BUSINESS is the magazine to carry the ball and produce a profit for advertisers with something to sell which solvent America might buy.

How about joining the ranks of the smart advertisers who will put NATION'S BUSINESS on their schedules for 1939?

Add Long Addresses.

Wilford L. Haslett, Forest River Subd. W. of River Rd. of the 220 acres of the N. ½ of sec. 36 T. 42 N., R. 11 E. of the 3d P. M. and W. center line of River Rd. All in Cook Co., Des Plaines, Ill.

The company duly delivered the merchandise, then another explicit address turned up. The purchaser requested the goods delivered to Keystone road, west on Walter avenue to Pfinsten, south on Pfinsten, 1 block to Keystone, then two blocks west of greenhouse, Northbrook, Ill.

Latest (and final) report about the old man with the Bible. He will be 90 years old in December. Yesterday he visited the X-ray room in the County hospital for treatment. Turns up there every so often, and is quiet and well behaved. He left behind his usual card yesterday that reads: Is My Heart Right with God? What Shall My End Be? See Deut. 32:39; Prov. 14:12; John 14:6.

A retired Methodist minister, he has been preaching in the loop for a quarter of a century, trying to get a message to hurrying pedestrians. In front of the city hall Tuesday he was proclaiming that "Chicago is as rotten, rotten, rotten as the devil himself." Recently he was seen on State street, immaculate as ever in his white tie and shirt, waving his Bible arm, causing several pedestrians to duck, and roaring above the din, "Woe, Chicago! Rotten as Sodom!" Then he continued south, his head bowed under the load of the city's infamy.

How'd you like to hail from Chickie-Chockie, Okla.? A station on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway, twenty-eight miles south of McAlester, was thus named for Chickie and Chockie La Flore, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles La Flore, members of the Choctaw and the Chickasha tribes, respectively. Chickie and Chockie would be about 60 years old if they are still living. The station usually is called Chockie now, according to our informant.

Don't Expect Child to Fit Your Ideals

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

He's probably forgotten he ever said it, but I haven't. It was to me a shocking thing, though I knew him well.

"If my son had lived he would be 26," he said. "Two years older than Felicia was on her last birthday—but perhaps it's just as well he died so young. He would have been a disappointment to me and that would probably have made us both unhappy.

"He was a gentle, spiritual child. I couldn't imagine him playing down a football field, or elbowing his way through the world, and that's what my imagination had already conjured up for any son of mine. No, we would have been miles apart. So, perhaps it's just as well he didn't live."

Many parents have quite a definite image of what they want their children to be. Some mothers want, above all things, to have their daughters pretty and popular, some fathers want their sons to be perfect physical specimens, surpassing at sports, while others want them to excel in intellectual pursuits. Some parents, as soon as they know they are going to have a baby, picture a little child as being good, clean, and docile—a perfect little lady or gentleman.

Then when nature, who goes her own way regardless of human desires, presents them with a child utterly different from their conception they are disappointed. Sometimes they are not conscious of this disappointment, but it affects their attitude, nevertheless. Their dissatisfaction will show itself, somehow, either in an effort to make the child over to fit their pattern, or in a critical or faultfinding attitude.

Try to accept your child as he is! Nature has plans for him. He has his place in the scheme of things. Of course give him an opportunity to be a healthy, happy, well-rounded child; but be willing to have him be the kind of a child he is. Try to understand him so that he can grow and develop in harmony with his own personality and individuality.

This Needlework Brings Gay Little Holland Figures

BY NANCY CABOT.

From the land of wooden shoes and ice skates come these gay little Dutch figures in a holiday mood. They are hot iron transfer patterns which are suitable for numerous types of needlework for the home or for children. They create cheerful pillows for young and old; they may be used on towels, pot holders, chair backs, or wall pictures. All the vivid hues typifying Holland's spotlessness are used to embroider the figures and their costumes.

For the hot iron transfer of the Dutch boys and girls, No. X-519, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

More than 150 community leaders and members of the Chicago Recreation commission met yesterday to discuss plans for a city-wide recreation congress to be held Nov. 21 in the Hotel Sherman. A major question at the conference will be means of continuing expanded programs after the proposed withdrawal of Works Progress administration workers. The commission has started training volunteers for such work.

"Alligator pear" isn't a good name for the avocado, for the fruit isn't even distantly related to the pear. Its only similarity is in shape. The avocado belongs, with cinnamon, sassafras, and camphor, to the laurel family. There are over 400 varieties of avocado, differing greatly in quality and flavor as well as in shape and size. Eatability depends primarily on a high oil content and maturity of the fruit. Test an avocado for ripeness by very gentle pressure between the palms. If it "gives" slightly, it is ready to eat.

Avocadoes are nutritious chiefly because of their oil, which is similar in composition to olive oil, but the best of them contain a fair supply of minerals and vitamins, too. Since this is a non-starchy fruit, doctors frequently recommend it to diabetics. It's caloric value is high.

When you buy avocadoes which aren't completely ripe, leave them out of the refrigerator for normal ripening. To hasten the process, wrap the avocadoes in cloth. Immature fruit has an indifferent flavor, but a fully ripe, rich-fleshed avocado is one of the most delicious fruits under the sun.

Many persons like avocadoes best "on the halfshell." To serve one this way, cut lengthwise and remove the seed. Serve each half on lettuce with French dressing, mayonnaise, or lemon juice. If you use mayonnaise, add a little lemon juice to it, for the avocado needs a bit of sharpness to contrast its rather heavy flavor.

Sliced tomatoes and grapefruit or orange sections are favorite combinations for sliced avocado in salads. Pineapple is good with it, too. So are strawberries. Shrimp, lobster, and crabmeat are excellent seafood accompaniments. Seafood usually is served in the avocado halfshell, with lemon juice or a tart dressing accompanying.

Avocado Halfshell with Seafood
[Serves four]

2 avocadoes, halved and seeded
1 cup diced celery.
1 cup shrimp, crabmeat, or lobster
½ cup cocktail sauce or chili dressing
¼ teaspoon salt

Combine filling ingredients and pile into the chilled avocado halves. Serve on lettuce, curly endive, romaine, or other greens.

Avocado and Lime Gelatin Salad
[Serves eight]

1 package lime flavored gelatin
½ cup hot water
1 small can crushed pineapple [1 cup]
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup mayonnaise
⅓ cup cream, whipped
1 cup diced avocado

Dissolve gelatin in hot water and cool. Add pineapple, salt, and lemon juice. Chill until partly thickened, then fold in mayonnaise, whipped cream and avocado. Chill in cold, wet molds until firm. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise or fruit dressing made with mayonnaise, whipped cream, and lemon juice.

Youthful, Practical Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' JUMPER DRESS.

Schoolgirls, co-eds, and young business women especially will enjoy this style of frock. It is youthful, practical, and has just enough whimsy about it to lift it out of the ordinary. It's a versatile mode, too, allowing for a wide variety of sweater and blouses to be worn with the jumper skirt.

There are two ways you can style the basque jumper effect that tops the flared skirt. You can lace it in typical peasant fashion, or you can adapt it to modernism with buttons in a row and with a touch of embroidery, tremendously popular now, even on the smartest imports from Paris. We suggest pattern No. E-11176, available for 15 cents extra, for this embroidery pattern that's easy to use.

The blouse may have long or short sleeves. Both versions are puffed at the shoulders. There is a traditional shirtwaist collar to frame the throat.

Woolen, velveteen, and heavy silks all fashion a pretty jumper. The blouse may be of woolen or silk, depending upon what fabric you use for the jumper. As the pattern illustrates, the possibilities for color contrast are legion.

Style No. 2129 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the jumper, and 1⅝ yards of 39 inch fabric for the blouse.

Friends Will Entertain for Miss Stanley

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS BARBARA STANLEY and her fiancé, Walter Cobb Coleman, were given their first party last week-end in Chestnut Hill, Pa., where they were visiting his mother, Mrs. Samuel Morris. The parties in Chicago for them will start on Friday, Oct. 28, when Mr. Coleman's grandmother, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, will entertain at the cocktail hour at the Ambassador East, where she lives.

The next night Miss Ethel Johnston and Miss Martha Borland will give a dinner party, probably at the Onwentsia, followed by a dance the young Potter Palmers and his sister and brother, Miss Pauline and Gordon Palmer, will give, probably at the Shoreacres club. On Nov. 3 the junior W. Edwin Stanleys will be hosts at a dinner-dance for their sister and Mr. Coleman at the Onwentsia club. The next afternoon, immediately following the wedding rehersal, the Frederick D. Corleys will entertain the bridal party at cocktails. From that party the guests will hurry to their respective homes to change into evening clothes for the bridal dinner Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sr. will give at the Casino. Only the bridal party and relatives are being invited to the bridal dinner.

The wedding is to take place at 4:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 5, at St. Chrysostom's, with a reception following at the State parkway home of the Stanleys. That day Mrs. George A. Ranney and her daughter, Mrs. Wyndham Hasler, will entertain the bridal party and out of town guests at luncheon at the Astor street home of the Ranneys.

Many Out of Town People in Wedding Party.

Among the guests from away will be the bridegroom's mother and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Morris, and Samuel W. Morris Jr., who will be an usher. Also Mr. Coleman's sisters and their husbands, the junior W. Roscoe Bonsals of Camden, S. C., and the Harl Cooks of New York. And a school friend of Miss Stanley's, Mrs. Bowman Gray Jr. of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Mr. Gray.

Most of the men in the large bridal party are from away, but alas for the unmarried girls, most of the men are married. Mrs. Victor Elting Jr. is to be her sister's matron of honor, and Miss Palmer will be the honor maid. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Stanley Jr., the former Edith Behr; Mrs. Hasler, Miss Johnston, Mrs. John J. Borland, young Mrs. Palmer, Miss Borland, and Mrs. Chauncey Hutchins, all of Chicago.

J. Griswold Coleman III. is coming from his home in Los Angeles to be best man for his brother, and ushering will be, in addition to young Mr. Morris, William J. Strawbridge and William P. Watts of Philadelphia; Allen P. Spaulding of Buffalo, William D. Boardman of Boston, Charles F. Barton of Worcester, Eldredge Jackson of Providence, John Akin, Stanley Haskins, Robert L. Hollins, and Daniel A. Davis, all of New York; George T. Oliver of Pittsburgh, Howard F. Gillette Jr., and A. Werk Cook, two of the bachelors with whom the bridegroom has been living in Lake Forest, and Mr. Stanley Jr.

Youthful Audiences for Symphony Season.

Judging from the list of boxholders for the 1938-'39 concert season of the Chicago Symphony orchestra starting tonight at Orchestra hall, the Thursday night audiences will be more youthful than the weekly Friday afternoon or bi-monthly Tuesday afternoon ones. Perhaps this is because young men who enjoy symphonic music are unable to attend the afternoon concerts.

For the last few years a group of bachelors has purchased a Thursday night box. This year the box is listed under the name of "Aldis J. Browne Jr. and Associates." However, Mr. Browne soon is to become a benedict . . . He and Miss Bertha Erminger are being married on Oct. 22 —so unless Mr. Browne drops out of the group there undoubtedly will be feminine company in the box each Thursday.

Another Thursday night box will be one occupied regularly by the junior Edgar Stantons, the Francis R. Stantons, and the Talcott Griswolds. The William B. Cudahys and William C. Parke will keep a third box filled with young friends.

Etchers Give Annual Prize to Baldridge

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Chicago Society of Etchers has awarded their $500 publication prize for 1938 to a drypoint, "Pagan Princess, Nigeria," by Cyrus LeRoy Baldridge. The etching is on view in the exhibition of competition prints in the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building. The exhibit will continue to Oct. 31.

The winning etching is bold in design and forceful in pattern. It is not a particularly romantic or glamorous or emotional work. It is, if the truth is told, somewhat in the style of the posterish front pages affected by travel booklets. However, it scores high in workmanship, and in this day when novelty is at a premium, it offers something new.

Other prints which possibly will prove more popular are "My Parents," by Walter Tittle; "Vagrant Breeze," by Mildred Bryant Brooks [who won the $500 prize last year]; "Pan's Lantern," by Elizabeth Orton Jones; "Summer Afternoon," by Alexander Mastro-Valerio; "White Horse Hill, Winter," by Arthur W. Hall, and "Slow Miles," by R. H. Palenske.

Tunis Ponsen is showing a group of recent paintings of Chicago in the Tudor gallery, Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. The paintings are high keyed, cheerful in color, but do not strike one as especially significant nor the best that this painter can do.

It is worth the journey to 350 East 22d street to see the magnificent group of flower and fruit prints of the 18th and 19th centuries which have been installed in the Lakeside Press galleries.

The prints are from the collection of Gordon Dunthorne, and the exhibit includes nearly 200 individual prints and some 14 books containing prints.

An exhibit of paintings and sculpture and works in other media is to be found in the Benedict gallery, Hull house. The most interesting feature of the exhibit is the fact that everything is by residents and former residents of Hull house.

Aroldo Lindi Is Ill; John Pane-Gasser Takes Role in Opera

Aroldo Lindi, who has been laid low for the entire San Carlo Opera company engagement thus far by a tenacious attack of laryngitis, found his health much improved yesterday, but still not good enough to justify the risk of attempting the rôle of Radames in "Aïda."

Consequently John Pane-Gasser, who has already substituted for Mr. Lindi in two previous performances, once again took his place on the Auditorium theater stage last night, delivering a performance artistically greatly in advance of his achievements in former seasons.

Fortune Gallo, impresario of the San Carlo troupe, and Mr. Lindi both hope and expect that the popular tenor will be able to appear in "Pagliacci" tomorrow evening.

The entire cast was the same as that of the first presentation of "Aïda" last week.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The shade of your face powder, its texture, and the way you apply it will make or mar your makeup. In this season of blue-red lipsticks be sure your powdering gives your skin the flattering illusion of clarity.

This is no season to be casual about your choice of face powder or your method of using it. Your skin must look clean and clear and be suavely filmed with powder in a tint that is flattering and unobtrusive. It should never be in a tone lighter than the shade of your skin.

We were delighted to hear the other day that one of our favorite powders—a rather luxurious and expensive one—has at last been brought out in a smaller size, bearing a much smaller price tag. We like everything about this powder.

This is of a very fine, somewhat light texture, but it is adherent. Often fine, light powders are too fly-away. This gives a perfect, suave film that sticks with you for a satisfactorily long time.

There are several exquisite shades. Among them is one called apricot, as pretty a warm shade as we've ever seen. It does things for your skin under night lights. The daytime shades have conventional names, but are usually well blended. There is a cream shade that is just about right for the average clear complexion and an ivory that is flattering for the pale brunette.

This is a powder of definite quality. It has a delightful fragrance that clings as long as the powder lasts. And clings without changing. We've had powders change fragrance after a week or two; the original scent becomes strangely oily and sickening. It can't happen with this. The box is the kind you're proud to show, beautiful and restrained—pure white with lettering in brown.

But best of all is the powder. It's downy but clings, and it doesn't break up into patches an hour after you put it on. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Public Library Gets New Books, More Readers

The Chicago public library and its 45 branches are regaining circulation lost during the mid-years of the depression "in spectacular fashion," according to Carl B. Roden, librarian. There were 931,384 volumes taken out last month as against 629.619 for September, 1937, a gain of 49 per cent.

"The infantile paralysis scare a year ago had much to do with the circulation drop," Roden said, "but I attribute the sharp rise largely to a normal return of borrowers because of a better book supply. We have spent $200,000 for books this year, the first time since 1931 we have had a decent book fund. During the depression we were held as low as $8,000 some years."

The monthly gain over 1937 began last March and has continued steadily. If the present rate continues Roden predicts that the circulation this year will be about 2,000,000 over last year's total of 10,366,247. The highest circulation point was in 1931, when 15,907,902 books were borrowed. Lack of funds, however, caused the library to lose much popularity as volumes wore out and were not replaced.

The Stage

"On Borrowed Time," a dramatization by Paul Osborn of a novel of the same title by Lawrence Edward Watkin, will open an engagement at the Grand Opera house Nov. 8. The cast will be that which played in New York, including Dudley Digges in the greatly admired character rôle of "Gramps," Frank Conroy, two boys, Tommy Lewis and John Sheffield, alternately playing the part of the five year old grandson, Jean Adair and Frances Bavier.

The closing date of Tallulah Bankhead's current vehicle, "I Am Different," will definitly be Oct. 22. It will be succeeded at the Selwyn theater Oct. 24 by the New York Critics' Circle prize play, "Of Mice and Men," with Claire Luce and Guy Robertson.

Miss Bankhead will take her company on an extended tour of the south. No New York engagement is at present contemplated.

Lois Wilson will again be seen in the cast of Claire Booth's "The Women" when that comedy comes to the Auditorium theater for two weeks' return engagement Nov. 6. The rest of the cast is drawn partly from the New York company and partly from the touring company which visited Chicago a year ago.

Saturday matinées have been added to the schedule of the federal theater's "The Mikado" at the Great Northern theater.

Good Morning!

On Oct. 31, 1796, Joseph Lesurques, a citizen of Paris, was executed for a crime committed by one Dubosc, a highwayman, to whom he bore a fatal resemblance. . . . This historical incident served as basis for a famous French play, "The Lyons Mail," from which the picture at the World Playhouse has been adapted.

This French production is one of unusual merit—a strong and deeply moving photoplay that captures your interest at the start and grows increasingly absorbing. . . . As an argument against capital punishment it is powerful propaganda that should strike fear and horror to the hearts of men who have in their hands a decision which will mean life or death for a fellow human. . . . The acting is characterized throughout by flawlessly direct technique.

Pierre Blanchar in the double rôle of Lesurques and Dubosc contributes a pair of gripping portrayals. . . . Dita Parlo, a German actress, breaks your heart as the foreign born wife who battles for her husband, Lesurques, to the very end. . . . Jacques Copeau gives an outstanding performance as the judge who is practically driven to render a verdict his conscience and better judgment condemn, and there are several other portrayals that will stand out in your mind for many a long day. . . .

The chapter had its best year in training 15,000 life savers and swimmers; in first aid training, with 245 new instructors; in the production of bandages and similar articles, with 7,000 volunteers setting a peacetime record by making 796,000 articles, and in the training of 4,294 persons in home hygiene and care of the sick, a gain of 20 per cent.

The chapter established twelve new highway emergency first aid stations for a total of thirty-five, which aided 176 highway accident victims.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Contrast.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 12.—Interviewed two people yesterday and the pair represent the alpha and omega of this colony. . . . Paulette Goddard might well be rated the first letter of the Hollywood alphabet, having made but one picture. . . . Adolphe Menjou might well be the last letter of the alphabetical soup that is Hollywood, because he is now engaged in making his ninety-third picture in a career that started in 1914 and which has grossed approximately $3,000,000.

Yet Miss Goddard, internationally known although she has made only one flicker, and Menjou, internationally famous as a result of ninety-two pictures, are not as far apart as you might think. . . . Both owe their present eminence to Charles Spencer Chaplin. . . . It was Chaplin's attachment that launched Paulette socially, and it was his "Modern Times" that launched her professionally. . . . That was in 1936. . . . It was Chaplin's "A Woman of Paris" that established Menjou as an important screen personality. . . . That was as long ago as 1923.

"The day after the preview of 'A Woman of Paris,'" says Menjou, who talks in a crisp staccato, "the industry started on a new cycle. It was an old formula, but Chaplin's essentially modern approach to it made movie history. I think that movie historians will agree that this picture was the most important picture ever made. It revitalized an industry that had run out of ideas.

"The picture taught me something I never forgot, too. Actors, as you know, are always fighting about billing, because they think the size of type in which their names are spelled out is important. In Chaplin's picture I wasn't even named on the title sheets. There was no mention of me in any form, yet the picture made me over night.

"I learned then that the only important thing in this business is to give a good performance on the screen and not worry about anything else. If the public likes your work they'll find out your name fast enough. If they don't like your work billing won't help."

Menjou's parentage is French and Irish. His father came from Paris and was a famous restaurateur. His mother came from Galway. Pittsburgh millionaires established the Duquesne club for his father and Menjou was born in that city. It was fitting that young Menjou, at Cornell, should have as his roommate Leopold, son of the famous Oscar of the Waldorf. Had Menjou finished with his class he would have been graduated from Ithaca in 1912.

His most vivid recollections of Cornell are Louis Wolheim, the mathematics professor who hit him on the chin and knocked him down three flights of stairs, and the Cornell-Amherst game in which Barney O'Rourke, Cornell end, made football history by falling on the ball and flattening it out. O'Rourke, stunned by the unusual accident, picked up the flattened pigskin and ran thirty yards, but the puzzled officials stopped the game, mulled over the ruling, and finally substituted a new ball and canceled the thirty yard gain. "An outrage," says Cornellian Menjou.

Menjou left Cornell because his dad had gone broke attempting to teach Clevelanders the art of eating. At New Britain, Conn., Adolphe joined a vaudeville act and made his first stage appearance in an act with Ernie Carr. Acts were sandwiched in between one reel movies in those days. Menjou stood behind the screen and watched the movie actors in reverse.

Wolheim, the mathematics prof who had belted him down three flights of Ithaca stairs, launched Menjou on the road to movie stardom. Wolheim, adopted by the Barrymores as a protégé, had been selected for the movie rôle in "Front Page." On Feb. 18, Menjou's birthday, Wolheim died. To the amazement of Hollywood, Menjou was selected to replace Wolheim. The industry chuckled at the casting.

"They called me 'the French dancing master,'" recalls Menjou, "and they agreed that the picture would be a flop because I was in it. Lewis Milestone directed it and planned it so carefully that the artist drew sketches of every scene, illustrating the positions we would take. As we'd finish a scene the sketch of it would be torn up. He shot all of my scenes in seventeen days and the picture, of course, is movie history."

I asked him to tell me some of his observations on Hollywood and its people: "The amazing thing is how few people can handle success or money," he said. "It changes them into Napoleons or Don Juans, or both. They become self-mesmerized. You should have seen Rudolph Valentino. He became absolutely impossible, swell-headed, incredibly pompous. I worked with him in one picture. He was the most disliked person on the lot. He really believed his publicity. I could tell you hundreds of them who reacted just as Valentino did—actors, directors, writers, producers. It is fantastic. Everybody can handle poverty; not many can handle success."

Paulette Goddard's story is shorter, just as her career has been briefer. She was born in Whitestone Landing, a suburb of Flushing, N. Y. "I was always ambitious," she tells you, and the cut of her chin and the lively blue eyes are exhibits A and B.

"Success, I think, depends largely upon your physical condition. I've always been strong and, as you say in your column, I'll always be in there swinging. Believe me, they'll never count me out on one knee."

I'd say the ambitious and resolute Miss Goddard is earmarked for success. You get the impression that she'll always find the straight path that is the shortest line between two given points.

Shoe Shoppers Are Charmed by Newest Styles

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Shoe shoppers are being charmed by the new showings. The most glamorous shoes seen since the wizards made Cinderella footgear are now ready for the first rush.

See the Scotch combines if you're plaid mad. Good regulation Scotch tartan has been made into giddy little street oxfords with good walking heels. The Scotch plaid is cooled down with black or brown suede trim. Matched accessories include handbags and short gloves with turn back cuffs of the wool plaid. As good fizzy accents for a dark dress or suit these plaid shoes are hard to beat.

Also new are boudoir slippers with tinkling little bells on the net toe sections. These charmers are made of silver or gold mesh that is as comfortable as a piece of satin; the heels are high. The platform soles and the extreme lower edge of the heel twinkle with a row of rhinestones.

And do take a good look at the newest evening slippers . . . satin wedge soled numbers look like they had been designed for all the lovely ladies in the Persian court of years ago. . . . Gold embroidery, silver, and semi-precious stones are used for the trim. The things give you height and that particularly good feeling of wearing something different or spectacular for a change. They're luxuries, but exciting enough to justify the price tag.

A Door Closed Softly

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright, 1938, By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, accompanies his cousin, Alison, to a party at Lady Wibbe's. By mistake they go to the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. But young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. While in the house David had seen a favorite book of his former love, Betsy Greentree, with her initials in it. Betsy's father died after losing his wealth. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David breakfasts next morning with Alison and her friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke. Penelope calls to tell them their neighbors have acquired a parrot. David learns the Scarpaths live in the mysterious house and sends a letter there to Betsy, which is unanswered. David confronts Scarpath, who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors; that she is being taken care of by his sister. In the guise of a telephone repair man David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she did not receive his letter. She tells David her husband is not in love with her and she doesn't know why he married her. David arranges a scheme whereby they may communicate, with Penelope Wibbe's aid. Then Betsy's writing materials disappear. Dr. Broderick, the specialist hired by her husband, visits Betsy. She always feels worse after taking his medicine. Colin's niece, Angela, takes him to a party where Scarpath is host and learns the guests are secretly indulging in drugs. Penelope is alarmed when no word comes from Betsy.

INSTALMENT XXII.

TERRIFIED.

David paid a courtesy call on the Wibbes, got a private word with Penelope after tea, and learned details which comforted. Today for the first time since the middle of the week, the doctor's car had not been seen—so the removal of the night light meant the patient was really out of the woods. Then, as he was reëntering the tube a gray car flashed past him, and in it he saw Scarpath himself, hatless, serene, with every look of setting off for the country.

Yes, it was all right—and there behind, slung into the back seat were golf bags and a pale pigskin suitcase. Absently he steered, eyes chill and absorbed, on the vista ahead. The car was the one Bream had described as being garaged in a mews near Heath Crescent and reserved exclusively for its owner's use—the same car, no doubt, which Elizabeth believed to have been sold to help meet the expenses of her illness!

A deception of minor importance just now. What mattered was that Scarpath would not be leaving home if his wife was still hovering between life and death.

With a load off his mind, David got back to Bloomsbury and hurled his belongings into a bag.

Elizabeth opened her eyes on a room almost dark. Less dark, of course, than the world she had been living in! This sleep had been the first unharrowed by hideous nightmares. She was weak, though, in fact so utterly gone she did not believe it would be possible to drag herself as far as the window—which later on she must do.

"O!" she muttered. "I've got to manage it! I must!"

"Got to manage what?"

The voice, ten inches away, went through her like an electric shock. Geoffrey! He was here, in the gloom, a shape all blurred, bending over her—so now she understood why she had roused.

"What time is it?" she whispered, flat and all but voiceless beneath the covers. "I—I've just waked up. . . ."

She felt him still studying her. Mechanically he snicked on the lamp at his elbow. Thick, brown paper pinned over the dirty, fluted shade, she noticed, yet even so the sudden glare made her blink.

"The time?" he repeated. "Four-forty." It was as though he was making the announcement to himself—and weighing it. Total self-absorption so maybe he wouldn't think to bother her about what she had said.

"Going out?" she asked drowsily. It had just occurred to her how he, also, might have been cooped up these last few days, in which case he was most naturally chafing under the strain. He was taking ages to answer—looking at her again, closely, with calculation she could sense rather than see.

He never did tell her what he meant to do. She had so long ago stopped inquiring he might even think it strange for her wanting to know now.

No, for once, she had misread him. He hadn't noticed her question. He was entirely wrapped up in his inspection of her face—tense in every muscle, not sure of what he saw.

"How do you feel?" he demanded abruptly and with such urgency she realized he was hanging on her reply. "More like yourself?"

"O, yes! I've got over it—by the skin of my teeth. I can't talk much, though—or even think. . . . Do you mind?"

"So, that's all right!" In the dusk overhead she caught the explosive sigh. His whole body seemed to relax. "Of course, the treatment is severe," he added. "Always does take it out of you—for a short time. I hoped you wouldn't have to have another one so soon, but Broderick considered it wise." Vague, this—attention wandering, as before, on to other matters. He had turned to leave her, but suddenly he faced round. "O, by the way! What was it you thought you had to do? Whatever it is, you can't do it just yet, you understand."

"Did I say I wanted to do something?" She screwed her forehead in a feint of meditation. "Can't conceive what?" She lay silent. "O! Yes, I was dreaming. Of Fanny. Geoffrey, I think just possibly she ought to be told. After all. See what I mean?"

"I quite agree," said he kindly. "I'm sending her a wire."

"No, are you?" Panic took her. "What would he say?" "O, not a wire! Geoffrey—please, let's talk it over." O, this horrible weakness! Her head, as she raised it, spun round like a top. "Not now. Tomorrow." She fell back, sweat pouring from her, and gave it up.

"Certainly. Now get another sleep."

"He is going somewhere." She was more sure of it when, almost at once, she heard the quick, nervous strides to and fro in the passage. "Of course. He had to make certain I was getting all right, otherwise he'd have felt he had to stop in. I am better. He's thankful—if only on his own account. That's a comfort, anyhow. Why, then, was it so awful just now when he stood here, watching me?"

Trembling overcame her. She had subdued it before by a stupendous effort of will. Geoffrey terrified her—but why? Here she was, teeth chattering, limp in a bath of cold sweat.

"Four-forty," she repeated. "Must be nearly five now. And it will be nine, at least, before . . . O, it's hopeless to think of it! How can I? They haven't left me the power. . . ."

It was her last thought as she fainted dead away.

"Always so level headed." Alison gloomed over the silk stocking she was preparing to mend. "I'm telling you, Colin, David's never been like this before."

"That's easy," he observed. "That man's in love."

"You're telling me! And," wailed Alison, "it didn't just have to be with a girl who's already tied up? I don't know how it strikes you, but I say he'd far better leave her alone. All this tinkering about with another man's property may give him a tremendous kick, but it has its dangerous side."

"If you're thinking about the chances of his figuring as co-respondent, they're extremely remote. Mrs. Scarpath's a desperately ill woman."

"Yes, so it seems . . . but look, Colin! Is Scarpath really a rotter?"

"My good girl! Have I said he was? I simply don't know."

"Tell me just a scrap more about that party. You say when the whole crowd got boiled he went on being the perfect gentleman?"

"Conspicuously so. I don't believe he's a heavy drinker."

"And he didn't form one of those bathroom gatherings?"

"From what I saw he didn't know they were going on."

"Well, then! And you didn't find him intertwined with any duchesses, so . . ."

"O, far from it! I've told you, there was nothing of that kind."

She frowned at him curiously. It was all very odd . . .

"And," she renewed argumentatively, "he may have been playing host for the friend who never turned up."

Perfect Speech Distinguishes the Man, Too

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Your recent column on the subject of clear speech adding to personal charm arrested my attention because it voiced an opinion that has been bothering me a great deal," writes "A Reader." "I agree that we woman can stand and should take a lot of citicism in this connection. So many of us are careless and slovenly in the pronunciation of the English language BUT—

"I wish you would write a column or two, one addressed to teachers in our high schools and another to men and boys, on the value of this thing we're talking about.

"Three members of my family, two boys and a girl, are in high school at present and to listen to them and their friends speak makes one shudder. To head them, one would think 'ing' had been dropped from the English language. This is but one of their careless mistakes in speaking. I have asked them if their teachers ever criticibe their pronunciation and diction. They claim that it is seldom mentioned.

"Now that school is on again it would seem to be a good time to direct the attention of teachers to this important preparatory phase in youth's approach toward a successful life. Suggest that teachers make their pupils conscious of correct pronunciation in all classes."

We do feel, however, that while mispronunciation should be corrected in class, the real place to instill the principles of good speech is right in the home, by both example and correction.

If you have need of an extra light or two—perhaps you'd like one over your bed so you can read in comfort, or maybe you'd like one on the wall in the children's room where small hands can't knock it over—try one or more of those charming little pin-up lamps to be had for a song. They're equipped with a long cord which you plug in at a light socket, and with a little metal gadget which you hang on a hook or a stout glass thumb tack. You can even take the whole thing about from room to room, it's so simple to put up.

The Union League club's observance of the Armistice will take place on the eve rather than on Armistice day. The observance will be a banquet and Army and Navy ball. Military pomp and ceremony will mark all arrangements.

The club is planning to make the celebration a major event of the Armistice anniversary. The banquet will start at 7 o'clock in the main dining room.

Maj. Gen. J. G. Harbord will be the only speaker. Ferre C. Watkins is general chairman of the event, assisted by Maj. Frank H. Collins as chairman.

Marriage May Subdue Ego of This Bachelor

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Is it better to marry without love—merely for companionship—than not to marry at all?

Harold M., 39 years old, is debating the question. He has gone with Edna for two and a half years and he feels it is about time he did something about it. Edna is 34. He feels he should either marry her or stop wasting her time.

She has many qualities he admires very much, but he can also see her faults. He is not quite sure she would make just the perfect wife for him. Certainly he isn't violently in love with her.

If Harold were in the twenties, he probably would be wise to part good friends with the girl and keep on looking for grand romance. But at Harold's age, the trouble, we suspect, is not so much with the girl as with Harold himself.

For a good many years he has been a bachelor with only his own interests to consider. It is more than possible that he has acquired the habit of considering his own interests too much.

It is quite likely that he is much too preoccupied with himself to ever fall violently in love.

Marriage for companionship . . . even a squabbling marriage without peace . . . would make a new man of Harold. Marriage on any terms would be an education for him.

Morning, noon, night and weekends, he'd have to consider another person. If they have children, he'd have to consider them, too. He'd have to share his home and his money and his comforts. He'd have to give up a nice session with his pipe to fix the radio.

All sorts of new problems would beset him . . . his wife's hats and her disposition, the cost of milk for the baby, the value of nursery schools, the difficulty of getting his wife to like his friends, the best way to deal with a small child in a temper.

O, he'd probably have lots of trouble. He might even have to commute.

But we guarantee that he'd be much too busy to think about himself. In time, he might even learn how to love again.

Thursday night box. Tonight after the concert they are giving a small supper party in their home for Dr. Frederick A. Stock, conductor of the orchestra, and Mrs. Stock. This is Dr. Stock's 34th year as conductor, and the 48th symphony season. It promises to be a successful one both financially and artistically.

Other Thursday boxholders are Mrs. John C. Murphy and her sister, Mrs. F. Stanley Rickcords, the Edward R. Bacons and the Joseph D. McNultys, who share a box; the Charles C. Morrisons, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, Walter P. Paepcke, Mrs. C. M. Cavenee and Mrs. Walter A. Strong. Other boxsharers are Mrs. William Sherman Hay, Charles H. Swift, Albert A. Sprague, William D. Darrow and Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Miller; Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mrs. Charles S. Davis, Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood and Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin.

Plan Holiday Party for Shirley Hopkins.

The first of the parties announced to make the Christmas holidays gay for the sub-debutantes is a dinner-dance that Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins will give for Mr. Hopkins' granddaughter, Shirley Hopkins, on Dec. 29. The party will be given in Lake Forest, although Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins have not decided upon the location. Shirley, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Farley Hopkins, is a student at the Ethel Walker school in Simsbury, Conn.

All fears as to whether there would be a debutante ball following the Princeton Triangle club performance on Dec. 27 are laid at rest with the announcement that Mr. and Mrs Charles E. Peace will give a supper-dance that night at the Blackstone hotel. The party will be for their daughter, Miss Sara Peace.

Miss Peace, a student at Wellesley, was introduced at a tea at home in September. The original date set for a Christmas dance for her was Dec. 24.

Although Mrs. Le Baron Turner and Miss Margaret Thompson have not decided upon the date for the dinner-dance they will give for their debutante niece, Miss Barbara Mechem, they have decided that they will give it during Christmas week.

The Thursday Night Duplicate club will meet for the first time tonight in the Polo room of the Ambassador East hotel.

Grant Hospital Rummage Sale.

The annual rummage sale for the benefit of the Grant hospital will be held today from 9 until 5 o'clock at the Nurses' home on Webster avenue. The woman's auxiliary of the hospital is in charge of the sale.

The chairman of the auxiliary, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, who returned from Europe last week, will be on hand to assist. Mrs. Donald Wood and Mrs. Clarence Seipp are in charge.

The Woman's Guild of Christ Episcopal church in Winnetka will have its annual rummage sale today in the parish house. Mrs. Walter F. Straub is general chairman. Among her assistants are Mrs. William O. Green, Mrs. Donald Lourie and Mrs. Roy E. Bard.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward W. White have closed their home on Lake Geneva for the winter and have taken an apartment at 1448 Lake Shore drive. Miss Barbara White, who will be a debutante next year, has returned to Miss Porter's school in Farmington, Conn., for her last year. Her brother, Edward Jr., attends the Boys' Latin school.

If the married life of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Dinsmore Jr. [Sallie Merrick Kite] continues at the giddy pace with which it has started there never will be a quiet moment for them. The Dinsmores, whose plans to be married in Italy in August were blocked by legal complications, were married a month later at her home in Chestnut Hill, Pa.

They came to Chicago and just had finished decorating and furnishing an apartment in Oak street when Mr. Dinsmore was transferred to Cincinnati. So the cocktail party that the Dinsmores gave yesterday was a farewell instead of a house warming. The young couple will leave this week-end.

WEDDINGS

A house party given the week-end of Oct. 1 at the home of Mrs. Ernest Irving Woodbury in Burlington, Ia., turned out to be a wedding for Miss Mary Barbara Beal and Mrs. Woodbury's son, Edmund Irving Woodbury. Miss Beal, who is the daughter of Mrs. Sarell Wood Beal of Evanston, and Mr. Woodbury announced their engagement last June and were not planning to be married until after the first of the year.

After their arrival in Burlington they decided to be married. They telephoned Mrs. Beal in Evanston, who gave her consent. Mr. Woodbury and his bride came directly to Evanston and are at home at the North Shore hotel.

The wedding of Miss Jet Black, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert A. Black of the Hotel Del Prado, to Edward Percival Aikman of New York will take place at 11 o'clock today at the Hyde Park Baptist churchh.

Miss Black received her master's degree in speech reëducation at Columbia university last June and is a graduate of the National College of Education in Evanston. Mr. Aikman is the son of Capt. and Mrs. J. T. Aikman of Outremont, Canada. He received his doctor's degree in physics at McGill university in Montreal, Canada. After a wedding trip through Vermont and New Hampshire, Mr. Aikman and his bride will make their home in New York.

Announcement is made of the marriage last Saturday of Miss Mary C. Hand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Hand, to Damon H. Moore. The ceremony took place in the afternoon at St. James Episcopal church with the Rev. Duncan H. Browne officiating. Mr. Moore and his bride went to the Ozarks by motor on their wedding trip.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is hard enough to outguess the opponents, without having to outguess one's own partner. We expect the opponents to make things as tough as possible for us. That is their function and their raison d'être, and if they can outsmart us, more power to them! But we most certainly do not expect our own partners to make bids that are so ambiguous, indeed so misleading, that they trap us into a bad defense. Note West's dilemma in the following hand:

North, dealer.
Match-point duplicate.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	1 no trump
Pass	2 diams	Pass	Pass
2 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West had a difficult choice of bids to make over South's one spade. There were four conceivable courses open to him: [a] He could pass as a trap, in the hope that the opponents would reach a high contract. [b] He could overcall with two clubs. [c] He could double for a take-out. [d] He could bid one no trump. The pass was not attractive because West had no great strength in the adversely bid suit and, moreover, since there was utterly no assurance that the opponents could go past the two-level.

The double was even less enticing. East already had passed and if, by any chance, he were now forced to bid two diamonds on a weak suit, West, with king-deuce, could not support him and could not rescue with a suit of his own.

A two club overcall would not be descriptive of the strength held outside of the club suit. Such an overcall almost always indicates a much better club suit than West actually held, and less outside strength. This process of elimination left one no trump as the best action.

North did not have enough to make a free bid. And now we come to the crucial point of the bidding, East's two diamond take-out. This bid was highly illogical. Granting that East did not like one no trump, he still should not have taken out with such a miserable five card suit. In the first place, such a bid would increase the contract. Secondly, West, although reading the bid as a weak take-out, might not be satisfied with the minor suit contract when playing at match-points, hence might be misled into rebidding. Although a pass by East was the only correct action, I would look with more favor on a two heart take-out than upon the two diamond bid actually selected. Note the effect this bid had on the play.

Defending against two spades, West opened a small trump, because he felt that North might have based his secondary raise on ruffing power. Declarer held the trick and a trump was promptly returned. West won with the ace, and now had to decide what continuation to make. As a pure exit play, he could have led his third trump, but this did not seem advisable. From West's point of view, it might be possible to put that third trump to excellent use, the ruffing of a diamond. West figured that East must have either the ace or queen of diamonds, hence boldly laid down the diamond king. This was a windfall for the declarer who won, knocked out the club ace, and eventually conceded three heart tricks.

If East had not volunteered his two diamond take-out of the one no trump, West would not have risked the lead of the diamond king, and the contract eventually would have been defeated, thus giving East-West a fair match-point score.

Warns Church of Government Rule of Radio

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America heard a warning today against "control of radio broadcasting by the government." The warning said such a control was a possible danger to the radio work of the church. The convention closed today.

The warning was given in connection with the report of the Lutheran laymen's radio committee. After the report had been made by the committee, S. Frederick Telleen, of New York, the committee treasurer, commented as follows:

"Doubtless some of you have read or heard so-called arguments for the control of radio broadcasting by the government. There are dangers inherent in government control of radio, or shall we say control by politicians, which many people do not realize. If any of you are of the opinion that such government control would be an advantage in any way, I should like to suggest that you inform yourselves thoroughly on the subject.

"As it is now, we have made and are making a contribution to the religious life of the country without any dictation whatsoever, a contribution under the present system which would be impossible if we had any sort of government control over radio."

The convention approved a memorial from the Pittsburgh synod, which directs the committee on church and state to prepare for the next biennial convention in 1940 a "definite statement on the relationship of church and state."

COMBAT TESTS SHOW NEED FOR AIR MANEUVERS

Pilots Lack Training Under Actual War Conditions.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Bragg, N. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Increasing need for combat maneuvers by the army air force has been emphasized by tests conducted here this week, according to commanding officers. Brig. Gen. William Bryden, commander of this post and director of the aerial attack and defense exercises, emphasized tonight that what is being done is a test and not a contest.

Discussions of previous day activities of the air and ground forces have brought out many problems that demand solution. Commanders with world war experience find the modern war plane an entirely different machine from the 1918 variety, and while pilots are better trained and have had more experience in flying, they lack the actual war experience that many pilots are getting in Europe.

Observe Safety Measures.

Certain types of flying, necessary in actual combat, have been restrained in these exercises for safety. Not even a blank shell has been fired. Electrical flashes are used to simulate gunfire from the ground batteries.

One thing about the test that has amazed army officials is the ability of civilian observers to spot planes and determine their courses at any altitude. The officers say this would be a blessing to the nation in the event of an attack by a hostile force from off the coast.

In the present test a civilian observer has been located in each eight square miles of the battle area. Their only advance information about attacking planes was that they would come over between 4 and 8 a. m. and 6 and 10 p. m.

No plane has been able to enter the 200 mile front without ground headquarters knowing about it within a few minutes.

Searchlights Worthless.

Air force commanders were elated today when they learned searchlights virtually are worthless against bombers when the planes stay above 16,000 feet. Bright moonlight also hampers operation of the lights. Planes painted black on the underside are almost impossible to spot.

Equally pleased were commanders of the ground batteries, who learned how nearly impossible it is for aerial observers to locate camouflaged guns. Many in position in a circle around this fort have not been seen from the air, although the planes have come down to within a few hundred feet of the ground. Fire flashes of course would be a tip-off in war.

The flyers and ground forces will continue testing their efficiency for two more days and then get together for a general discussion before returning to their home stations.

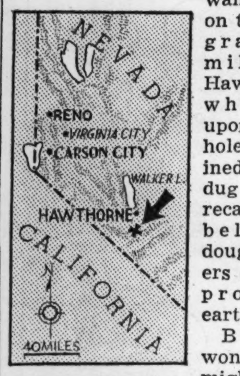
BADGER LEADS TWO PROSPECTORS TO RICH NEVADA GOLD STRIKE

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Edward R. Boomershine was wandering around on the Lucky Boy grade, a dozen miles south of Hawthorne, Nev., when he came upon a badger hole. He examined the freshly dug earth as he recalled the old belief of sourdoughs that badgers are the best prospectors on earth.



Map shows location of gold strike.

Boomershine wondered if there might be gold at the bottom of the badger hole, but he lacked prospecting experience. He told his friend, George Burris, an experienced miner. They soon found gold in the hole.

The partners guarded their secret so carefully that they were able to mine 800 tons of ore before the strike became known. The ore was worth from $30 to $300 a ton.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL NAMED QUEEN OF CORN FESTIVAL

Ottawa, Ill, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Lorraine Williamson, 17 years old, of Dayton township, was chosen queen of the second annual corn festival here tonight. Miss Williamson, a high school girl, will receive the queen's crown in a ceremony at the armory tomorrow night and will hold a reception in the armory Friday as the closing event of the festival.

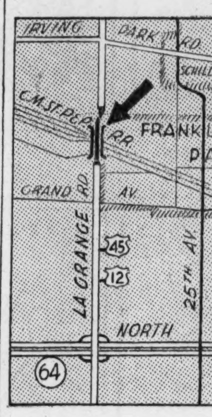
The corn queen was selected from eighty-seven candidates. Eight of the other girls were named as her court of honor. They are Helen Dille, Irene Meling, Dorothy Wise, Josephine Strait, Ottilie Albertus, Betty Jane Furr, Anna Cavatorta, and Marie Fennessey.

Rollo D. McAtee, 54 years old, was named corn king.

LA GRANGE ROAD 'SUICIDE BRIDGE' TO BE TORN DOWN

New $500,000 Structure Will Take Its Place.

The rickety wooden viaduct over the tracks of the Milwaukee railroad in La Grange road, formerly Mannheim road, midway between Irving Park boulevard and Grand avenue, was ordered destroyed yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission. In its place a new structure of steel and concrete will be erected at a cost of $500,000.



The order was entered by James Slattery, commission chairman, after hearings in which the viaduct was termed "suicide bridge." Testimony was given that there were twenty accidents on the bridge in 1937 and two fatalities last year.

The old structure is twenty feet wide and two blocks long, with two automobile lanes. The new viaduct will be 1,200 feet long, with a four-lane, 44 foot concrete roadway. Provision will be made for pedestrian lanes on either side of the road.

Work on the new structure is expected to begin in January and completion is scheduled for late next year, according to Warren Henry, assistant chief engineer for the commission.

Thieves Seized

TRIBUNE TRUCK DRIVERS SEIZE PAPER THIEVES

Two members of a TRIBUNE circulation truck crew yesterday aided in the capture of a young man who admitted making his living by selling stolen newspapers and passing fake checks. They are Ray Stahl, and his helper, Nathan Lipman.

Lipman was fired upon last Sunday when he surprised the young man stealing a bundle of newspapers. He gave Stahl a description and the next few days, while making their deliveries, they watched for the thief. Early yesterday, in the 6600 block on Sheridan road, they saw him and a companion.

The thief's companion surrendered to Stahl and Lipman, but the thief ran toward the lake. There he was seized by Policemen John Cleary and Ray Possehl of the Rogers Park station. He identified himself as James Seguin, 21 years old. Seguin, who was carrying a revolver, said he had passed more than $200 in bad checks in Oak Park and Evanston. His companion said he was John Forsythe, 23, of Humboldt, Tenn.

HAWKS LEAVE TODAY TO OPEN TRAINING CAMP

Hold First Practice Tomorrow.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Overcoats for the world series, bathing suits for today's departure of the Blackhawks for their fall training camp at Champaign. Make the most of it, but that's this morning's release on what the well dressed sportsman will wear.

Joseph C. Farrell, the gray harbinger of the world champion Hawks, gave a luncheon yesterday in a loop hotel. The old boy tried to get atmosphere by showing up clad in a ski suit and stocking cap. He had the Stanley cup under one arm and a gleaming pair of silver skates dangled from the other. And there was sherbet with the meat and ice cream with the pie. But so far as atmosphere was concerned, the function was a sweaty frost.

Mr. Farrell, in his rôle of press agent, had along his fur trimmed portfolio, fairly bursting with data. That's what really counted.

Drill Starts Tomorrow.

It was revealed at the luncheon, where President Bill Tobin was cohost with Farrell, that the Hawks will leave Chicago shortly before noon today and will start skating tomorrow morning in the University of Illinois rink. A squad of twenty-one will work out daily at Champaign for two weeks under the direction of Coach Paul Thompson. Manager Bill Stewart is recovering from an appendicitis attack in Dorchester, Mass., and will join the squad as early as possible.

Fourteen members of the world championship team will report for the drills in Champaign, which will include, in addition to the morning skating, gym and outdoor work each afternoon. These champs are Thompson, Mush March, Doc Romnes, Earl Seibert, Art Wiebe, Alex Levinsky, Bill MacKenzie, Cully Dahlstrom, Johnny Gottselig, Jack Shill, Roger Jenkins, Carl Voss, Harold Jackson, and Mike Karakas.

Plenty of Newcomers.

All hocky fans who went crazy over the Hawks in last spring's heroics know how these boys look in Chicago regalia. The photographers, therefore, will do well to focus on the following newcomers: Joffre Desilets, right winger obtained from the Montreal Canadiens in exchange for Louis Trudell; Baldy Northcott, Russ Blinco, and Earl Robinson, first string line of last year's Montreal Maroons; Paul Goodman, Wichita goalie, who filled in for the Hawks in the Stanley Cup games; Ab Demarco, amateur right winger of the Baltimore Orioles, and Phil Besler, a right winger who played with the Portland Buckaroos.

The Hawks will practice at Champaign until Oct. 28. When they break camp they will go to Cleveland for a game with the Cleveland Barons, who are expected to be in the National league a year from now. The team will work out in Chicago Stadium Oct. 30 and 31 and on Nov. 1 they will play an exhibition game with the St. Louis Flyers in St. Louis.

Open Against Americans.

The Chicago season will open against the New York Americans on Nov. 3. Was a time when Chicago folks scoffed at the Americans, but last year the Americans beat the Hawks six times, including four shutouts.

At the luncheon yesterday there was some heckling of the Hawk officials because only one team will be eliminated from the playoffs in this season's regular schedule. All three of the teams in the Canadian division of the league are assured of being in the playoffs, due to the folding of the Maroons. The one team which will not be in the Stanley cup competition will be the Detroit Red Wings, the New York Rangers, the Boston Bruins, or possibly the champs.

They Are Optimistic.

In response to this heckling the Hawk officials were willing to wager that the Hawks will play to the largest opening turnout in hocky history. The fans need no more than individual games to convince them of the earnestness of the athletes, the officials contend. It was pointed out in this connection that only two teams were eliminated last year, yet the Hawks in two successive games broke world attendance records.

YOUNG IS INJURED

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings lost the services of Capt. Douglas Young, veteran defenseman, today, less than a minute after the start of the first practice on Olympia stadium ice.

Young suffered a sprained left ankle and several torn ligaments when he collided with Eddie Busn, recruit defenseman, in his first dash down the ice. Dr. C. L. Tomsu, club physician, at first expressed fear that the ankle was broken but X-rays showed no sign of a fracture. Dr. Tomsu said that Young would be idle for at least three weeks.

On Opposite Sides of Illinois-Notre Dame Battle

Zuppke Plans Shakeup of Illini Backs

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Mel Brewer, disabled Illinois quarter back, watched the Illini practice for Notre Dame today, but did not put on a suit. Doubt exists whether he will be able to play against the Irish.

IRISH SCRIMMAGE.

Coach Elmer Layden stressed offense, attempting to sharpen timing and downfield blocking, two weaknesses last week against Georgia Tech. He also issued new plays for Saturday and barred spectators from the drill during the scrimmage.

On defense against Illinois plays, the varsity was effective on running plays, but Illinois passes frequently caught the Irish napping. If Notre Dame can penetrate an Illinois defense which has given up a net of only eight yards from rushing in three games, Saturday's contest may develop into a free-scoring affair in contrast to last year's scoreless tie.

Bluenose, Thebaud Again Halted by Light Winds

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 12.—Special.]—Light breezes today forced the second successive postponement of the second race of the international fisherman's trophy series between America's Gertrude L. Thebaud and Canada's Bluenose. The boats will race over a 30 mile triangular course tomorrow.

Football for the Fan

TYPES OF PLAY.

First we have the end run—maybe wide, perhaps short. An old distinction was that a wide end run was over the opponent's end, and a short end run over the ball carrier's end. The latter is often confused with in and outside tackle plays.

An inside tackle play might be called between the opposing guard and tackle. We might call this the "hole." On the other hand you might call play over your own tackle. In this case the tackle, the guard, and, perhaps too, the blocking back, work on the easiest way to handle the opponents — in or out — and the runner is guided by the hole left by his own tackles.

We have next the straight line plunges, or thrusts, through the line from tackle to tackle from any formation and by any back. We have the criss-cross and the split buck. In this case the man receiving the ball fakes to a man going one way but gives the ball to the player going the other way. If the play ends outside of the tackles it is called criss-cross, and ending inside tackles a split buck.

This type of play has led up from the new style formations with the half spinner and a full spinner. In a half spinner the receiver turns half around, fakes to another man, but keeping the ball, turns and either bucks the line, reverses, or passes. In a full spinner the receiver makes a complete about face, fakes, retains the ball, and plunges, runs, or passes. A reverse play is a play in which a man with the ball starts in one direction but then gives the ball to another who comes back in the opposite direction.

A term also used is "weak side" play. An offensive team shifts the line or back field or both to one side or the other of the center. This leaves one side weaker offensively than the other. As a result the defense is unbalanced and tends to shift to meet the strong side of the running attack. To gain by surprise or to keep opponents back, a quick plunge, reverse, or criss-cross is sent over the weak side, often gaining substantial ground.

N. U. and Ohio Both to Rely on New Men

Sophomores may hold the key to the Northwestern-Ohio State game in Dyche stadium Saturday, the outcome of which will have an important bearing on the Big Ten championship.

Both teams are fortified with veterans, but each is placing great reliance upon newcomers. Against Southern California last week, the Buckeyes started the game with five sophomores in the lineup, three in the back field, and two in the line.

Northwestern's first team has no such ratio of new men, but the Wildcats have made liberal use of sophomores in supporting rôles. Three of Northwestern's five touchdowns against Drake were made by sophomores and others of the first year group performed impressively.

Scott Is Versatile.

Foremost Ohio sophomore is Don Scott, 200 pound left half, who has fitted into the starting back field, where his running, passing, and defensive ability has made him important. Jim Langhurst, full back, and Jim Sexton, quarter back, are other new men who have won first team jobs.

Ohio's powerful line, which will outweigh the Wildcats nearly fifteen pounds to the man, includes two sophomores. They are Charles Maag, 210 pound center, and Bill Nosker, 203 pound guard.

Northwestern may start Saturday's game with letter men in every position, but several sophomores will see considerable action. Dick Richards is fighting it out at quarter back with Nick Conteas, a junior, and the two probably will alternate at the position.

All three supporting players at left half are sophomores who have turned in sparkling performances in the games to date. They are Oliver [Red] Hahnenstein of Aurora, who scored two touchdowns against Drake and who averaged twenty-four yards a try; Paul Soper of Muskegon, who tossed a touchdown pass against Kansas State and reeled off several long runs, and Erwin Madsen, former Aus-

GOPHER GAME IS HOMECOMING FOR MICHIGAN COACH

Crisler Will Oppose Team He Once Directed.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Fritz Crisler, Michigan's head football coach, watched his first Western conference game in six years last Saturday when the Wolverines defeated Chicago, Crisler's alma mater, 45 to 7. This week Crisler will complete a coaching cycle, extraordinary in fact alone, and still more unusual if Minnesota again defeats Michigan.

In 1930 and 1931 Crisler was Minnesota's coach. Those seasons his teams strove unsuccessfully to break the long continued run of Michigan's triumphs. Then Crisler left Minnesota for Princeton. In 1932 Michigan whipped the Gophers, 3 to 0, was held to a scoreless tie in 1933, and since then has been beaten regularly by Minnesota's men.

Now Crisler returns to the Big Ten and leads Michigan against Minnesota, seeking possession of the little brown jug as he once sought the same emblem of victory with the Gophers.

These Battles Were Close.

Minnesota's defeats by Michigan under Crisler were hard fought battles and each was decided by one play. In 1930 Jack Wheeler, Michigan half back, returned a Minnesota punt for a 7 to 0 triumph. The following year Bill Hewitt, Michigan full back, broke off defensive left tackle and ran fifty-six yards for a 6 to 0 victory.

In 1932, the first year of Bernie Bierman's régime at Minnesota, Michigan won, 3 to 0, when Harry Newman kicked the winning points. The following year Michigan and Minnesota played a scoreless tie in Ann Arbor. In these four years Michigan won or tied for the conference championship.

Since 1933 Minnesota has won or tied for the championship with the exception of 1936 when Northwestern's 6 to 0 victory in Dyche stadium ended the Gophers' list of consecutive triumphs at twenty-one and brought the Wildcats their first undivided Big Ten title.

Started Five Years Ago.

Minnesota's rise to national prominence began in 1933 when four games were won and four tied. In 1934 Minnesota probably had its greatest team, an eleven that was undefeated. It scored at least thirty points on each conference opponent, and defeated Pittsburgh, 13 to 7.

In 1935, although challenged by Nebraska, Northwestern, and Iowa, the Gophers marched on. Their defeat by Northwestern in 1936 was the only one in the eight game schedule. Last year, although undefeated in five conference games, Minnesota was beaten by Nebraska and Notre Dame. The six year record of the Gophers under Bierman follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
1933	4	0	4
1934	8	0	0
1935	8	0	0
1936	7	1	0
1937	6	2	0
Totals	38	6	4

He Did All Right in East.

During this same six year period Crisler coached at Princeton and his teams won forty games, lost nine, and tied three. In 1933 and again in 1935 Princeton was undefeated. Crisler's six year coaching record follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
1932	5	2	2
1933	9	0	0
1934	7	1	0
1935	9	0	0
1936	6	2	1
1937	4	4	0
Totals	40	9	3

The comparison of coaching records, of course, has no direct bearing on Saturday's game. All that should be considered is that last year Minnesota won, 39 to 6, and still has a veteran eleven. Although Michigan has many holdovers, and several excellent sophomores, it still must be rated below Minnesota. Yet, from such situations come the greatest of form reversals.

Gophers Have the Power.

Michigan will face a team which relies on power. Minnesota has

KILLEFER AND DRESSEN GIVEN COACHING JOBS

Van Lingle Mungo to Be Retained.

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Leo Durocher today was appointed manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team for 1939. The announcement was made by Larry MacPhail, executive vice president, at a meeting of the club's officials. Durocher, regular shortstop and field captain this season, succeeds Burleigh Grimes, who was dismissed on Monday.

Durocher's coaches will be Bill Killefer and Charlie Dressen. They were named by the new manager as his first act.

The new manager's salary was not revealed, but it is believed to be about $12,500. He received $8,000 as a player this season.

MacPhail first appeared alone. In a minute or two Durocher came in and MacPhail announced: "There's your new manager."

Admits He's Nervous.

Durocher immediately was surrounded by newspaper men eager to congratulate him. Leo was glib, as usual, but he said he was nervous.

When Durocher was asked to reveal names of the coaches he replied: "Mr. MacPhail told me in Chicago that I was the new manager. This was at world series time. He also said I could choose any coaches I wanted, and I said there were two of four men I'd like to have. I named Dressen, Killefer, Wilson, and Ruth. I found that only two of them were available, which simplified the job of choosing. They were Dressen and Killefer and they are leaving good jobs to come here."

Attends Father's Funeral.

Durocher's appointment was not delayed by the death of his father, George J. Durocher, in Springfield, Mass. Leo flew to his father's funeral and then back for today's meeting.

Durocher, by his statement, indicated he had sought Babe Ruth as coach, but that the Babe was after a manager's job himself and would not serve another year with the Dodgers as first lieutenant.

"Mr. MacPhail and myself already have gone over it," he said, "and plans are under way. Van Mungo will be back. No, we're not trading him. We expect him to win twenty games."

Both of Durocher's coaches have had experience as big league managers. Dressen, who is 40 years old and a former third baseman, started as manager of Nashville in 1932. After a stay in Minneapolis and another with the New York Giants as a player he returned to Nashville in 1934. In midseason of that year he was brought up by MacPhail, then general manager of the Reds, to pilot that team.

Charley Returns to Minors.

Dressen retained that position until the end of the 1937 season. This year he led Nashville again. The Vols had a working agreement with the Dodgers.

Killefer, a former catcher, is 49 years old. This year he managed Sacramento, a Cardinal farm, in the Pacific coast league, and led it to the championship playoff. He piloted the Chicago Cubs from 1922 to 1925 and the Browns from 1930 to 1934.

Durocher, who began his professional baseball career with Hartford in 1925, joined the Dodgers this spring as the result of a trade in which Grimes sent Jim Bucher, Johnny Cooney, Roy Henshaw, and Joe Stripp to the St. Louis Cardinals.

It's His Fourth Club.

Durocher was born in West Springfield, Mass., on July 27, 1905. Brooklyn is the fourth big league club with which Durocher has served. He started with the Yankees and later was with the Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Ask George Cassidy to Start War Admiral, Seabiscuit

Laurel, Md., Oct. 12.—(AP)—George Cassidy, starter at New York race tracks, has been asked to officiate at the Seabiscuit-War Admiral race Nov. 1. Jervis Spencer Jr., chairman of the Maryland racing commission, wrote to Cassidy asking him to take the place of James Milton, Maryland starter who asked to be relieved for that race.

CORNELL BUILDS AIR ATTACK FOR SYRACUSE GAME

Finds Orange Plays Hard to Stop.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Cornell's air attack will be unfolded in the Syracuse game Saturday if work in practice is any criterion. Whit Baker, junior half back, tried his arm today and had no trouble finding targets.

SYRACUSE BUILDS PASS DEFENSE

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Pass defense and new offensive equipment occupied the major share of the Syracuse practice today. Coach Ossie Solem sprang a surprise by sending a mixed second and third team against the freshmen in a scrimmage. This was marked by some good running by Art Morrison.

YALE HAS SCRIMMAGE.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The Yale varsity trounced the secondary squad this afternoon in a scrimmage session designed to test a group of tricky running plays installed by Coach Raymond Pond for Saturday's clash with Navy. The drill lasted long after sundown and floodlights were turned on. The Blues, rolling up yardage almost at will, slammed five touchdowns over the Jayvee goal line.

WOOD RETURNS TO NAVY.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Emmett Wood, star ball carrier of the Navy team who received a leg injury in the Virginia game, seems assured of entering the Yale game Saturday. He was on the field today and is expected to do light work tomorrow. Meantime, George McDaniel, 160 pound Virginian, and Cliff Lenz, 200 pound Pennsylvanian, have been shifted in the backfield to be groomed as reserves for Wood. Both have been carrying the ball well this week.

HARVARD SPEEDS UP.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Harvard's defensive workout today was thorough and considerably more speed was shown than during the long drill yesterday. Curtis and Johnson worked as blocking backs and Ben Smith continued to have the call over Cohen at full back.

3,000 SEE LONDOS PIN VON SCHACHT IN FRONTON BOUT

Jim Londos, who attracted more than 3,000 to the Rainbo Fronton last night, threw Friedrich Von Schacht in nineteen minutes and ten seconds. Londos, scaling 198 pounds, used his airplane spin to pin the German, who weighed 241.

Von Schacht several times had Londos in danger with body scissor holds. The German weakened, however, when he fell from the ring while diving for Londos. When he crawled back through the ropes he fell victim to the Londos spin.

Bert Rubi threw George Becker in a semi-windup in thirty-three minutes and forty seconds. Both wrestlers were dazed from body slams at the finish. Frankie Hart threw Bull Curley in 28:32; Jimmy Heffner and Al Williams wrestled to a thirty minute draw, and Ruby Kay downed Ken Fenlon in 11:22.

KOWALSKI ROLLS 277 FOR HIGH IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

Al Kowalski of the Ambrosia Beers shot 277, high game in the Classic league, last night at the Forest Park recreation. His other two games were 222 and 220 for a 719 total. This also was high series in the league. The Ambrosia Beers defeated the Power House Candy Bars twice. They still are tied for third place with the Baby Ruth Candies, who won two games from the Schlitz Beers. The Monarch Beers won two games from the Pabst Blue Ribbon Beers and they are tied for the lead. The Prager Beers won two games from the Thompson Restaurants. The Prager's 1,040 was high team game.

Rams Ask League to Take Action Against Pirates

Cleveland, O., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—President Tom Lipscomb of the Cleveland Rams football club today asked officials of the National Football league to revoke the franchise of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Lipscomb made the request after Art Rooney, owner of the Pirates, had canceled the Pirates' game with the Rams, scheduled in Pittsburgh Sunday.

Rooney said he could not go through with the game because several outstanding Pirate players are out with injuries. Rooney told Lipscomb he would play the game in Chattanooga on Dec. 4.

"I spoke with Rooney twice today and he never said a word about injuries on his team," Lipscomb said. "We know he has three good men out of the lineup with broken bones, but that certainly is not an excuse. We had several of our stars on the sidelines when we played the Chicago Bears last Sunday, but we didn't attempt to call off the game."

ODDESA BEULAH, WINNER 10 TIMES, SOLD FOR $6,500

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Oddesa Beulah, little chestnut filly by Wise Counsellor, who won seven races this year before she met defeat and who never finished out of the money in fourteen starts, was sold for $6,500 to I. J. Collins, former chairman of the Ohio state racing commission, at the Lexington sales paddock tonight.

Oddesa Beulah, winner of ten races, two seconds, and two thirds this year and a total of $11,400, was one of the sixteen horses in training disposed of by James B. Jones' Oddesa Farms stable of Detroit. The horses were sold because of the serious illness of their owner. The sixteen head brought a total of $18,675. On the tracks this year these horses had won $25,707.

Plan Parade for Tuskegee, Wilberforce

Wilberforce university and Tuskegee institute, two of the leading teams in colored collegiate football, which meet tomorrow night in Soldiers' field, will spend a busy day today. This afternoon they will end preparations for their seventh annual contest and tonight they will be honored by thousands of south siders in a parade.

Tuskegee's squad, led by Head Coach Cleve L. Abbott, former South Dakota State college athlete, arrived yesterday afternoon from Tuskegee, Ala., by bus. The Wilberforce Bulldogs will leave Xenia, O., this morning and are expected to arrive late this afternoon.

The street parade will begin at Du Sable High school, 49th street and Wabash avenue, at 6 o'clock. It will end at the Savoy open air garden, near 49th street and South Parkway, where a concert will be held. Tuskegee's 80 piece band, under the direction of Capt. Frank L. Drye, former United States Army officer, will lead the marchers.

South Siders to March.

Prominent south siders who will be in the parade include Clinton A. Brown, grand marshal and member of Mayor Kelly's New Century committee; Dr. Arnita Mohone, president of the Chicago Wilberforce club; Everett L. Houser, president of the Chicago Tuskegee club, and William A. Lindsey, parade chairman.

The thousands along the line of march will cheer the Chicagoans on both teams. Five former Chicago high school players are on the Wilberforce squad and two are members of the Tuskegee eleven.

The Chicago boys on the Wilberforce team include Preston Carter, formerly of Morgan Park; John Washington of Wendell Phillips; Clarence Yelverton, Wendell Phillips; James Hart, Du Sable and Charles Bowen, Wendell Phillips. The two on Tuskegee's squad are Bernard Baston, Tilden Tech, and Elliot Van Zent.

Officials for the game have been named. Mel Whebee of Atlantic university will be umpire; Ned Rivers, Talladega, referee and Virgil Blueitt, Lane Tech, head linesman. Frank A. Young, veteran colored sports official, will be field judge.

Pennsylvania Is Hunter's Haven; Deer Every Place

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Pennsylvania farmers have shot more than 2,500 deer this year "in self-defense," State Game Commissioner Seth Gordon said today.

He explained that while hunting regulations were as strict as elsewhere, the commission permits shooting deer that destroy crops.

"We don't count that as hunting at all," he said.

Gordon said there were numerous Pennsylvania districts where deer should be looked upon as pests and not be protected at all. They are found in each of the sixty-seven counties, even in Metropolitan Philadelphia and Allegheny [Pittsburgh] counties.

BOSTON DEFEATS DETROIT, 9-6, ON LATE FIELD GOAL

Boston, Mass., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—A field goal in the last ten seconds of play today enabled Boston college to defeat the University of Detroit, 9 to 6, in Fenway park. Twenty thousand watched Fella Gintoff kick the winning goal from the 15 yard line.

Detroit scored its touchdown in the opening quarter when Ed Palumbo raced twelve yards after a 38 yard pass, Palumbo to Johnny Halpin, had placed the ball in scoring position. Boston did not tie the score until the fourth period when it marched fifty yards before Pete Cignetti went over from the 12 yard line.

Cignetti's fumble with five minutes to play on Boston's 48 yard line was recovered by McMillan. Detroit then failed to complete three long passes and Palumbo kicked outside on Boston's 23 yard line. Gintoff made good on two long passes, one to Harrison and the other to Anais, to put the ball on Detroit's 9 yard line. Gintoff then stepped back to the 15 yard line to kick the winning field goal.

MASTERSON AND KARR READY TO FACE CARDINALS

Bears Expect Full Effect of Shakeup.

It was definitly assured yesterday that Bernie Masterson and Bill Karr will be available Sunday when the Bears meet the Cardinals in a National Football league game at Wrigley field. Nevertheless the Bears are jittery.

Fortunate to win the first contest with the Cardinals at Soldiers' field Sept. 11 by a field goal, the Bears admitted concern over the shakeup in the other camp, which resulted in the dismissal of Mulleneaux, center; Pangle and May, quarter backs, and Nolan and McGee, tackles.

Shakeup May Inspire Cards.

Coach Milan Creighton's drastic move is expected to inspire the Cardinals and the thought of an inspired Cardinal team, which has shown to possess as good a running and passing attack as there is in the league, is ample cause for the jitters. Also the Cleveland Rams demonstrated that the Bears, one of the strongest teams defensively, can be beaten.

In fact three of their four opponents to date have scored thirty-three points on the Bears, all touchdowns. The Cardinals got two of them, and the Green Bay Packers, beaten 2 to 0 in the rain, threatened twice and missed three field goal attempts. Thus Coach George Halas is stressing the line and forward pass defense.

That Nevers Affair.

Since Thanksgiving day in 1929, when led by Ernie Nevers, the Cardinals caught the Bears in their third contest in ten days and gave them the worst defeat in their history, 40 to 6, the Cardinals have been victorious just once in eighteen games, winning 14 to 7 in 1936. Two were ties, one scoreless in 1932, and 7 to 7 in 1935.

Bradley Sells Broker's Tip, Winner of 1933 Derby

Indian Summer.

From the Skyland where His home is
The Great Spirit sends His call,
And the tribes of old Nokomis

They frolic as in days of old
In haunts of wood and glen.
Their bodies glisten red and gold;
There are hosts of painted men.

Their tepees of the misty night,
By their campfires' ruddy blaze,
Wane with October's morning light
And leave just an autumn haze.

But every leafy tree is splashed
And all the fields are filled
With color, where their brushes flashed
And where their paint was spilled.

There must be many Indian sprites
Who loved the outdoor ways,
Who'll always thrill to the delights
Of Indian summer days.

Wishing.

I've often wished that I could be
A star upon the screen;
I've wished to be a singer great,
I've wished to be a queen.

I'd like to be an authoress
And win a lot of fame,
And in Chicago's "Who's Who" book
I'd like to see my name.

But when the rain comes pouring down
My aspirations wane;
All I ask is to be the gal
Whose curls stay up in the rain.

MAROONS LOOK FOR PUNTER AND THEY FIND ONE

One of the principal holes in defensive armor of Chicago's football team—its feeble punting—appeared to have been plugged up yesterday when a new recruit for the squad, Carl Nohl, 190 pound sophomore full back, made a series of 50 yard kicks on the Maroon practice field.

Nohl, who came to the Midway from Shattuck Military academy, became eligible two days ago when results of his examination were revealed. It is doubtful that he will be very useful against Iowa at Stagg field Saturday, since he is still learning the Maroon plays. Nohl is one of a group of half a dozen unexpected recruits to the Chicago team this year. Another of this group, Herb Flack, was with the first string team yesterday at right tackle, replacing Hugh Rendleman.

Hold Defense Scrimmage.

Coach Shaughnessy devoted yesterday's practice period to a sustained defensive scrimmage, in which the freshman squad, bolstered by four alumni in the backfield, Jay Berwanger, Warren Skoning, Tommy Flinn, and Vinson Sahlin, ran Iowa plays against the varsity. Coach Herbert Blumer, who scouted Iowa last Saturday, had his alumni backs emulating Iowa's backfield aces, Nile Kinnick, Jerry Niles, and Jack Eicherly.

IOWA SHAKEN UP.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—At least five new faces will appear in the starting lineup for the University of Iowa football team when it faces Chicago at the Midway next Saturday. Coach Irl Tubbs, highly dissatisfied with the showing of the Hawkeyes in their homecoming game against Wisconsin last Saturday began a wholesale shakeup yesterday and continued it in today's practice.

Jim Kelley and Henry Luebcke, who started at the tackles for Iowa against Wisconsin, are now on the third string, Wilbur Nead and Chuck Irvine replacing them on the first eleven.

MARQUETTE PRAISED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The Rev. Raphael C. McCarthy, S. J., president of Marquette university, digressed from his prepared address at the annual fall convocation of students and faculty members today to praise the football team for its unexpected victory over Southern Methodist in Chicago last week.

"One of the advantages of college athletics," he said, "is that the participants acquire traits that will be useful in later life. Our team's courageous and successful fight against heavy odds and obstacles last week is an example for all of us."

Badgers Test Offense in Drill for Pitt

PITT PICKS SQUAD.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Dr. Jock Sutherland will take three teams of Panthers to Madison, Wis., to face the Badgers on Saturday. Sutherland was undecided whether to use Al Lezouski, guard, and George Karcum, third string back, in the game. Both are suffering from old injuries. Otherwise the starting Pitt team will be the same as that which went against Temple two weeks ago.

INDIANA SCRIMMAGES.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Better coördination between its running and passing attack was sought by the Indiana university football squad today in the last scrimmage of the week preparatory to the Nebraska game in Lincoln Saturday. A few new plays were rehersed.

After scrimmage the Hoosiers worked on kickoffs and returning and covering kicks. A light drill will be held before the squad leaves tomorrow afternoon for Omaha, where it will pass Friday night.

NEBRASKA IMPROVES.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The brand of football displayed today by Nebraska's Cornhuskers, and the return to the squad of Herman Rohrig, sophomore star injured in the Iowa State game, had Coach Biff Jones smiling again. The eleven used in scrimmage, both against Indiana formations and in brushing up offensively, indicated about the same team would start against the Hoosiers here Saturday as met Iowa State at the opening of last week's game.

INJURIES HARASS PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Injuries began to harass Coach Mal Elward this afternoon as Purdue's football squad went through its final hard workout of the week in preparation for the game with Fordham in New York City Saturday.

Allen Shackleton, who has been dividing the quarter back duties with Ted Hennis, still was bothered by the knee injury he suffered in Monday's drill, while Dick Johnson, right tackle, and Jack Krause, end, were kept on the sidelines as a result of injuries from the Minnesota game. There was considerable doubt as to whether any of these players would be able to play against the Rams.

NO REST AT FORDHAM.

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Columbus day brought no truce in Coach Jimmy Crowley's fight to get his Fordham football team ready for the invasion of Purdue at the Polo grounds Saturday. The Rams were put through morning and afternoon drills and a scrimmage, lasting over an hour and a half, climaxed the afternoon session.

De Paul Squad to Leave Today for North Dakota

De Paul's football squad, which returned Tuesday morning from Montana, after a week's absence, will leave again this afternoon for Grand Forks, N. D. To all appearances, back in what should be winning stride, the Demons are ready for the game. A victory would make it three in a row over the Nodaks.

Scrimmage was foregone in yesterday's final session, while the squad was drilled on Sioux scoring plays. Bill Hinckley and Bill Corrigan, regular backs, are definitly out of tomorrow night's encounter.

In three games the Gophers have made forty-two first downs and gained 892 yards. Minnesota tried five passes against Washington, completing one; four passes against Nebraska, completing two, and one pass against Purdue which failed. Minnesota relies on power, sometimes mixed with deception, but seldom on passes. So Michigan's hope for victory this week hinges primarily on stopping the Gophers' running attack. That means stopping Marty Christiansen, Larry Buhler, and Wilbur Moore.

If successful defensively, Michigan then may consider by what means it will seek the winning points.

GOPHERS STICK TO VETERANS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Sophomore Joe Jamnik of Aurora, Minn., and Ed Steinbauer of Owatonna, had pretty fair days for themselves against Purdue last Saturday. But they won't oust any Gopher veteran from the starting lineup when Minnesota squares off against Michigan in the homecoming game before 55,000 here Saturday.

It was thought Coach Bernie Bierman might start either George Franck or Jamnik because of their versatility at left half back, but it will be Wilbur Moore again. Thus the same revamped back field combination of Moore, Larry Buhler at half, Marty Christiansen at full back and George Faust at quarter back will be in at the kickoff.

There was considerable joy when Harold Van Every appeared in a sweat outfit and started running and flipping the ball around, but the coaches say there is little or no chance of using him Saturday.

"Harold is fifteen pounds underweight and in no shape to play hard football," Bierman explained. "I don't see how we possibly could use him. We aren't counting on him until the Northwestern game, since it will give him two more weeks to recuperate."

It was evident that the appearance of Van Every had an inspiring effect on the squad, however. It ran through its paces with the best spirit of the year.

LONG DRILL AT MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 13.—[Special.]—Coach Fritz Crisler drove his Michigan football squad through a lengthy defensive and offensive drill this afternoon seeking to erase effects of an indifferent showing in a defensive scrimmage against reserves yesterday. Minnesota pass plays received particular attention.

Forest Evashevski, sophomore quarter back, rejoined the first team today. He has been out with a bruised shoulder and foot injuries. Crisler picked the traveling squad after practice this afternoon. It will leave for Minneapolis after practice tomorrow.

OHIO FEARS PASSES.

Columbus, O., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The Ohio State varsity today worked out against a possible Northwestern aerial attack. The varsity back field was composed of Mike Kabealo, Don Scott, Jimmie Langhurst, and Forrest Fordham. A blue shirted "Northwestern" backfield included Coyer, Crabbe, Eno, and Johnnie Simione. Simione did the passing for the Blues and represented Bernard Jefferson, Northwestern passer.

The Buckeyes uncorked many of their razzle-dazzle plays in the scrimmage today. The team will leave for Evanston tomorrow night.

MASTERPIECE WINS DASH AT SPORTSMAN PARK

Pokeaway Is Disqualified After Running Second.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Masterpiece, a five year old gelding which has been living the life of Riley this last year without living up to his name, made good for his new owner, C. E. Davison, in winning the Columbus Day purse at Sportsman's park yesterday.

Claimed last month by Davison at Hawthorne, Masterpiece had been running since Jan. 1 with one measly victory in 23 starts. Maybe it was a holiday crowd of 6,000 that inspired him to win. Maybe he craved an extra order of oats for his meal last night. And maybe the presence of Jocky Hank Hauer in the saddle had a mite to do with his victory.

At any rate, Masterpiece took the mile and 70 yard feature of the little half-mile merry-go-round. Third the first time around, back of Pokeaway, 2 to 1 choice, and Polly Hastings, Masterpiece came up on the outside in the stretch and won in a photo finish by a head from Pokeaway. The latter ridden by T. P. Martin, was disqualified for moving in too sharply at the first turn. The long shot Pompasse was moved up to second place, and Polly Hastings was given third. Masterpiece third choice in the betting, paid $9.60.

The daily double paid $28.80 and was provided by the collaboration of two second choice victories. The Lexbrook stables Merry Saxon, ridden by Jocky Bodiou, took the six and one-half furlong first race by a half length from Oak Park, with the long shot Mira Servant settling for the show money. Charlotte G., the favorite at 5 to 2, was never a factor. Merry Saxon's public was given quite a scare when she went so wide in the back stretch that it appeared she was heading for the stables. Bodiou brought her back in enough to conquer Oak Park after the latter had taken the lead for a bit. The winner paid $8.60.

Morning Mail Wins.

The double was completed by an Aurora family combination. Trainer J. Oros sent his son Jocky J. E. Oros out on Morning Mail owned by his mother and the young man delivered the post by a length and a half over Sherab Jr. The latter a long shot had held the advantage up to the top of the stretch, whereat Morning Mail came through. Blaze D'or, another long shot, was third, while Ep, the favorite at 2 to 1 could get no better than fourth. Morning Mail rewarded his supporters with $7.60.

The second choice Sequence was broken in the third race when Jobioso, a 7 to 2 favorite, took a photo finish decision over Lady Thirteen, the pacemaker until the last few strides. Say Do was third. Jockies Whiting on Jobioso and Conley on Lady Thirteen, which was a 4 to 1 chance, rassled through a whipping match in the last furlong, but Jobioso had too much for the Burrell mare. Jobioso paid $9.40.

RAIL LABOR CHIEF LASHES PAY CUT MOVE AT HEARING

Conflicts with Roosevelt Policy, Says Harrison.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The 15 per cent wage cut proposed by the railroads was denounced by George Harrison, labor spokesman, today. He said it is in direct conflict with President Roosevelt's recovery program.

The head of the Railway Labor Executive association registered his objection before the emergency fact finding board appointed by the President in an effort to avert a strike over the proposed reduction.

"The President of the United States has made it known in unmistakable terms that industry and labor should unite to prevent wage reductions," he said. "We will not desert him."

Cites Effort to Get Action.

Harrison detailed for the board the attempts of a group representing labor and management to obtain "legislative relief" for railroads at the last session of congress.

Harrison said the chief executive had asked a representative group to "develop a program for the railroad industry" and that as work started the subject of a wage reduction came up.

Says Move Killed Program.

He said the railroads "wanted to have their cake and eat it too," and that "this killed the relief legislation."

Msgr. John A. Ryan, president of the National Catholic Welfare counsel, was the first witness for labor at the day's session.

"A wage cut in this great national industry would contradict the present national policy and greatly retard, if not completely check, progress toward business recovery," he testified.

Hammond Instrument.

Investors' Guide: Please tell me about the financial position of the Hammond Instrument company, Chicago. Has the suit against this firm been settled?—R. P. M.

Answer: Formerly known as the Hammond Clock company, the Hammond Instrument company changed its name to the present one in August, 1937, to make the title more accurately describe its operations. Clocks, formerly the chief product, last year accounted for less than one-fourth of the total volume. Musical instruments represented 74 per cent of sales, against 64 per cent in the preceding year.

The chief item among musical instruments made is a pipeless portable electric organ, introduced in 1935. A complaint was filed in that year by the Federal Trade commission because of certain claims made by the firm in advertising its organ. A "cease and desist" order in July of this year by the FTC settled the case. The company said advertising statements banned by the order had not been used for three years.

Profiting from organ sales, the company reported net income in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1936, of $228,394, after four consecutive years of losses. In the next year net income was $364,680, and in the year to March 31, 1938, amounted to $323,899 or 82 cents a common share. The best year was 1931, when net income was $507,720.

The common stock was split four-for-one in 1937, making a total of 373,304 shares of $1 par outstanding. The company also has 9,829 shares outstanding of 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock. This was issued in the form of dividends on the common in 1936 and 1937.

An initial dividend of 15 cents cash and one-hundredth share of 6 per cent preferred stock was paid on the $1 par common stock March 16, 1938. On the old stock, before the split, $2 a share was distributed each year in 1936 and 1937.

The Winnipeg grain market was affected yesterday by the Columbus day shutdown of exchanges in the United States. Trade was brought virtually to a standstill after an early flourish because of the lack of intermarket operations.

At Liverpool prices of wheat futures rose ⅞ to 1¼ pence on a report that dry weather may have affected the Australian crop.

At Winnipeg wheat futures rallied a cent at the opening, then slipped to close only ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher. Trading stopped for long periods throughout the day. Range in prices in Winnipeg:

FOREIGN STOCK TRADE QUIET, PRICES UNEVEN

Trading in stock markets abroad was quiet yesterday. Prices showed a slightly mixed trend. It was apparent that the foreign markets were affected by the closing of the leading American stock exchanges.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Continued heavy selling of spring pigs by farmers yesterday quickened the downward swing of pork and hog prices. Markets sank to new lows for the season, and reached the lowest October levels in four years as supplies swamped buyers.

In the first three days of this week Chicago handled 70,000 hogs, the largest three day run in nine months. A year ago arrivals were 40,959 for the three days.

Top fresh pork loins fell 50 cents per hundred pounds to $18 yesterday. The heaviest loins sold at $14. Losses for the day in hogs ranged from 10 to 25 cents.

Trends were mixed in other branches of live stock, although prices as a rule in cattle and lambs held up well in face of the low rates prevailing for hogs.

Most fat lambs sold steady to 10 cents higher.

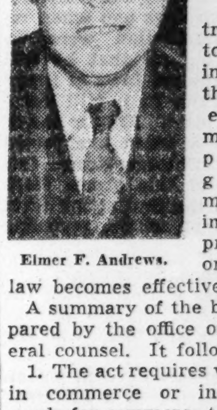
WAGE-HOUR LAW GIVEN 'WIDEST' INTERPRETATION

Andrews Defines Scope of Regulations.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, said today congress intended the "widest possible application" of the labor standards act to interstate commerce.



Elmer F. Andrews.

"The administrator should lean toward a broad interpretation of the keywords, engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce,'" he said in his first interpretative bulletin on the act. The law becomes effective Oct. 24.

A summary of the bulletin was prepared by the office of Andrews' general counsel. It follows, in part:

1. The act requires workers engaged in commerce or in production of goods for commerce to be paid a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour beginning Oct. 24.

2. The first category of workers included in the act applies "typically but not exclusively" to employés in the telephone, telegraph, radio, and transportation industries and in warehouses the storage facilities of which are used in interstate distribution of goods.

3. The second category applies, for example, to workers in manufacturing, processing, or distributing plants a part of whose goods moves out of the state where the plant is located.

"This is not limited merely to employés who are engaged in actual physical work on the product itself. The benefits of the statute are extended to such employés as maintenance workers, watchmen, clerks, stenographers, and messengers."

4. Employés subject to the act are entitled to its benefits whether they perform their work at home, in the factory, or elsewhere.

5. The act is not limited to employés working on an hourly wage. Workers must be paid at the rate of not less than 25 cents an hour the first year.

U. S. CONSIDERS COMBINING FARM AID AND RELIEF

May Subsidize Crops Used for Needy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace today confirmed reports that the administration is working on a new scheme to combine the relief and farm problems. This will be done by subsidizing the distribution of agricultural surpluses to low income groups.

At his press conference, Wallace said that discussions now under way concerned "the extent to which such a plan is feasible."

"You may have heard," he said, "that this administration is interested in the lower one-third of the population."

Explaining how the new program might work, Wallace said relief and low income consumers could buy through the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation at prices below those prevailing in the regular markets with the government paying the difference.

May Use Customs Receipts.

In purchasing such products, the FSCC might use funds allocated from customs receipts. Whether the subsidized products would be distributed through regular market channels or government controled stores is a matter that has not been determined, the secretary said.

Apparently the plan would apply to cotton, pork, fruits, vegetables, milk, and butter, but not wheat. Wallace said it would cover commodities for which demand is elastic. Low prices, he said, would not cause any large increase in the amount of wheat used, because people can eat only so much bread.

"There is no doubt," he added, "that they could eat more fruits, vegetables, and dairy products."

Opposes Allotment Plan.

Wallace reaffirmed his opposition to the increasing demands in agricultural states for a price fixing, domestic allotment farm program. Under this program the farmer would be guaranteed the cost of production, plus a salary, for the part of his crop sold for domestic consumption and would take the world price for the remainder.

The widespread agitation for the domestic allotment and cost of production plan, as proposed by the McAdoo-Eicher bill in the last session of congress, has resulted from the failure of the administration's farm dictatorship scheme to keep prices up or surpluses down.

Shows His Uneasiness.

Wallace manifested his uneasiness about the farm situation today when he announced that he would leave tomorrow on a political speaking tour that will take him into Iowa, South Dakota, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

On a previous stump tour he urged support of the existing farm act, but broadly hinted at substantial changes that might be made.

Wallace's admission at today's press conference, however, constituted the first official confirmation of the administration's scheme to experiment with the wholesale subsidization of a wide range of farm commodities for consumption by low income groups.

Proposed as Permanent Policy.

The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation has been buying and distributing surplus farm products, to a limited extent, as a relief expedient, but the plan now under discussion contemplates its expansion as a permanent policy. Wallace admitted the new plan would cost more than anything ever contemplated under FSCC relief activities.

It is reported in reliable quarters that President Roosevelt wholeheartedly approves Wallace's new panacea and will make an announcement on the subject soon. Such an announcement would be calculated to calm the farm rebellion before the November congressional election.

Everyday Economics

Hides to Lether—VII.

The tanning industry is considered a "speculative" business because of the lapse of time which separates the purchase of the raw hides and skins from the completion of the tanning process. In the making of heavy lethers, such as soles, tanning requires five months.

During this period prices can vary considerably. Many tanners assert that no profits can be made in the industry unless the market is rising. A falling market brings losses because the tanner pays more for his raw hides than the price for which they sell five months later when his lether is ready for the market.

Out of the average hide weighing 50 pounds, the tanner obtains about 35 pounds of lether. Some of the waste, however, is sold as byproducts. The unwanted hair becomes the fiber in felt or plaster, and the fleshing of the hide has been made into gelatin food.

MEXICO TO BUY U. S. WHEAT UNDER DOUBLE SUBSIDY AGREEMENT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 12.—The Mexican government has agreed to buy immediately in the United States more than 3,000,000 bushels of wheat under the American subsidy plan. It is believed to be the first such deal since the subsidies were announced in Washington.

A contract has been signed with the Continental Grain company of Kansas City for 1,120,000 bushels of hard wheat at a cost of about $760,000, close to 68 cents a bushel.

The purchase is regarded as particularly interesting, since Washington is paying a double subsidy—one on wheat and the second on the silver from which Mexico obtained the money for the purchase.

The arrangement is the result of negotiations between the Mexican Export and Import bank and the AAA. Mexico will pay with money obtained from the new general export tax, of which United States mining companies bear the brunt.

Steel Makers Busier as Auto Output Grows

Quickening automobile production is chiefly responsible for this week's jump in steel ingot output to 51.6 per cent of mill capacity, Iron Age said yesterday. The gain from the preceding week, when the nation's mills were working at 49 per cent of capacity, is the sharpest weekly rise in 1938 except for post-holiday recoveries, the magazine said.

SUGAR DELIVERIES DIP.

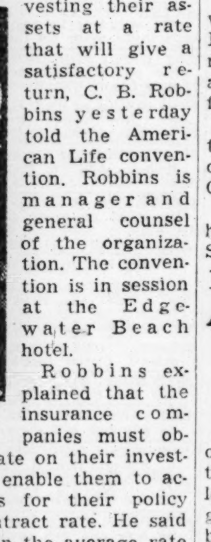
The Agricultural Adjustment administration reports that sugar delivered to the American market under the quota system during the first eight months of this year totaled 4,194,783 short tons, raw value, compared with 4,784,289 short tons last year.

BANKS, MARKETS REOPEN TODAY

United States security and commodity exchanges which were closed yesterday in observance of Columbus day will reopen this morning. Affected by the holiday were all leading stock exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade and other leading grain marts, and most of the principal commodity marts. The Buenos Aires grain market also was closed. European and Canadian exchanges remained open yesterday.

Insurance Men Scan Problem of Using Funds

Life insurance companies continue to face the difficult problem of investing their assets at a rate that will give a satisfactory return, C. B. Robbins yesterday told the American Life convention. Robbins is manager and general counsel of the organization. The convention is in session at the Edgewater Beach hotel.



C. B. Robbins.

Robbins explained that the insurance companies must obtain an interest rate on their investments which will enable them to accumulate reserves for their policy holders at the contract rate. He said a slight increase in the average rate earned on invested assets has taken place. The average is now 3.8 per cent, he added.

Robbins said there are reports that a large number of banks have been taking over policy loans. This is done by making direct loans to borrowers who use the money to repay the life insurance loans.

Touching on social security, Robbins said there have been many reports from Washington that congress will be asked to amend the social security act to include different classes, including farmers and self-employed persons.

He said that in his opinion it would be well not to enlarge the social security act until studies being made by a special subcommittee of the senate are concluded.

W. T. Grant, Kansas City, was elected president of the convention. Three new members were added to the executive committee—Henry R. Wilson, retiring president; A. J. McAndless, Fort Wayne, and Julian Price, Greensboro, N. C.

RAILWAY ASKS REFUNDING.

The co-receivers of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad have applied to the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $550,000 of receivers' certificates of indebtedness in renewal of a like amount of such obligations which will mature Nov. 27.

CONTAINER'S QUARTER PROFIT $16,144; MARKS REVERSAL OF LOSSES

Container Corporation of America operated at a profit in the September quarter after incurring losses in the two preceding quarters, Walter P. Paepcke, president, said yesterday.

Net income for the third quarter was $16,144, equal to 2 cents a share. In the September quarter last year net income was $426,462, or 55 cents a share. Paepcke said the outlook for October is encouraging.

The Carriers and General corporation reported its net asset value per common share was $5.29 on Sept. 30. On June 30 it was $5.17.

Net loss of the Industrial Brownhoist corporation in the quarter ended Sept. 30 was $61,850.

ARMOUR VOTE ON BARGAINING ISSUE IS ENDED

Results of an election among Armour & Co. employés to determine if the United Packinghouse Workers, local 347, is to be designated the bargaining agent for all employés will be announced late today by the National Labor Relations board. The union is an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Voting ended at 11 o'clock last night.

Meat Storage Holdings Dip to Lowest of Year

Cold storage holdings of meats in the United States on Oct. 1 were smallest of the year, the department of agriculture said yesterday. The total was 369,859,000 pounds of beef, veal, pork, and lamb. This compared with 431,272,000 pounds Sept. 1 and 720,979,000, the largest of the year, March 1.

BUTTER STOCKS SOAR TO A NEW ALL TIME HIGH

210 Million Pounds Held in Storage.

Storage butter stocks in the United States on Oct. 1 soared to 210,351,000 pounds, an all-time high mark for the second consecutive month. This was disclosed in the government's monthly report of the cold storage holdings made public yesterday by the bureau of agricultural economics.

The previous high mark of 201,543,000 pounds was set Sept. 1. Butter stocks on Oct. 1, 1937, totaled 118,697,000 pounds.

U. S. Holds Prices Up.

The record butter surplus has been built up as a result of unusually heavy production. Despite this large output, the federal government has been holding up the price of butter through loans to the Dairy Products Marketing association and through purchases by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation.

A total of $60,000,000 of government money has been poured into the butter market to peg prices since June 16.

The Agricultural Adjustment administration, employing the "ever normal granary" plan, authorized the DPMA to use federal funds to remove surplus butter supplies and hold the price of butter at 25½ cents a pound [for 92 score]. The theory was that when production declined, butter supplies would fall, prices would rise, and the DPMA could sell its butter at cost plus carrying charges. The pegged price, however, encouraged production, which already was running at high levels.

Cheese Stocks Large.

The report also showed that cheese stocks on Oct. 1 were 121,342,000 pounds, slightly below the record high mark set the preceding month. That record total of 127,979,000 pounds on Sept. 1, compared with 101,178,000 pounds on Oct. 1, 1937, and 105,026,000 pounds on Sept. 1, 1937.

Shell eggs in storage on Oct. 1, 1938, totaled 4,766,000 cases [141,127,000 dozens], compared with 7,058,000 cases on Oct. 1, 1937. This was the smallest total on record for any October first. Give Capital More Freedom, Safety, Brookings Head Asks

BY AL CHASE.

The return of private investment in existing industries is the greatest need to bring back prosperity, Dr. Harold G. Moulton said yesterday. Dr. Moulton is president of the Brookings institution, Washington, D. C. He spoke on "The Capital Markets" at the opening session of the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America. The sessions are being held at the Drake hotel.

Dr. Harold G. Moulton

Control of the economic life of the nation has gone from private to public hands, Dr. Moulton said. This has been brought about not only directly by grants and subsidies but also more subtly by threats of federal competition and by coercion, he said.

Cites Warning by RFC.

"To give but a single illustration," Moulton said, "the chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in an open letter warned the bankers of the country that they must loosen up in their policies of credit extension or expect to see an important part of their natural business taken over by government lending agencies."

The stagnation of the investment markets in recent years has created many difficult problems for banking institutions, Dr. Moulton said. Those trying to market securities, he added, have been confronted with new and baffling regulations and with such a restricted business that normal earnings were impossible.

Sees Savings Discouraged.

On the other hand banks and institutions seeking investment outlets for large accumulations of funds are finding it necessary to consider ways of discouraging savings.

"This not only prevents us from raising standards of living through the growth of productive capital, but it renders our savings impotent and strikes at the very foundation of the entire capitalistic system," Moulton said.

"For these reasons the restoration of the free flow of money through the capital markets into the expansion of productive plant and equipment is the central problem in economic reconstruction.

"Need No New Industries."

"We do not need any new industries to lead us from depression to prosperity or to provide productive outlets for the savings of the American people. All that we require is an economic and political situation favorable to the resumption of capital replacement and expansion in existing industries.

"The indispensable prerequisite to the restoration of prosperity is the reestablishment of confidence in the safety and productivity of business investments."

TEXAS COMPANY MEETS CUTS IN CRUDE OIL PRICE

Houston, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Texas company today met the crude oil price reductions posted yesterday by the Humble Oil and Refining company.

The Texas company reductions are equal to the Humble company cuts except on the gulf coast of Texas, where the reductions stop at 34 gravity and above.

In Louisiana, the Texas company met the reductions posted by the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, and in Oklahoma and Kansas the Texas company made a 20 cent reduction.

Ford Officials Predict Gain in Auto Business

Indications point to an improvement in the automobile business in the coming year, officials of the Ford Motor company said yesterday at a meeting at the Edgewater Beach hotel. They are in Chicago to discuss with Chicago district Lincoln and Lincoln-Zephyr dealers' plans for the 1939 models. A. S. Hatch, Lincoln sales manager, discussed the progress made by the Lincoln-Zephyr in the three years it has been on the market.
